Two Sharpers Attempt to Bunko a Santa Rosa Farmer.

THEIR PLANS MISCARRY.

The Intended Victim Becomes Suspicious and Scoree the Swindlers.

HURRIED FLIGHT OF THE MEN.

Both Are Caught by the Sheriff of Marin County and Make Confession in Jail.

SANTA ROSA, March 19.—An attempt to swindle Richard Crane, one of the wealthy farmers living near Santa Rosa, was made near here this afternoon. About two weeks ago a large, smooth-faced, well-dressed man came here representing himself as in search of a farm. He went out and looked at Crane's. He came here again last night and registered at the Occidental Hotel as "James Swann." With him was a smaller man with a dark mustache, who registered as "James Fox." Each secured a team from a livery stable this morning and went into the country, but in different directions.

The big man went to Crane's place and represented himself as Dan McGarvey, nephew of Judge McGarvey of Ukiah. He told Crane he knew his son, R. L. Crane of Ukiah, and that this son had recommended the purchase of the farm as a good investment. The stranger said he was from Alabama and had been left a big fortune by his father; that he had $40,000 in Government scrip which he had exchanged in San Francisco for greenbacks, and showed Crane a big roll of bills amounting to that sum.

Crane did not want to sell his farm here, but proposed that he go up to see his Dry Creek farm. They started on the road and soon met a man who said his buggy had broken down and wanted to ride with them. This was Confederate Fox, and after a little talk they proposed to have a game of cards with Crane.

Crane became suspicious and remarked that he believed they were frauds. The men soon after left him, agreeing to meet him again to-night.

Crane hurried to town and notified the officers, who watched at the stables for the return of the men. The big man, however, reached town ahead of Crane and left on the 3:30 train for San Francisco. The other man drove to Freestone, hired a boy to bring his team here and is believed to have taken the narrow-gauge train for San Francisco. Officers have telegraphed a description of the men all over the country, and it is believed they will be captured. The men are believed to be members of a band of confidence men who intended to swindle Crane.

Telegrams have been received from Judge McGarvey and Crane's son at Ukiah saying they never heard of Dan McGarvey.

CAPTURE OF THE BUNKO MEN.

The Sheriff of Marin County Has Them in Jail in San Rafael.

SAN RAFAEL, March 19.—James W. Swalm and James Fox, the two men wanted at Santa Rosa for trying to swindle Farmer Crane, are in the County Jail in this city.

It appears that when the two men left Crane's farm they both drove to Santa Rosa. Fox sent his team to the stable, entered the buggy of Swalm and drove with him to the town of Freestone, about sixteen miles down the road, on the North Pacific Coast Railroad.

Sheriff Allen of Santa Rosa had telegraphed to Sheriff Harrison of Marin County to stop the sharpers at some station in Marin County, if possible. Harrison and Deputy Sheriff Hannon arrested the fugitives at San Anselmo station and brought the prisoners to the County Jail.

Upon being interviewed by the Sheriff they both confessed. Upon being searched $350 in bills were found in their possession. Their satchels contained a lot of waste paper and a brick. If they had any counterfeit money, as was thought, they must have thrown it out of the car window on their way to town.

Sheriff Allen will call for the prisoners to-morrow.

QUEER HEALDSBURG CASE.

ARREST OF THREE WELL-KNOWN RESIDENTS ON CHARGES OF HORSE-STEALING.

PECULIAR PHASES OF A LIVERY STABLE TRANSFER AND ITS RESULTS.

HEALDSBURG, March 19.—T. L. Neely formerly proprietor of the Sotoyome livery-stable, his son William and Henry Brott, driver on the Calistoga and Healdsburg stage line, have been arrested here for horse-stealing. The complaints were issued at the request of A. H. Clyma and thereby hangs a tale.

About a month ago Neely transferred the stable to Clyma who, up to that time, had been employed by him as a hostler. The price at which the deal was made was ostensibly several thousand dollars, but a payment of $10 was all that Neely demanded of Clyma, accepting his note for the balance, payable in six months.

This strange transfer was made for some unknown cause, and last week that cause vanished and Neely invited Clyma to vacate the premises. This the latter would not do, but Neely took forcible possession. Monday he sent the Calistoga stage out in charge of young Brott, and his own son took another rig, both against the wishes of Proprietor Clyma. In the afternoon Neely decided that he would take a drive through the valley and took out a team for that purpose. Clyma had the three arrested for horse-stealing.

The transfer is regarded as a sham deal. Nevertheless, a bill of sale was given by Neely and it is on record. The preliminary examinations have been set for to-morrow, and in the meantime the accused are out on bail.

SANTA BARBARA'S FLOWER SHOW.

Preparations in Progress for the Decoration of the City.

SANTA BARBARA, March 19.—Charles F. Tidball of Los Angeles, who had charge of the street decorations in Santa Barbara during its last flower festival, has been engaged to direct the work again this year.

Experiment has demonstrated that nothing is quite as effective for this purpose as fish-nets strung with flowers, and this year the somewhat gaudy streamers representing the flags of all nations, will be dispensed with, and the decorations be almost entirely confined to flowers, with draperies of the American flag.

THE CARSON MINT ROBBERY.

No New Facts as to the Disappearance of $80,000 Worth of Bullion.

CARSON, Nev., March 19.—The chief topic of conversation here is the alleged robbery of the United States mint in this city of over $80,000 of bullion.

There are no new developments as the Mint officials and employes refuse to give any information, but they neither admit nor deny what already has been made public.

Various theories as to how the bullion might have been taken from the Mint have been advanced by ex-employes, but no definite conclusion has been arrived at.

SEATTLE MURDERERS' TRAIL

POSSES IN CLOSE PURSUIT OF THE CRIMINALS WHO BROKE JAIL.

ONE OF THEM FOUND IN A BARN FLEES AND ESCAPES THE BULLETS FIRED AT HIM.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 19.—The hunt for Murderer Thomas Blanck and the other prisoners, who escaped from the County Jail Sunday night, continues with unabated interest, but the ringleader has not only kept out of the way, but has also managed to eat pretty regularly. There is hardly any doubt that he is concealed in the heavy timber near here.

Monday morning at 9 o'clock Blanck appeared at a little schoolhouse some distance up the hill from the railroad track and asked for food. When informed that he was at a schoolhouse he asked who lived in the next house, some distance away, and made special inquiries as to whether the owner was an officer or took the morning papers.

The answers being favorable to him, he went to the place, which is occupied by a Mr. Bassett, and asked for work and food, and on receiving the latter offered 30 cents in payment, the amount he took from the night jailer. Before returning to the heavy timber Blanck told Bassett that he had two companions waiting for him on the hill.

Later in the afternoon of the same day a man who answered Blanck's description met children on the road to Benton and obtained food from them.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock a man that the officers think was Ford, one of the escaped prisoners, was found in Dr. English's barn near Renton. He took to flight and, although fired on with shotguns and rifles, made his escape into the lowlands near Black River Junction.

Ex-Sheriff Woolery was on his trail yesterday morning, but lost the tracks in the woods. He is still in the country and news is expected at any moment of interesting developments.

So far only three of the nine men who got away have been captured.

REFORMERS AT SAN JOSE.

THE HOME PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION LISTENS TO AN ADDRESS BY REV. DILLE.

CITIZENS SUBSCRIBE TO A FUND TO FIGHT THE UNLICENSED SALOONS.

SAN JOSE, March 19.—A mass-meeting was held at the Baptist Tabernacle in this city this evening, under the auspices of the Home Protective Association. There was a large attendance. The meeting was addressed by Rev. J. R. Dille of San Francisco.

The speaker made a strong plea in favor of municipal reform, and urged that good citizens should stand together for honest government, or the ignorant and superstitious foreigners who have the ballot will ruin the country. The speaker was often enthusiastically applauded.

After the address the audience was appealed to by Rev. J. H. Garnett to subscribe to the funds of the Home Protective Association. It was stated that money would be used in a fight against the unlicensed saloons of the county. A liberal amount was subscribed.

Y. M. C. A. Arranges With Creditors.

SAN JOSE, March 19. — The trustees of the Y. M. C. A. in this city held a consultation with the creditors this afternoon, and the latter agreed to wait for an indefinite period and not press their claims. The attachment suit on a $262 claim will be settled immediately, and there is believed to be no further danger of the association losing its fine new building because of the $20,000 indebtedness.

Suicide at Redding.

REDDING, March 19.—Jacob C. Kassel, in a fit of despondency, went into the attic of his dwelling, about 8 miles from Millville, this morning, and, putting a pistol to the center of his forehead, sent a ball crashing through his brain, the body falling in such a position as to allow the blood to trickle down the stairs. The Coroner held an inquest and found $280 on his person. He lived with a brother and was 40 years of age.

A Madera Man's Plea of Insanity.

MADERA, March 19.—The case against Miner Gould on a charge of assault to commit murder was continued to-day till March 22 on motion of S. J. Hinds, the attorney for the defendant, who presented affidavits of doctors of Fresno who swore that Gould was temporarily insane at Fresno, having become so during the night. This is the second time that Gould has become insane when he was ready for trial.

BILKED SACRAMENTO.

An Ex-Convict in Clerical Garb Deludes Church People.

After Winning the Confidence of the Pious He Borrows Their Money.

FLEES HIS MANY CREDITORS.

San Quentin's Prison Chaplain Makes Public the Record of the Swindler.

SACRAMENTO, March 19. — "Rev." John Alexander Smith, who has at various times occupied pulpits in some of the best churches in this city, is an ex-convict, a bigamist and an impostor who never had studied theology, and had never taken orders. So says the chaplain at San Quentin prison.

"Rev." John Alexander Smith left Sacramento some days ago. He also left a number of unpaid bills for board and lodging, and forgot to repay sundry small loans obtained from members of the Y. M. C. A. Smith was glib of tongue and theatrical in style, and his work was along the revival lines.

Some of those who had been deceived by Smith protested at first that the latter's intentions were not to bilk people, but that he was a victim of circumstances. But the following letter received in this city by L. L. Hudson and F. M. Odom, two of his victims, leaves no doubt as to Smith being a fraud:

SAN QUENTIN, March 15.

Dear Sirs: I noticed an article in the Bee in regard to one calling himself Rev. (?) J. A. Smith, etc.

He is not a Reverend, never was, has no credentials, never had, was never a priest, may have been a "hactor," as he calls it (carrying off dead and wounded from the stage); but is an all-around dead beat, crook and impostor and served a term in this prison for obtaining money under false pretenses (No. 15,062), and was sent up from Santa Cruz and served from August 22, 1892, to April 22, 1894. He is, moreover, a bigamist, having several wives living, with one of whom I am now corresponding.

Of course, you folks are altogether to blame in taking up with a man whom you did not know and without credentials. It would be a good plan to follow him up and warn people ahead. Information can certainly be obtained from the railroad officers, etc. Please write me further in regard to him and keep me posted, as I would like to learn his whereabouts. Yours, A. DRAHMS, Chaplain State's Prison.

BACK-PAY GRABBERS.

Assembly Clerks Who Are Still Waiting for the Money They Claim.

SACRAMENTO, March 19. — The five assistant engrossing and enrolling clerks have been and are still waiting for the extra $174 which the Attorney-General has announced is due them. They have received only $5 a day for their services during fifty-eight days, though the statutes say they must receive $8.

They had made complaint over a month ago, but subsided when Speaker Lynch announced that the first one complaining would be discharged summarily.

The secret of the matter was disclosed by Controller Colgan to-day. He claimed the Committee on Attaches was to blame.

"You see," he said, "five clerks at the statutory $8 a day would cost $40. This would hire eight clerks at $5 a day. So, in order to give places to more people they put down the wages from $8 to $5. Now these clerks who are complaining knew this when they took the jobs, and they have no real right to the extra money. If they had any objection they should have raised it in the beginning if they were not satisfied. That is what Judge Daley, the Assistant Attorney-General, thinks, and so he won't give them a favorable opinion.

"Judge Fitzgerald says the statutes leave no discretion in the matter. He comes home to-night, I believe, so I suppose they will get their opinion in the morning. This will relieve me of any responsibility, and I will make out the warrants."

Attorney-General Fitzgerald has declared in favor of the clerks before leaving Sacramento on Saturday, and promised to write an opinion to that effect. He neglected to do so, and as Judge Daley absolutely refused to perform that office for them the clerks have all been to the extra expense of staying over four days in the Capitol. They expect to get their money to-morrow.

NEW TELEPHONE LINE BOOMS.

The Business Men's Venture Gives Promise of Success.

SACRAMENTO, March 19.—It has been fully demonstrated by the success achieved in soliciting that the new telephone company which is being organized by the business men of this city will result in success. There has been a rush of subscribers and nearly every business house in Sacramento has signed the contracts, which provide for a three years' lease of telephones, the contract to be void unless 250 subscribers are obtained and if the line be not in successful operation within 120 days.

Several private lines leading from the city have already made offers to connect with the lines of the new company and, although the subscription lists have been open but a day and a half, nearly 200 names have been secured. It is fully expected that the requisite number will be obtained by to-morrow night, as numerous parties residing on the outskirts of the city have expressed a willingness to join in the enterprise.

Serious Accident to a City Official.

SACRAMENTO, March 19. — Thomas Woods, first assistant engineer of the Sacramento City Water Works, was struck by the pole of a wagon last night and received injuries that may prove fatal. Mr. Woods was on horseback at the time the accident occurred and had reached the corner of M street, when a double team dashed up Sixth street and ran into the animal he was riding. The driver attempted to check the speed of his animals, and the pole of the vehicle struck the engineer in the lower portion of the abdomen, inflicting a severe wound. As he is well advanced in years his recovery is doubtful.

INVESTIGATING FOLSOM PRISON.

The Grand Jury Summons Several of the Officials.

SACRAMENTO, March 19.—It is understood that the Grand Jury here has summoned several of the Folsom prison officials to appear before it, but on what line of inquiry their testimony is desired is not known.

Some persons think it may be in relation to matters connected with politics during the late campaign, while others believe the jury wants to know something aboat matters connected with the prison proper.

Robbed by Footpads.

SACRAMENTO, March 19.—H. Williams, a colored porter in the room of the clerk of the Superior Court at the Capitol building, was held up and robbed Sunday night at Fifth and M streets, by two tramps. Williams was returning home from a friend's house, where he had spent the evening, when he was confronted by a man who sprang out of an adjacent doorway and ordered him to throw up his hands. He obeyed and was immediately seized around the body by another man, who had stepped up unawares. The larger man made a thorough search of his clothing and obtained $6 40. The men returned his silk handkerchief and keys and disappeared in the lumber-yard.

Reward for a Murderer's Arrest.

SACRAMENTO, March 19.—A reward of $300 has been offered by the State authorities for the arrest and conviction of Giovanini Carrazzi, who, on the 20th of last December, murdered Ray Kenner in the city of Los Angeles.

New Member of the Dairy Bureau.

SACRAMENTO, March 19.—Governor Budd has appointed Louis Tomasini a member of the State Dairy Bureau.

SAN DIEGO MAN'S TROUBLES.

Emigrates to Nicaragua and Is Nearly Killed by a Peon.

SAN DIEGO, March 19.—Advices have been received here of the narrow escape from death of Eugene Uznay, a former resident of this city, who is now in Nicaragua. He was assaulted by a peon employed on the plantation where he is at present located, and barely escaped with his life, being repeatedly slashed with a machete.

The matter being called to the attention of the authorities a farcical examination was held and the offender discharged.

Uznay was offered English protection, but relied on American support, which was not forthcoming. The matter has been brought to the attention of Senator White, who is an old schoolmate of Uznay, and will lay the case before the Washington authorities.

A TACOMA SAILOR'S CASE.

BRINGS SUIT AGAINST THE SHIP WILLIE ROSENFELD FOR $25,000.

THE COMPLAINT ALLEGES THAT CRUEL TREATMENT CAUSED PERMANENT INJURY.

TACOMA, Wash., March 19.—Emil Grundstrom, a sailor on the American ship Willie Rosenfeld, who recently made sensational charges of cruelty against the captain and officers of the ship, says he is about to bring a suit in Seattle for $25,000 damages.

Grundstrom alleges that at the time he was shipped at Newport News, Virginia, May 12, 1894, he was unable to speak English, and that it was represented to him that the ship was going to the east coast of South America. Being desirous of emigrating to that country he joined the ship, and claims that from the time he went aboard he was subjected to unheard of cruelty. He says he was repeatedly assaulted by Second Mate Sullivan and was once struck by a bucket and at another time by a broom.

On July 15, off Cape Horn, during a furious gale, while suffering great fright, he says he was ordered to go forward and move some brooms, but the rolling and tossing of the ship and the cursing and threatening of the officers so unnerved him that he fell, breaking his legs. He alleges that he was not given proper care, and he suffered from blood-poisoning and scurvy, making recovery impossible.

Therefore he asks for damages in the following sums: Permanent injuries, $16,000; assault with bucket, $2000; assault with broom, $2000; assaults by Sullivan, $4000; enforced imprisonment, $1000; total, $25,000.

Captain Dunphy, the officers and owners are joined as defendants in the suit.

Lunatic Shaw Still in the Woods.

TACOMA, Wash., March 19. — A. F. Shaw, the crazy man who escaped into the woods yesterday, fully armed, is still at large. Deputy Sheriffs are loath to go far into the woods after him. No active search was made to-day, but men are watching for his return from the woods. Some think he may run across some of the posse after Blanck, in which case shooting will probably follow as Shaw is a crack shot.

Laughton's Funeral at Tacoma.

Thursday afternoon the body will be taken to San Francisco for cremation, in accordance with the expressed wishes of the deceased.

QUARREL AT SEATTLE.

FIGHT AT LONG RANGE.

QUESTIONING HIS MOTIVES.

Branding of the Railroad Manager as a "Coward" and a "Thief."

SEATTLE, Wash., March 19.—The simultaneous appearance in this city of E. V. Debs, president of the American Railway Union, and John M. Egan, president of the General Managers' Association, which conducted the great railroad strike, has resulted in their becoming involved in a wordy war. While Mr. Debs spoke quite kindly of Egan in an interview on Monday Egan said of Debs to a CALL correspondent:

"It is unnecessary for me to discuss Mr. Debs in the newspapers. He has already been discussed and the people know him pretty well. I pity the poor devils who go and spend 50 cents to hear him.

"The only advice they will get is to organize and strike again, and the last great tie-up, for which Mr. Debs was responsible, plainly shows what a success he made of it. The American Railway Union will never flourish again, and the only men who nowadays talk of having another strike are those who figured in the last one, lost their positions and are now anxious that another shall occur in order that they will be able to secure the positions of those who would be foolish enough to go out.

"There are hundreds of such men in the country to-day—men, some of whom have been in the railroad business for from ten to twenty years, and who were competent in every way. They had worked along and received good wages until Mr. Debs organized his union, told them that they were slaves, and that if they would only strike the companies would be compelled to raise wages. They took his advice and the result they well know. They will never be able to get back their old positions and they must suffer. Many of them will go hungry, but not so Mr. Debs.

"I think if you make a little inquiry you will find that Mr. Debs never went to bed hungry. He has drawn a nice big salary and is now traveling about the country at the expense of the workingmen. The A. R. U. may get up a good membership once again, but you will find that many of the new members are those who figured in the last strike, and who now want to encourage others to go out in order to make some new berths in which they may hope to drop.

"Mr. Debs, I suppose, appeared on the platform to-night dressed as well and probably a great deal better than many of the members of the General Managers' Association, and he lives just as well as any of them. I do not care to discuss the matter, except to say that Mr. Debs never won a strike and I don't believe ever will."

After reading this interview Debs addressed a mass-meeting this morning at which he said:

"Mr. Egan is a dishonest man and a ruffian. He is a thief and he knows that he is, and he knows that I know that he is. He could not hold a position as flagman on any road running out of Chicago and he knows that I know why. He has been connected with many railroads and he has robbed every road and every corporation that he has ever had anything to do with. He is a corrupt, low, dishonest man, and cannot conceive of any man having sufficient manhood to push aside bribes and remain true to his convictions.

"He does not like me, because he could not corrupt me, and he has no use for any man he cannot corrupt. I could have been in financial clover to-day if I had cared to become a traitor to the interests of the laboring men and the American Railway Union. I could have a life pass over all the railroads in this country.

"I have sufficient manhood to say what I think of a man to his face, and that is more than Mr. Egan can say. He would not tell me to my face what he had to say in that interview which was published in the paper this morning. He will never meet me in private or in public and discuss who are the conspirators, for he knows who they are, and what would be the result. That man is a coward, and I only wish I was where I could tell him so, and I venture to say he would not attempt to deny it. Why, 400 yoke of oxen could not pull him on the same platform with me.

"I have friends enough to raise a thousand dollars cash to any charitable organization in the land, and I want here to make a public challenge. I will agree to give a thousand dollars to any charitable organization in the land if he will meet me on the public platform and discuss the history and causes of the late strike, both to speak from the record. The record will tell and no one knows it better than Mr. Egan.

"It was at the instance of the General Managers' Association that the trial came to such a sudden termination in Chicago a few days ago. They do not want it tried. They don't want the truth to be known, and the trial was continued until May 1, and when that date comes around they will want it continued again and so on until the whole matter is dropped. But we, the accused, are endeavoring to compel the accusers to try us, and if guilty we want to be punished and if innocent want the world to know it."

DEBS AT TACOMA.

Takes a Hopeful View of the A. R. U.'s Efforts at Greater Organization.

TACOMA, March 19.—Eugene V. Debs arrived here this afternoon. In an interview he said that 2200 men have joined the A. R. U. on the Great Northern Railway system since he started on his present trip.

"Ten organizers are at work in various parts of the country," he said, "and I expect by July 1 there will be the greatest labor organization that this country has ever seen. I am working along the line of unification of all labor and trade organizations. Those men who deserted the American Railway Union in the late strike are now utterly helpless. We have now 100,000 members in the A. R. U."

VICTIM OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Faith That Did Not Cure a Dying Girl at Dayton.

DAYTON, Ohio, March 19. — Lillie Thurston Meade, a 13-year-old daughter of Harry E. Meade, and granddaughter of the late Hon. George G. Houk, who died in Washington while representing this district in Congress, died Sunday morning without having been given medical attention. The little one was a victim of faith cure.

Mrs. George Houk's daughter, Mrs. Meade, is from the best family in Dayton, but of late years has drifted voluntarily into Christian science practices.

The child was suffering from typhoid fever, was taken to the place kept by John R. Hatton and wife, who sent out faith-cure circulars here, and the child died from neglect. The city is filled with excitement over it. The Coroner has forbidden the burial of the child and has had the body placed in a vault and will held an autopsy to-morrow. Hatton and his wife are in jail, but no further arrests will be made except by direction of the Coroner.

FRESNO DAMAGE SUIT.

A Case That Is Based on an Accusation of Arson.

INVOLVES A MILLMAN.

The Plaintiff Alleges Malicious Destruction of His Property.

HE SAYS A NEIGHBOR DID IT.

The Defendant Will Be in a Serious Predicament if the Decision Is Adverse.

FRESNO, March 19.—Caleb D. Davis has brought suit for $45,000 against James Kearnes, who, it is alleged, burned a sawmill, box factory and 2,500,000 feet of lumber belonging to Davis.

The property, which was situated on Pine Ridge, in the Sierras, was burned in 1893, and the origin of the fire, which started at 3 o'clock one morning, has been a mystery.

A suit for the insurance was won by the owner of the mill, but the question of how the fire started was not raised. A foreman was in charge of the mill at the time of its destruction, and he and one or two other men were the only ones on the mountains at the time.

Davis alleges that Kearnes fired the property. Both men are well known and the case excites much interest. If the case is won by Davis, a criminal charge will be made against Kearnes.

FRESNO, March 19.—Hi Rapelje, the officer who captured John Sontag, the train-robber, has been employed by the Madera County officers to go on the trail of Clifford Regan and James Lawson, two outlaws and would-be murderers.

Regan is wanted as a witness in a trial for burglary, and at one time he shot and nearly killed an officer who was attempting to subpena him.

Lawson had been held for the attempted murder of his wife, and a short time ago broke jail. The men are thought to be roaming the mountains in Madera County.

WIRES WERE CRIPPLED.

Snow and Rain Played Havoc With Telegraphic Service.

KANSAS CITY, March 19.—Snow to the depth of five inches fell here this afternoon and to-night. The weather is not cold, and the snow is disappearing rapidly. Reports from the south and southwest indicate a rainfall ranging from 1 to 1 6-10 inches.

The telegraph wires in all directions are practically unworkable. Wichita, Kans., and Indian Territory points have been cut off from the rest of the country. The direct wires from Kansas City to Denver are all beaten, and that section of the country can be reached only via the northern route. The weather bureau predicts clear weather for to-morrow.

POLICE GATHERED IN.

Some of Gotham's Finest Arrested as They Report for Duty.

M'LAUGHLIN ON THE LIST.

Inspector and Five Captains Among Those Recently Indicted.

ALL MARCHED INTO COURT.

Bribery, Perjury and Extortion the Principal Charges Against the Accused.

NEW YORK, March 19.—All the police officials against whom indictments were found yesterday by the extraordinary Grand Jury were arrested when they went to police headquarters this morning.

The indicted are: Inspector William McLaughlin, Captain Jacob Siebert, Union Market station; Captain J. J. Donohue, West Twentieth-street station; Captain M. J. Murphy, West One Hundredth-street station; Captain J. K. Price of the McDougal-street station; former Police Captain William S. Devoy; Wardman Edward Glennon (dismissed); Wardman Edward S. Hill (formerly under Captain Price); Wardman Burns (jumped his bail).

Superintendent Byrnes said there was a warrant for still another formerly connected with the police force. The prisoners were conducted to the District Attorney's office by Inspectors Williams and McAvoy. Byrnes said the indictments handed him were all that had been found.

In the corridor the captains talked excitedly with their chiefs, but all professed ignorance as to what evidence they could have been indicted upon. When it was announced that all the prisoners were wanted in the court of Oyer and Terminer, where District Attorney Fellows was waiting to fix the amount of bail, the men filed into line, and, headed by Inspector Williams, entered the courtroom. Inspector William McLaughlin was the first called to the bar. The inspector, pale and trembling visibly, was addressed by the clerk, who said:

"There are five indictments against you."

Justice Ingraham was handed the papers in the case, and upon the recommendation of District Attorney Fellows, the bail was fixed at $20,000. The bail on the first charge was fixed at $10,000 and each of the other four at $2500. The bail in the case of J. J. Donohue was fixed at $2500; Michael J. Murphy, $10,000; ex-Captain William Devoy's bail was fixed at $10,000. In the case of ex-Captain John T. Stephenson no warrant was issued as he is now under $5000 bail pending a new trial for bribery. There are three indictments against Henry W. Schill, one for bribery, one for perjury and one for extortion. On the first two charges bail was made at $5000 each, and on the latter $1000.

Captain Jacob Seibert was held in $10,000 and Captain J. R. Price in $2500 for extortion. Edward Glennon, who is under indictment and out on $5000 bail, had $5000 added. James Burns is under indictment, and District Attorney Fellows said he had good reason to believe he would appear to give bail. The amount was not fixed. Carpenter is not on the force now and lives in New York. As soon as the formality of fixing bail was over they were taken back to the District Attorney's office, where their bondsmen were examined. The indictments against Inspector McLaughlin allege that the offenses were all committed while he was in command of the old slip station—the First Precinct.

Each indictment against McLaughlin contains five counts, four for bribery, one for extortion. The first four counts alleged that certain sums were paid him and received by him as a bribe, upon the understanding that he was to protect the giver from police interference. The indictments against Captains Donohue and Price charge them with attempted extortion, in that they endeavored to obtain money from Jared Flagg Jr., by threatening to prosecute him for renting flats for immoral purposes.

Captain Murphy is indicted for accepting a bribe of $50, on April 1, 1890, from Robert Payne, who formerly kept a concert hall on Eighth avenue, to protect Payne from police interference. The indictment against Captain Seibert is for accepting $25 on July 1, 1890, from Augusta W. Barney, keeper of the Magnolia Hotel, to protect her from police interference.

Ex-Captain Devoy is indicted for bribery and extortion. The specific complaint is that he took $100 from Francis W. Sergrist Jr., on May 30, 1894. Sergrist was at that time tearing down a building in Devoy's precinct.

Ex-Captain Carpenter entered the court soon after the other cases were disposed of and was admitted to bail in $10,000.

Ex-Captain Stevenson was indicted for accepting $100 on February 1, 1892, from William J. Prelle, president of the Liquor-dealers' Association of the Fifth Ward, to insure protection.

Ex-Captain Carpenter is indicted for receiving $1000 from William Harmann on March 1, 1891, to protect the members of the Retail Liquor-dealers' Association. A witness against Carpenter was Captain Schmittberger.

Ex-Wardman Glannon is indicted for taking a bribe of $100 on May 13, 1894, from Francis W. Sergrist Jr. He took the bribe for himself, and in another indictment he is charged with taking $100 for the captain.

There are three indictments against Patrolman Henry Schmit for bribe-taking from saloons and disorderly houses, and for perjury in false-swearing before the Grand Jury.

Ex-Captain Stevenson will be required to appear on Thursday morning to plead to the indictment, but he will not be arrested or placed under additional bail. The other indicted officers will appear before Justice Ingraham Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock to plead.

BOUND FOR LIBERIA.

Departure of a Steamer With Many Negro Emigrants.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 19.—This afternoon the Danish steamer Horsa, with 197 negro emigrants, steamed down the river on her journey to Liberia. The decks were crowded with emigrants and their baggage. The wharves along the river were crowded with negroes and whites. Thousands of negroes cheered the emigrants, who sent back cheers, while their leader violently waved a large American flag. The emigrants are in excellent shape for colonizing purposes. They carry an immense amount of baggage, probably 500 large boxes being taken on the steamship. They expended several thousand dollars here for agricultural implements, household goods, etc., and are thoroughly equipped for their new life.

Many of them have considerable money. They were given land by the Liberian Government. Some of them have been singing songs of praise and praying on the wharf while waiting for the steamer to complete its cargo. A new negro song, "Back to View My Native Land," was sung as the Horsa left the wharf.

TYSON IS RESENTENCED.

The Unfortunate Murderer Again Nearing the Gallows.

DENVER, March 19.—Judge Butler today denied the motion to discharge Henry Tyson and resentenced him to be hanged the second week in April. Tyson in 1888 killed Charles Summer, who had eloped with Tyson's wife. He was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged in December, 1889. He became deranged and the sentence was suspended. For three years Tyson lay in a dark dungeon, losing his senses of sight and hearing and power of motion. Recently under proper treatment his lost senses have returned and a jury has declared him sane. Before resentencing him to death, the court denied a motion for his discharge. His attorneys say they will take the case to the Supreme Court of the United States.

STOLE ALL THE WHISKY.

One Way of Getting Liquor Out of Bond at Small Cost.

The Warehouse Burned to Destroy the Evidence of a Novel, Daring Theft.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 19.—Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue Vandervord has unearthed one of the most novel cases of robbery in the annals of the Federal courts in this Staie. The story, as obtained from the confession of some of those implicated in the conspiracy, is as follows:

In 1892 Mr. Bieman of Walhalla, S. C., sold the Government distillery No. 374, located three miles from that town, to W. C. Tatum. In the warehouse connected with the distillery was between 8000 and 10,000 gallons of whisky, and the warehouse was closed under seal of the revenue officers, Tatum intending to hold the whisky for the period of three years allowed by law before stamping it. Tatum closed the distillery when he made the purchase.

A little later the stealing began. The warehouse was built on the slope of a hill. The robbers drew the staple of the door, inserted one end of a hose into a whisky barrel, squeezed the hose through a crack in the wall and syphoned the whisky into an empty barrel at the foot of the hill several rods away, whence they could haul it away without serious risk of detection. This process they repeated nightly until every gill of whisky had been safely removed. Then the band assembled one night, and, after filling the barrels in the warehouse with water, carefully replaced the staple and seal.

As the end of three years approached Collector Townes wrote Tatum repeatedly, urging him to prepare to take the liquor from bond, and it was while this correspondence was in progress, on the night of September 5, 1894, that the warehouse, with its contents was burned, Meanwhile the suspicion of the revenue department had been excited, and Collector Vandervord began an investigation. The facts above related were discovered, and the arrests of John Farmer, Ashbury Hide, William Whitman, Tony Watkins and John Rowland followed. They have been given hearings before United State Commissioner Hawthorne at Greenville and were held for trial. Some of them have made full confessions.

MAY KILL SCHWEINFURTH.

Coudrey Discloses That He Has Been So Urged by Church People.

Fight of the Aged Chicago Man to Recover His Family From the "Heaven."

CHICAGO, March 19.—George Coudrey, the Chicago stencil and die manufacturer, who is suing George Jacob Schweinfurth for $50,000, asserted to-day that he has been urged by many prominent church people, clergymen and laymen to kill the pretended christ. Coudrey's case against Schweinfurth for breaking up the Goudrey family was set for trial to-day, but the defense again secured a continuance.

The persistent delaying of the trial angered the plaintiff, who is an old man, and in a burst of wrath he declared that if he had followed the advice of his friends he would have gone to Schweinfurth's "Heaven" at Rockford and tested the "Messiah's" immortality with cold lead. The old man's excited declaration created a sensation among his hearers.

"Some of the most prominent ministers in Chicago," he said, "have told me that the killing of that man would be a Christian duty. Only the teachings and advice of Dwight L. Moody have prevented my following such counsel. Schweinfurth has broken up my home and taken my family away from me, and it is becoming only too apparent that I cannot get redress through legal channels."

Coudrey's wife and five children are now living at the "Rockford Heaven," and have resisted all efforts to secure their return, being unduly influenced, he claims, by Schweinfurth.

Union Pacific Officials Linger.

SALT LAKE, March 19.—President Clark, General Manager Dickinson, General Passenger Agent Lomax and other officials of the Union Pacific Railroad arrived here from Portland this evening. If he decides that the court has jurisdiction in the matter the Union Pacific officials will return to Portland, and the evidence on the petition for a separate receivership will be heard.

BENEATH THE WAVES.

Spain's Cruiser Reina Sunk Near Rajo Aceitanos.

FOUND BY A SEARCHER.

Divers Sent to Recover the Bodies of the Members of the Crew.

WAS THE VESSEL SAFE?

Recently a Report Called Attention to Her Very Unseaworthy Condition.

CADIZ, March 19.—The Spanish cruiser Alfonso XIII reports having found the missing cruiser Reina Regente sunk near Rajo Aceitanos, not far from the Straits of Gibraltar. Only twenty inches of the masts were above water. The Alfonso XIII has returned to the scene of the wreck with divers to recover the bodies. The Reina Regente carried a crew of 420 officers and men, and all are believed to have perished.

Deputy Diaz Moreau, formerly an officer of the Spanish navy, in the Chamber of Deputies March 14, read a statement of the former commander of the Reina Regente in which the writer described the cruiser as a vessel unable to weather a heavy storm owing to the increased weight of her armament. Admiral Beranger said the overweight of the cruiser's deck guns was rectified two years ago by his orders when he was Minister of Marine.

In Cadiz and Cartagena, where most of the crew belonged, there has been great anxiety and excitement from the moment the cruiser was reported missing. The Reina Regente about two years ago went to New York as one of the Spanish squadron which escorted across the Atlantic the Columbus caravels. The vessel was launched in 1887, and was one of three second-class deck-protected cruisers of the same build, the sister ships being the Alfonso XIII and Lepanto, all of 2800 tons, 12,000 horse-power and expected to steam twenty knots.

The wrecked cruiser was 320 feet long and had 50 feet 6 inches beam and draught of 20 feet 4 inches. She was propelled by twin screws. Her protected deck was 4¾ inches thick on slopes and her conning tower had 5 inches of armor and her gun shields were 3 inches thick. The armament consisted of four 9½-inch Hontoria guns, one on each side forward of the central superstructure, one on each side aft; six 4¾-inch Hontoria guns in broadside, forward and after pair in sponsons, middle pair in recessed ports and fifteen rapid fire and machine guns. She was also fitted with five torpedo tubes.

MADRID, March 19.—The positive news of the loss of the Spanish cruiser Reina Regente, which reached here from Cadiz, caused the greatest commotion throughout Spain. The Queen Regent was greatly distressed. By her orders the sacraments have been exposed night and day from the time the first report of the disaster reached here, and by her direction prayers for the safety of the crew have been said continuously ever since.

WOMEN WIN THE DAY.

Suffrage to Form a Plank in Utah's State Constitution.

SALT LAKE, March 19.—Utah's representative women had full and undisputed right of way before the committee on elections and suffrage to-day, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The delegation numbered nearly three score. They were present to give an unqualified indorsement of the memorials submitted to the convention yesterday afternoon asking for the enfranchisement of the fair sex of this Territory. And they gave that indorsement to the entire satisfaction of the committee, which listened patiently and interestedly to the arguments in favor of its adoption.

Ten of the fifteen members have already given the proposition their indorsement. The other five are of the opinion that the constitution should not contain anything concerning woman suffrage; that it is a question that should be left entirely to the State Legislature.

WATCHING RICHARDS' CASE.

England Will Soon Decide if It Can Interfere.

LONDON, March 19.—Sir Edward Grey, in reply to a question of Hugh Luttrell, representing the Tavistock division of Devonshire, who has asked for information regarding the case of Mr. Richards, who was sentenced to death for taking part in the rebellion at Hawaii and whose sentence was subsequently commuted to three years and a fine of $10,000, said that as soon as the necessary papers were received the Government would decide whether it could interfere.

THE COMBINE WAS ILLEGAL.

An Important Decision Bearing Upon Anti-Trust Law.

DETROIT, March 19.—Judge Severns in the United States District Court to-day rendered an important decision bearing upon the Sherman anti-trust law. About a year ago the Merse, Warren, Michigan and National Capsule companies entered into an agreement to pool interests and carry on the business of manufacturing gelatine shells for capsules under the style of the United States Capsule Company. The Merse Company balked and filed a bill to perpetually restrain the United States Company from doing business, on the ground that it was an enterprise to put up prices and bar competitors out of the business.

The defense was that the new company was not formed to raise prices, but to lessen the cost of production, stop the ruinous competition and yield a better product. Judge Severns takes the position that the trust was formed in violation of the laws of Michigan, as well as the act of Congress. "It became so apparent," said Judge Severns in connection with his opinion, "that the combination was intolerable under the Michigan law that it was not necessary to refer to acts of Congress which bear upon this same question." The case will doubtless undergo a review in the Appellate Court.

ONE CLEW TO THE LYNCHERS

Officers on the Track of the Brutal Slayers of Mrs. Holton.

Information Had Been Given by the Unfortunate Woman Against a Horsethief.

BUTTE, Nebr., March 19.—The authorities think they have struck a clew that may lead to the apprehension of the lynchers of Mrs. Holton.

Mrs. Holton was a German woman about 50 years old and fairly well to do. Her husband, Theodore Holton, was sent to the hospital for the insane at Norfolk about eighteen months ago. Since that time his wife has lived alone on the ranch, the couple having no children. She looked after a bunch of cattle they owned and managed to prosper as much as when her husband lived with her. They had been in that section many years and were well known to the cattlemen of all descriptions.

It is just this acquaintance that undoubtedly brought about the crime. She was the principal witness against a young fellow named Davis, charged with stealing horses. It is believed that he knows of the crime. His whereabouts is now unknown. This lead the Sheriff is following, and he expects results in the near future.

The country in which the crime was committed is far removed from the railroad and telegraph, and there are no towns near from which information could be readily secured. It is thinly settled, and of such a character that it is not improbable that this will be only one more added to the list of violent deaths that have occurred in that portion of the State which will never be explained or brought home to any one, though the authorities believe they can locate the criminals.

BANDIT ASSASSIN SILVA.

Death of the Man of Many Cruel and Wanton Murders.

Thinking His Wife Had Betrayed Him He Killed Her and Was Slain Himself.

SANTA FE, N. M., March 19.—The body of Vincent Silva, chief of the San Miguel band of robbers and assassins, and that of his wife, Telsfora Sandoval, have been brought into Las Vegas. The officers have been searching the country over for Silva for the last two years, there being rewards for his capture, dead or alive, aggregating $7000. He was the leader of a gang of desperadoes who terrorized the Southwest for years.

It is claimed that no less than twelve men fell at the hands of Silva alone. He presided at the whitecap trial which condemned to death one of his gang, Patrick Maez, for divulging secrets of the gang, and he supervised the hanging of that individual to a bridge in the town of Las Vegas. It is known that he stabbed to death Gabriel Sandoval.

When the officers got on his trail and his capture was but a question of hours, Silva, who was suspicious of his wife, fearing that she had betrayed him to the officers, killed her and buried the body in the sand near Los Alamos. Boasting of this crime to some of his followers they in turn murdered him and buried him in the same grave with his victim.

TORTURED BY FIVE ROBBERS.

Fiendish Cruelty Inflicted Upon a Pennsylvania Farmer.

Bound to a Board Head Downward, Whipped and His Feet Burned With Coals.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., March 19.—Word has reached here that five masked robbers entered the house of John McMillan, near Watts Mills, bound and gagged the hired man and three women, and then waited nearly two hours for the return of McMillan.

When he came he was bound to a board and leaned head downward against the wall, while the robbers threatened him with instant death unless he divulged the hiding place of his money.

McMillan had deposited a thousand dollars in the bank the day previous. After burning his feet with hot coals and whipping him unmercifully the ruffians finally believed his story and departed.

Mrs. McMillan and daughters, who were compelled to witness the torture of McMillan, are in a very serious condition from fright.

HIS MISSION TO JAPAN

IS A SIGNIFICANT EVENT

And May Lead to a Speedy Settlement of the War in the Far East.

ARRANGING TERMS OF PEACE

No Reason to Believe That Either France or Russia Intends to Interfere.

SHIMONOSEKI, March 19.—Viceroy Li Hung Chang and suite arrived here this morning to negotiate for peace between China and Japan. Envoys from the Japanese Foreign Office immediately visited the steamer conveying the Chinese Viceroy. Later Li Hung Chang, accompanied by John W. Foster, American adviser for China, visited the Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Li Hung Chang's arrival in Japan is regarded in official circles as one of the most significant events of recent days. It is the first time in his life that the venerable statesman of China has set foot outside of Chinese soil. At his advanced age he now journeys to China's traditional foe to offer enormous concessions as a means of securing peace.

It can be stated positively and authoritatively that the general terms of peace are already understood, and all that remains is the arranging of details within certain specified limits. The general terms have been brought about by United States Ministers Denby in China and Dun in Tokio. It was even feared at a late date that Li's mission might fail through the vagueness of his authority to treat for the ceding of territory. This was arranged, however, through the activity of the United States, showing that the mission would otherwise prove futile. The general terms of Li Hung Chang's authority are to cede territory, pay cash indemnity, grant the independence of Korea and arrange a new treaty relation with Japan by which Japanese extraterritorial jurisdiction in Japan will be gained. The exact amount of the cash indemnity is not fixed, nor is the kind of metal it is to be paid in agreed upon.

These and the boundaries of the ceded territories are yet to be arranged. So far as the arrangement has advanced Prince Li's mission is expected to be consummated within a few days, unless some unexpected hitch occurs. Count Ito, one of the two Japanese envoys, is a close personal friend of Li Hung Chang, the two having settled the Korean trouble in 1885. So great is the Japanese confidence in Li's ability to see that China carries out an agreement that his promise of a settlement will probably pave the way to a speedy cessation of the war.

The reports that Russia will intervene to stop the agreement are known to be misleading from positive information received here. The authorities believe that there will be no word of trouble from Russia. The same is believed to be true as to France, although not with the same certainty.

NOT YET CONVERTED.

Germany's Attitude in Reference to Bimetallism.

LONDON, March 19.—A dispatch to the Times from Berlin says that the Imperial Gazette makes the startling statement that the State Council in adopting Hohenlohe's declaration on the currency question omitted the phrase "Without prejudicing our imperial currency." The omission, however, is no indication that Germany has been converted to bimetallism. The declaration in the currency question that Hohenlohe read in the Reichstag was as follows:

"Without prejudicing our imperial currency, one must confess that the differences in the value of gold and silver continue to react on our commercial life. Following therefore the tendency that led to the appointment of a silver commission, I am ready to consider in conjunction with the Federal Government whether we cannot enter upon an interchanging of opinion as to common remedial measures with the other States, which are chiefly interested in maintaining the value of silver."

Colombia's Revolution Closed.

COLON, Colombia, March 19.—The political prisoners captured at Bocas del Toro, charged with complicity in recent disturbances, have been landed here. General Matri has defeated 3000 rebels at Suata, Socorro. The rebels are retreating toward Boyaca. The French cruiser Roland is going to Laguayra, Venezuela, in connection with the trouble between France and that republic.

A telegram from President Caro, dated Bogota, announces that the revolution in Colombia is over. The triumph of General Reis, commander of the Government forces, has been complete, the decisive engagement being fought near Medaga, Department of Santander. The rebels, numbering 3000, were defeated by General Matri at Suata, Socorro, and they afterward retreated to Bocayas and surrendered to General Mateurs.

Belgium Is Satisfied.

BRUSSELS, March 19.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day Count Wasterlee, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, announced that the negotiations between Belgium and Venezuela for the settlement of the difficulty caused by the expulsion of the Belgian Minister, who was expelled at the same time as the French Minister, have commenced, and it is probable they would shortly lead to a friendly understanding.

Rich Red Blood

In the body of an adult person there are about 18 pounds of blood.

The blood has as its most important elements, small round corpuscles, red and white, in proportion of about 300 red to 1 white one.

If the number of red corpuscles becomes diminished and the white ones increased the blood is impure, thin, lacking in the nutrition necessary to sustain the health and nerve strength of the body.

Then That Tired Feeling, Nervousness, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, or others of the long train of ills, according to the temperament and disposition, attack the victim.

The only permanent remedy is found in a reliable blood medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts upon the red corpuscles, enriching them and increasing their number. It thus restores the vital fluid to healthy condition, expels all impurity, cures Nervousness, That Tired Feeling, Scrofula and all other diseases arising from or promoted by low state of the blood.

That these statements are true we prove not by our own statements, but by what thousands of perfectly reliable people say about Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read the testimonial in the next column from a beloved clergyman. Then take

"In view of the benefit I have had from Hood's Sarsaparilla I wish to give the following testimonial. I have several times been badly

Poisoned With Creeping Ivy.

As the old school of medicine simply tried to remove the symptoms instead of the sources of them, much of the poison was left in my system to appear in an itching humor on my body with every violent exertion in warm weather. At all times there were more or less indications of poison in my blood, up to a year ago last winter, when on my body. I then purchased a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after using that and a half of another bottle, the sores and humor disappeared. I attended the Christian Endeavor Convention in Montreal and also visited the World's Fair in the hottest weather of the summer. Was on the go all the time, but of the burning and itching sensation which had marred every previous summer's outing. I have reason, therefore, to be enthusiastic in my praises of Hood's Sarsaparilla." SAMUEL S. SCHNELL, pastor of Free Baptist Church, Apalachin, N. Y.

Pat Crowe Adds Another Crime to His Career of Villainy.

When Arrested for Burglary He Gave Battle and Escaped.

DENVER, March 19.—Pat Crowe, famous as a train-robber, jail-breaker and diamond thief, shot and fatally wounded Detective Alphonso Moore to-night and made his escape. The officer, with Detective Connors, had located Crowe and two companions in a room at 1920 Lawrence street. They wanted the men for several recent burglaries in this city. The arrest was successfully made and the three prisoners handcuffed together.

On the way to the patrol-box Crowe slipped his cuffs, and drawing a revolver from his belt began firing at the officers. The fire was returned and it is thought Crowe was slightly injured. Moore was struck in the groin and cannot recover.

Crowe is famous throughout the country. One of his crimes was the robbery of a train at Ottumwa, Iowa. He has escaped from jails at Sioux City, Milwaukee and Chicago, and is badly wanted at the first place. He is supposed to be a member of the famous Evans gang.

WILLING TO ACCOMMODATE HIM.

Heirs of a Deceased Millionaire to Hyphenate Their Names.

NEWARK, N. J., March 19.—Provided the name of Clark is permanently hyphenated with their own names, John James Wright and his sister, Miss Elizabeth Montgomery Campbell of 371 Mount Prospect avenue, will each receive $125,000 by the will of their granduncle, John Clark, who died in Scotland, April 11, 1894. Clark was a relative of the Clarks of thread fame, a distinctively clannish family of Scots, with wealth running well into the millions. The legatees are comparatively poor, and have lived with Robert Cumming, a relative, since the death of their parents in 1890. When this rather curious will was made known before Judge Child in the Circuit Court, a statement accompanied the instrument which set forth that the legatees would make the addition to their names provided the court would sanction the change. This has been done by Judge Child affixing his signature to the application.

TOP PRICE REACHED.

Successful Sale of Nevada Steers at Denver.

DENVER, Colo., March 19.—The top price at the Denver stockyards was reached to-day by the sale of fourteen carloads of steers from Nevada, which brought $4 10 per 100 pounds. The cattle were loaded at Reno, Nev., on the Nevada, California and Oregon Railroad, and were in charge of J. M. Fulton, master of transportation on that line.

Mr. Fulton says the train runs were most satisfactory coming via the Western and the Rio Grande. The stock will be shipped out to-night via the Burlington's fast stock-train schedule. Mr. Fulton starts back to-night for another load. This is the highest price yet paid in Denver by 10 cents.

LUMBER-MILLS DESTROYED.

During the Fire a Watchman Fell Through the Roof and Perished.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 19.—A disastrous fire broke out to-day in the woodworking shops of J. R. Booth. The Pioneer Lumber-mills were destroyed, and the flames spread to the large storehouse and works of the Baldwin Refrigerator Company and the shops of the Vermont Roller Shade Company, and destroyed a large amount of stock and much valuable machinery. W. L. Millington, the watchman, fell through the roof of the building into the flames, and was burned to death. The total loss is estimated at $300,000. About 325 men were thrown out of work.

In a Dangerous Position.

GREENPORT, L. I., March 19.—A large three-masted schooner was blown ashore last night off Orient Point.

ORIENT, L. I., March 19.—The three-masted schooner ashore at Orient Point is the Mary A. Hall, Captain Veazy, of New York, bound east. She lies west of Plum Island Lighthouse. There are rocks on each side of her. The vessel is loaded with lumber, and it is impossible to land the crew owing to the heavy sea. The wind is blowing very hard.

Declared the Usual Draw.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—In a 10-round fight at the Central Gymnastic Club to-night for e percentage of the gate receipts between Welter-weights Wyley Evans (colored) of Indiana and Pete King of Cincinnati the result was declared a draw.

Knocked Out in the Eighth.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Dan Sullivan of Colorado defeated Al Lindholm of this city in an eight-round bout. Lindholm was knocked out by a blow on the chin.

HOLDS BACK A JOKER.

Why Spain Does Not Hurry in Apologizing to Uncle Sam.

ACTING VERY COOLLY.

May Call Attention to a Little Incident in the Gulf of Mexico.

SPANISH-CUBANS FIRED UPON.

Diplomatic Negotiations Relating to the Allianca Affair Remain Rather Mixed.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Information is said to be at hand that the schooner which recently sailed from Savannah, Ga., after having been watched by the customs officers, had on board arms and ammunition concealed under a deckload of lumber. Her destination is supposed to have been Cuba. The Spanish gunboats are on the watch for her.

Nothing is known here of the reported action of the Spanish ship Infanta Isabella or Arcedo firing on American vessels. There is good ground, however, for believing that the ship sailing from Savannah with Cuban arms aboard will furnish an actual case of detention if she is overhauled. Careful investigation is proceeding as to the cargo shipped by the Allianca at Colon, allegations that arms were taken aboard under cover of darkness having been made. Communications have been received in Washington from Cuba that the Conde de Venadito was the Spanish warship firing on the Allianca. These advices said that the latter ship was flying a British flag.

There is no further doubt as to the receipt by Secretary Gresham of a reply from Spain to his demand, but there is reason to believe the published reports have failed to state some important reservations by Spain. One part of Spain's answer may consist in calling attention to a charge that in November last a number of Spanish-Cubans were fishing in the Gulf of Mexico when they were fired upon by a United States revenue cutter, first with a canon and later with small arms. The firing is alleged to have occurred twelve miles from land. The Spaniards were carried to New Grleans, where, it is said, the United States Court for the Southern District of Louisiana released them. Spain has not thus far made a protest, but may do so now that the United States has protested against the firing on the Allianca.

As far as learned the State Department has not yet heard from United States Minister Taylor or from Consul-General Williams at Havana upon the question of the identity of the Spanish cruiser which fired upon the Allianca.

As the commander of the Conde de Venadito reported the steamer upon which he fired was flying a British flag, there is a possibility that his story refers to another incident, which may result in bringing Great Britain to the defense of her ensign, for the Spanish cruiser, according to the position taken by Secretary Gresham, was bound to accept colors displayed in answer to the signal as establishing the nationality of the vessel.

It begins to appear that our Government is not disposed to be unduly exacting in the matter of a speedy response from the Spanish Government, inasmuch as the entire Spanish Cabinet has resigned.

CROSSMAN IS POSITIVE.

His Affidavits as to the Firing Upon the Allianca.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A cable dispatch from Havana to the effect that the commander of the Spanish cruiser Conde de Venadito had reported that he fired on the steamer on March 8, off Cape May, after signaling her, and was replied to by the hoisting of the British flag, has brought forth affidavits from Captain Crossman of the Allianca and his officers that the American and not the British ensign was flying from the staff of the Allianca. The report that the Allianca carried rifles on the southbound trip was also emphatically denied by representatives of the Panama Railroad Company.

Captain Crossman's, affidavit is as follows?

Captain James A. Crossman being duly sworn, deposes and says he has read in the morning papers of this date, Tuesday, March 19, that the commander of the Spanish gunboat Conde de Venadito has made the statement that the steamship that was off Cape Maysi, Cuba, on the 8th day of March, 1895, which was fired on by his gunboat, hoisted the British ensign in saluting him. In view of this statement he does most solemnly swear that the flag hoisted on the staff of the steamer Allianca in salute to the Spanish gunboat off Cape Maysi, Cuba, on the 8th day of March, 1895, by his order and in his presence, was the American ensign. This is the only flag used for such purposes, the national flag of America.

The others who signed a similar affidavit were Benjamin Corning, first officer; F. W. Russell, second officer; W. H. Churchill, purser; A. S. Jussen, freight clerk; E. T. Kingman, surgeon. These affidavits will be forwarded at once to Washington by the company.

SENATOR MORGAN'S VIEWS.

He Favors Annexation or the Purchase of Cuba.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Senator Morgan of Alabama, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has remained in Washington since the adjournment of Congress and takes an interest in the existing foreign complications.

"I do not know what is being done," he said to an Associated Press reporter, "further than what is said in the papers from time to time. I am, of course, interested in the situation in Cuba. If the revolutionists are able to hold out for a year they will be able to secure material assistance from persons in this country, not only in the way of money, but in spite of all efforts to prevent it there are many men that are ready to go into a war for Cuba or any other war, and there will be no way of keeping them out of it if the men who are leading this revolt show that they command any strength at home. At first I was inclined to view the uprising as without any particular backing, but it appears now that it has grown to be quite formidable. Those people are not to be blamed for rebelling. It is only a question of time when Cuba will throw off the Spanish yoke. It may not be with this revolution, but it will come from future revolution."

"Are you for purchasing Cuba?" was asked.

"I have always been a Cuban annexationist," replied Mr. Morgan. "I am for purchasing the island or of any other method of acquiring it from Spain. It is an important island for the United States."

The Allianca incident was referred to and Senator Morgan said he approved the course of the State Department in demanding an apology and reparation. He declared that American merchantmen cannot lawfully be interfered with upon the high seas. He expressed the opinion that Cuba might be annexed, and said it was a great mistake that San Domingo was not purchased when we had an opportunity. No such chance, he added, should be neglected in the future when we were offered islands in the ocean over which we could exercise control and which were properly a part of the American continental system and were necessary for the protection of our coast commerce.

ADMIRAL MEADE'S MOVEMENTS.

His Squadron Handy in Case of Trouble With Spain.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Admiral Meade to-day cabled the Navy Department that he sailed with his squadron from La Guayra, Venezuela, for San Domingo. This move is in accordance with his prearranged itinerary, and if the plan is not interrupted by unexpected events the next points visited will be Port au Prince, Hayti, and then Santiago de Cuba.

EXCITEMENT DYING OUT.

Minister Murugua Keeps His Government Posted as to Public Sentiment.

MADRID, March 19.—Epoca announces the Spanish Minister to the United States, Senor Murugua, has cabled to Senor Groisard, Minister of Foreign Affairs, that the excitement in the American press, owing to the firing upon the steamer Allianca, is abating. Senor Murugua, according to Epoca, added that the resentment as shown by American newspapers was never shared by Pre sident Cleveland.

BAYARD'S DIFFICULT TASK.

ASKED TO SEEK AN EXPLANATION FROM ENGLAND AS TO NICARAGUA.

HAS ALREADY MET WITH A CHECK IN CONNECTION WITH THE VENEZUELA BOUNDARY.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—It is probable that Embassador Bayard will be instructed by cable to call the attention of the British Government to the British ultimatum addressed to Nicaragua and ask for an explanation of British purposes.

The subject must be handled with great delicacy and prudence, and, taken in connection with the attempt Bayard is making in accordance with the formal direction of Congress to secure submission of the boundary dispute between Great Britain and Venezuala, it will test his diplomatic abilities to the utmost to maintain cordial relations with the government to which he is accredited while persisting in forcing upon its attention these disagreeable subjects.

It is apprehended here, in view of the statements made in Parliament yesterday, by Sir Edward Grey, the Parliamentary Secretary for Foreign Affairs, that Mr. Bayard has already met with a check in his attempt to push the arbitration matter. This would be very unfortunate just at this time, for it would oblige the President to consider and decide what further steps are necessary to give effect to the intention of Congress and protect the republic of Venezuela from encroachments upon her territory.

It is felt in diplomatic circles here that the signs are certainly ominous of approaching trouble in the south with British warships bound for Nicaragua to collect indemnity under duress, with a French war vessel bound for La Guayra, Venezuela, to take the expelled French Minister aboard, leaving a wide breach of diplomatic relations, and with other European nations threatening to follow Great Britain's example in coercing the small Central and South American republics in the payment of debts and indemnities.

AS TO CATTLE FROM TEXAS.

Some Misunderstanding About the South Dakota Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—At the Agricultural Department it is thought there has been a misunderstanding as to the proclamation of the Governor of South Dakota. It is thought that the proclamation referred to is merely the usual one issued about this time to establish local legislation in conformity with the regulations made by the department to prevent the introduction of what is known as Texas fever among the cattle. The Health Department recently issued its annual report, restricting trade in Texas cattle. There is no pleuro-pneumonia in Texas. It is said at the Agricultural Department that the department has numerous agents in Texas, and frequent reports are received from them. The disease can not be communicated through slaughtered beef.

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS.

Collections From the Income Tax Now Cuts Some Figure in Them.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A statement prepared by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shows receipts during the eight months of the present fiscal year to have been as follows: Spirits, $59,058,538; increase over the same period last year, $4,085,763; tobacco, $19,761; increase, $1,096,999; oleomargarine, $1,108,276, decrease, $228,184; income tax, $11,818; miscellaneous, $436,320; increase, $343,324.

The total receipts for the eight months were $100,632,466, an increase of $5,180,622. During the month of February, 1895, there was an aggregate decrease in the receipts compared with February, 1894, of $1,701,445.

Tour of Investigation.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Interstate Commerce Commission is preparing for an extensive tour of the West in order to hear cases that have arisen in that section which demand adjudication. The rates from Pueblo and Denver to California are to be inquired into. The Colorado people claim that they cannot manufacture and ship rails, machinery or other articles successfully, while Chicago, St. Louis and other places on the Missouri River can ship the same articles to California at very much lower rates.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The statement of the condition of the treasury to-day shows: Available cash balance, $184,009,305; gold reserve, $90,445,032.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Concord has sailed from Chin Kiang for Shanghai. The Mohican has arrived at Fairhaven.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The President has pardoned Blue Duck, convicted of murder in Arkansas, and W. B. Faucett, sentenced in Arkansas to six months' imprisonment for counterfeiting.

BOTH ARE CAUTIONED.

Two Talkative Ministers Called Down Rather Abruptly.

THURSTON AND MURUGUA

Representatives of Hawaii and Spain in a Peck of Trouble.

GRESHAM ON THEIR TRACK.

Discourtesy Causes a Demand for the Recall of the Envoy From the Island Republic.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—It was reported here this afternoon that Secretary Gresham had demanded the recall of L. A. Thurston, Hawaiian Minister to the United States, and to-night the CALL correspondent received positive and reliable information confirmatory of this report.

Secretary Gresham has long been of the opinion that Minister Thurston was indiscreet and discourteous in giving information to the press in advance of its delivery to the State Department. He objected particularly to the publication of news in New York papers which he believed emanated from Mr. Thurston. This was a report of the trial and sentence of certain of the Hawaiian conspirators, and was printed in New York on February 13.

Several days later Mr. Gresham had an interview with Mr. Thurston and remonstrated with him. The Minister acknowledged that he may have been somewhat remiss in not communicating his facts to the State Department before conveying them to the press, and expressed an apology. Mr. Gresham requested that he put his explanation in writing, and Thurston declined to do this. On February 21 Secretary Gresham asked that President Dole recall his Minister. Mr. Thurston admits the truth of this and is evidently preparing to leave his post here.

Secretary Gresham requested Minister Willis to formally communicate to the Hawaiian Minister of Foreign Affairs the fact that Minister Thurston was persona non grata. The communication was sent by mail, and news regarding its reception may now be on the American steamer on its way to San Francisco.

The CALL correspondent is reliably informed that Secretary Gresham is very much displeased with the public utterances of Senor Murugua, Spanish Minister to the United States, concerning the Allianca incident, and when this matter is disposed of, or perhaps sooner, he will express to the Spanish Government his desire that it appoint another diplomatic representative to the United States.

Senor Murugua, with the ardor of a Spaniard, has allowed his tongue to wag too freely, and his discussion of the Allianca affair has been so intemperate and indiscreet as to greatly incense Secretary Gresham. The Minister now realizes that he has been too outspoken, and says that his statements, while positive and emphatic, must not be considered as an indication of irritability on his part, as he has no desire to be offensive toward United States officials.

It begins to look as if Cleveland and Gresham have determined to pursue a vigorous foreign policy in order to make some amend for their former hesitating and vacillating administration of State Department affairs which has made them so unpopular.

The Cabinet meeting to-day was almost entirely devoted to the several foreign complications on hand.

EXPLAINED BY DR. ROOK.

Ruling of Satolli Relating to the Fall River Cases.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Fall River dispatch was shown to Mgr. Satolli by his assistant, Dr. Rook, who subsequently explained the situation thus:

Mgr. Satolli has written to Bishop Perkins of Providence, R. I., suggesting that the facts are so exceptional in the Fall River cases that it would be well if the Bishop saw fit to suspend temporarily the application of the rule relative to Knights of Pythias members.

The exceptional circumstances as stated to Mgr. Satolli are that two of the members of a Fall River lodge are about to die. If they leave that lodge they forfeit their insurance money, and if they stay in it they cannot receive the sacrament.

Mgr. Satolli suggested that it would be proper to modify the rule so as to permit these two members to have their insurance without being debarred from the sacraments.

It also appears that the two Fall River lodges were exceptional in being made up entirely of Catholics, and for this reason Mgr. Satolli suggested that it might be desirable to suspend the rule in order that members might have the benefit of Easter sacraments.

The suspension is not of a general character, and is due entirely to the special circumstances at Fall River. Monsignor Satolli also wishes it understood that he merely advised Bishop Harkins that the facts warranted temporary suspension.

FITZSIMMONS ALL RIGHT.

No Truth in the Story That the Boxer Has Paresis.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 19.—Regarding the statement of Captain Glori, made at Newark, N. J., saying that Bob Fitzsimmons was afflicted with paresis, saying he had sunken cheeks, hollow eyes and a shambling gait, and would prove an easy victim for Corbett if they should meet, Martin Julian, Fitzsimmons' brother-in-law, to-day said that Captain Glori is discussing the subject "through the crown of his hat."

"I saw Fitzsimmons less than two weeks ago," said Julian. "His eyes did not shine like diamonds, but he was in robust condition and is taking the usual good care of himself. I cannot understand why Glori persists in making such statements, which he knows are untrue."

In the Diplomatic Stage.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Agricultural Department officials say they have no recent information concerning the protests made by foreign Governments against the importation of cattle from the United States. The matter is still in the diplomatic stage.

Negroes Settle in Mexico.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Secretary of State has been advised by the diplomatic representatives of the United States at the City of Mexico, under date of March 6, that between 700 and 800 negro families have recently arrived from the United States at Ilanhuanilo, Durango, Mexico, as colonists under a federal concession granted to W. H. Ellis, an American citizen.

LOOTED TRUST FUNDS.

Sensational Disclosures in the Whisky Combine Scandal.

CHICAGO, March 19.—The Tribune says: It is expected that the experts will have completed their examinations of the books of the whisky trust for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1892, by the end of this week.

Their report, it is asserted, will contain developments more sensational than any yet brought to light in the investigation of the career of the corporation.

These developments will be made the foundation for suits against certain officers and directors of the trust to recover moneys which will aggregate $2,000,000 or more. Then, incidentally, it is said, they will lay bare the facts in the conspiracy which culminated in the sale of the Shufeldt distillery which was marked during its progress by attempts to destroy the distillery with dynamite, and by the arrest of George J. Gibson, then secretary of the trust, on a charge of being implicated in the plot.

The receivers and others interested refused to discuss the situation. They admitted that certain suits were in contemplation, but declined to give details, saying the matter must first be tried in the courts.

From other sources it is learned, however, that the experts have found entries on books of the company showing that upward of $500,000 was expended soon after the arrest of Gibson and before the indictments against him were quashed, and for all this vast expenditure no debit entries were made.

Further, the actual disposition of most of this money has been learned from records found in the inner vaults of the company at Peoria, which was opened by expert locksmiths. It is on these discoveries that the civil suits to recover money so paid will be based. Some of these suits may be started by the receivers, though these officials refused to make any admissions in this regard.

RETIREMENT OF BISSELL.

WILL NOT GIVE UP HIS PORTFOLIO UNTIL MAY FIRST.

IN THE MEANTIME MR. WILSON IS IN NO HURRY TO ASSUME THE OFFICE.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—An impression prevails in some quarters that Postmaster-General Bissell remains in office because he desires to clear up some business that is yet unfinished. This is not the case.

"Everything is in ship-shape order," said Mr. Bissell, when asked about this. "I could move out at any time if it was desired by either myself or Mr. Wilson. The fact is I have my Washington house leased until the 1st of May, and the lease on my Buffalo house does not expire until the same date, and I do not care to be idle during the time while Mr. Wilson is not yet ready to assume the duties of the department."

The only regret that Mr. Bissell has in leaving the office is that he has not been able, owing to the failure of Congress to legislate, to carry out all of the reforms he had inaugurated, the greatest being that relating to second-class mail matter. He outlined his wishes on this subject in his annual report. He pointed out the enormous amount of second-class mail matter the Government was carrying that consisted neither of legitimate newspapers nor magazines, the publications for which the second-class rate was designed. Mr. Bissell was very much in earnest in this.

He went to many of the leaders in Congress with his suggested reform when the last session convened.

"I was told," said he, "that if this was pushed at that time it would interfere with the financial measures, and that all the time which Congress could give to legislation other than appropriations would be devoted to finances. I could not, of course, interfere with matters of such moment by pushing legislation in which there was less interest."

It is a source of gratification to the retiring Postmaster-General that the work of the department is up to date and everything ready for Mr. Wilson to take hold.

BRUTALITY ON A BOAT.

Arrest of the Fiendish Captain of an Oyster Schooner.

BALTIMORE, March 19.—Captain Jefferson Mears of the oyster schooner General Haycock has been arrested, charged with brutal treatment of Edward Merrill, a member of his crew.

The boy was stripped of his clothing when the wind was blowing a gale and the mercury was nearly down to zero. His wrists were crossed and tied firmly together and he was thus tied up to the rigging. He was then severely whipped. When cut down his thumbs were frozen. The United States authorities are looking for the man who assisted the captain in his brutalities.

Colonial Estimates Adopted.

BERLIN, March 19.—The Reichstag today adopted the colonial estimates after a heated debate. Dr. Kayser, Director of the Colonial office, defended Baron von Wissman's administration of German West Africa, which Chancellor von Caprivi censured last year. Bebel and Richter continued to demand, without avail, an inquiry into the charges which they brought against the Colonial Department.

FLAMES FANNED BY THE MORNING GALE.

STABLES AND SHANTIES AT SECOND AND BRANNAN GO UP IN SMOKE.

DEL MONTE MILLS IN PERIL.

A SCORE OF HORSES INCINERATED. KILBURN'S COOPERAGE SHOP GONE.

Fire broke out this morning at 1:50 o'clock in a stable on Townsend street, and communicated with a two-story frame building on the east occupied by Brown Brothers as a cooperage-shop.

It also spread to the west, destroying a two-story frame building occupied by Frank Crim as a dwelling.

It then spread to several shanties and stables in the rear and completely destroyed them.

The stable was owned by Brown Bros. and occupied by them and by Laumeister of the Del Monte Flouring-mill and their horses.

There were thirty-five horses in the stable, and it was reported at first that none of them escaped.

The fire got a great start before the alarm was given and the Chief was obliged to turn in a second alarm.

The fire destroyed Laumeister's barn on Stanford street, near Townsend, and with it over twenty head of horses, the wagons and drays and a large stock of hay and grain.

Within a half hour after the fire started the barn was burned to the ground. It was a one-story wooden structure with a loft.

The flames spread to Kilburn's cooper-shop, a building adjoining, and completely destroyed the stock in that establishment.

Before the fire was got under control it had caught the dwelling next the cooper shop. At 2 o'clock the fire was under control.

The loss is estimated at between $40,000 and $50,000.

The amount of the insurance could not be definitely learned this morning.

The proprietor of the cooperage shop was burned out two years ago. His shop was then on the other side of Second street.

A small frame building adjoining the cooper-shop was partially destroyed. It was occupied by Frank Crim, a laborer.

His furniture was destroyed and his family were obliged to leave the building in their nightclothes.

The great mill of the Del Monte Company at Second and Brannan streets was in great danger of destruction.

The wind bearing clouds of sparks blew toward it, and had it not been for the rain that was falling fast the huge structure would have been ignited.

The fire was started by an explosion of chemicals in a small room in the rear of the cooper-shop.

Fire from a defective flue damaged the three-story frame structure on Newhall place, off Lombard street, to the extent of $200.

Fire on Front Street.

The alarm from box 264 at 10:45 A. M. yesterday was for a fire in a shed at the rear of 220 Front street. Damage $100; cause, spark from a chimney.

IT IS DRAWING TO A CLOSE.

THE FAMOUS PHYSIOGNOMY CASE WILL BE SUBMITTED TO JUDGE MCKENNA.

MRS. STANTON TELLS WHY SHE MADE MANY MISTAKES IN PHYSIOLOGY.

The famous physiognomy case of Simms against Stanton is drawing to a close before the United States Commissioner. The plaintiff submitted his side of the question some months ago, but the defendant has been very voluminous in her testimony, and by persisting in conducting her case in her own way, has caused much unnecessary delay. No matter what her counsel has had to say on the subject, Mrs. Stanton has persisted in "ganging her ain gait." In consequence, her testimony fairly bristles with objections made by Mrs. Clara Foltz, the attorney for Dr. Simms.

When the case was called before United States Commissioner Heacock on Monday Attorney Wheaton for Mrs. Stanton was re-enforced by Fisher Ames. Mrs. Clara Foltz and Joseph D. Redding appeared for Dr. Simms. Every time the witness attempted to argue her own case Mrs. Foltz interposed an objection and Mrs. Stanton then continued the even tenor of her way. Once in a while her attorneys would propound a question to her in the hopes of getting her to clear up some hazy explanation she had made, but as she evidently had her course mapped out and her testimony prearranged she would not deviate a hair's breadth.

When the witness had made her explanations Mr. Redding took up the cross-examination. In answer to his questions the defendant said she had been married twice and that her first husband was J. T. Hanks. She is 60 years of age, and at one time worked in the family of Horace Greeley. All her leisure time, according to her, was spent among books, and her hope is that some day she will be able to pass an examination and add the much-coveted letters "M.D." to her name.

Redding took up the question of anatomy, and read a quotation from Mrs. Stanton's book in which she says the lower jaw is a continuous bone. "I know what you are getting at," said Mrs. Stanton. "That is an error and I'll admit it."

Asked what she knew about anatomy and physiology she answered she was not an expert, but had read many medical works and had used them as references. Since Dr. Simms began suit the witness said she had taken lessons in anatomy and at some future date hoped to graduate as a physician. She did not consider a knowledge of anatomy essential in writing a work on physiognomy.

"What would you think of a person who in writing on work on physiognomy made 233 anatomical and physiological mistakes, Mrs. Stanton?" asked Redding.

"That would depend upon the magnitude of the errors," was the answer.

"Well, Mrs. Stanton, supposing the writer of that book put arms where legs ought to be and legs where arms ought to be, what would you think?"

"I know what you're getting at," was the tart answer. "You refer to the place in which I place the liver in the thoracic or breast cavity instead of in the stomach. Well, I did that for the purpose of better illustrating my meaning. I was five years writing my book, and it is not made up of excerpts from other books."

"Can you name one new idea in your book, Mrs. Stanton?" asked Redding, in his blandest tone.

"Yes, the three natural divisions of the face," was the answer. Mrs. Stanton then pleaded fatigue and illness, so the court adjourned until next Monday at 2 P. M.

EMERIC AND THE OCTOPUS.

How the Fish Commissioner's Left Arm Was Dislocated.

"I am still in the ring," said Fish Commissioner Emeric yesterday, when he was asked why he had his good left hand tied up in a mammoth bandage.

"You are anxious to know how this thing happened? Well, la grippe has not a thing to do with it. I simply ran against a snag in getting off the line and the octopus was too much for me."

"Well, that's strange," suggested a friend. "Will you be so kind as to inform me what kind of a fish this octopus is, Harry?"

"Fish be darned," pertly replied the Fish Commissioner. "The octopus is not a fish: it is a shark which hesitates at nothing, not even an honorable Fish Commissioner."

"Please tell me all about it and how you came to have your good left hand 'in the slips,'" inquired an interested observer.

"Well, accidents will sometimes happen to the best of men, my dear fellow," retorted the recently appointed Fish Commissioner, as he glanced over his well-knit shoulders at the nicely bandaged member, and muttered something which sounded like: "If that happened to my good right piscatorial arm, now that the angling season is almost at hand, I would have—"

"Say, my dear old boy," interrupted a good friend of the Commissioner, "do not go into detail as to what you might have done if the right arm had gone wrong, but just tell me how this thing happened, won't you?"

Mr. Emeric smiled and casting a good line glance at his questioner said: "Yes, old boy, I will tell you in a few words how this thing happened. I was riding in one of the ten-mile-an-hour streetcars and being somewhat of an athlete I thought, as all athletes do, that I could get off at any point without having to ask the conductor or brakeman to slow up a bit. Now I know that I made a mistake. In stepping from the platform my head went one way while my nether extremities went another way. My good left arm did all in its power to keep my equilibrium in a safe pose, but singularly it failed, and the result was a wrench. The socket was thrown out of joint and this is the result—bandaged arm."

As Mr. Emeric turned to go away on business he added, "Do not for a moment think a wrenched arm will deter me from catching the biggest fish that swims on All Fools' day, as my right always speaks for itself."

IN SORROW FAR FROM HOME.

FUNERAL SERVICES OVER THE REMAINS OF ARTHUR P. PETERSON.

THE EXILE'S BODY WILL BE SENT BACK TO THE LAND OF HIS ADOPTION.

A large circle of Hawaiians, friends and brethren in exile, assembled in the undertaking parlors of Martin & Morrison, 118 Geary street, yesterday afternoon, to attend the funeral services over A. B. Peterson, ex-Attorney-General of Hawaii, who died at the California Hotel Saturday evening. The services were conducted by Rev. C. O. Brown, pastor of the First Congregational Church.

After the singing of a hymn, Mr. Brown read a chapter from the Scriptures, and delivered a short but touching funeral address.

The preacher read a biographical sketch of the deceased. He then said:

"As regards the political sympathies of him who lies dead before us, there is a difference of opinion, as there must always be in all earthly things. This much may be said: He was honest and sincere. He has now gone to meet the great and eternal King, who judges all with the judgment that is eternal justice."

The remains will be kept at the undertaking parlors until April 2, when they will be shipped to Honolulu by the steamer Australia.

The casket containing the dead was profusely and beautifully decorated with flowers. There were calla lilies, a large wreath of violets, heliotropes, a bunch of Eastern lilies, a wreath of smilax, pinks and a sheaf of wheat.

The following friends, all of whom are or recently were residents of Honolulu, were present:

C. W. Ashford, Charles Creighton, W. H. Cornwell, Consul Charles T. Wilder, G. W. Macfarlane, George S. Wundenburg, H. A. Juen, Mrs. Lane, Mrs. Brown, James Brown, Mrs. Waterbury, John Oat, Mrs. Oat, Mrs. T. King, Mrs. H. Berger, Master Berger, Thomas King Jr., Mr. Mahone, Mrs. M. Creighton, Miss A. M. GROSS ELECTION FRAUDS.

Primaries at Toledo Worthy of the Tammany Crowd.

TOLEDO, Ohio, March 19.—Gross frauds are said to have been discovered by the Board of Elections to-day in its investigation by special request of the tally-sheets used in the Eleventh Ward primaries last Friday evening and the result may be that the convention on Saturday, wherein Mayor Major was renominated, will be declared void. In the examination to-day it was discovered that five of the anti-Major delegates in the ward in question were counted out, whereas they had a minimum majority of twenty-eight over the others and the Major delegates declared elected. Other questionable methods are said to have prevailed in the Second and Fourth wards, and the tally-sheets of these will be gone over to-morrow by the board.

Weekly Call, $1.50 per Year

THEY DIDN'T ALL RUN AS EXPECTED.

GOOD THINGS WENT WRONG AND THE PLUNGERS HAD ANOTHER ROUGH DAY.

WHITESTONE BEAT HIS FIELD.

BOTH OF THE FIRST CHOICES IN THE STEEPLECHASE DUMPED THEIR RIDERS.

The usual card of six races, which seems to be the rule now, was run off yesterday to a fair sized crowd. It was a very spicy day's racing, replete with rumors, bad rides and tumbles. It was a day of in-shoots and twisters, and the plungers had a hard day of it. Pittsburg Phil remarked, after the last race, that the day's sport had cost him $7000, and I don't think Riley Grannan was far behind him.

The bidding upon the selling races was continued yesterday. In the fourth race imp. Vigor, running in the colors of George Covington, went to the post a heavily backed 6 to 5 favorite and won easily. Entered for $100 the colt was run up to $500 by Mose Gunst. It seems very strange that when the other horsemen that had entries in the race were satisfied at the result that a man who it is said is interested heavily in a financial sense in the doings of the Jockey Club should run horses up, unless the funds are getting low. It seems as though the general cut in salaries, even to those acting in official capacities, would have helped this out, and it certainly will not tend to popularize the track with racing owners.

The easy win of Road Runner in the opening event over the short six-furlong course was but a calm before the storm. Raphael, backed from 7 to 4, finishing third to Roma, the second choice.

A light welter-weight run at five furlongs proved the most elegant morsel the touts had encountered in a month. Anything in looked to have a chance, and every "crab" in it was backed. Robin Hood II was favorite, going to the post 11 to 3, but he never knew he was in it. Pittsburg Phil and Grannan both played Terra Nova, and after the race Bill Murray's face was nearly as long as his bank account. Kathleen led all the way, and won by a head from Terra Nova, Warrago a length further away.

Sympathetic's Last went to the post favorite for the third race at six furlongs, and if "Moose" Taylor, who owns and rode him, was trying, he has forgotten how. Taking the worst of the break, he was never in it. But this was not the only elegant exhibition of horsemanship in the race.

Another with more variegated colors was that of Jerry Chorn on Bookmaker Rose's horse Boreas.

Hiram Argo, Barney Schreiber's horse, made the running to the stretch, where the Duchess of Milpitas took it up, followed by Boreas. A hundred yards from the wire Wheel of Fortune came along and beat them both out easily. And Boreas, he finished third, probably because he was too far ahead to finish fourth. Chorn "flew de coop" for Memphis yesterday afternoon. Probably it was lucky for him that he did.

The fourth race, another light welter-weight thing at five furlongs, was taken by imp. Vigor, who won in a walk. Joe Cotton secured the place from Harry Lewis.

The steeplechase was a farce-comedy in one act, replete with funny falls. Three Forks opened favorite, but it was rumored that the Bay District Undertakers' Association had embalmed him, and his price steadily advanced until anything you asked for you got. Anywhere from 3 to 10 to 1 was laid against him. The good money went in on The Lark, cutting his price from threes to 8 to 5.

Three Forks went out in front, opening a big gap. Going over the third jump The Lark fell and that money was burnt up. After taking the sixth jump Three Forks stumbled, giving Clancy a bad fall, and that settled the second choice. Relampago, a 15 to 1 chance, then went on and won easily. April finished second and Haymarket third.

As far as betting was concerned the last race, a seven-furlong affair, was one of the hottest at the meeting. Grannan and Pittsburg Phil plunged Realization, bringing his price down from threes to 9 to 5. Whitestone was firm throughout at 2 to 1 and carried Dave Gideon's money.

The price against Jack Richelieu, 6 to 1, seemed very long, as well as 20 to 1 against Royal Flush, considering their weights.

The light-weighted O'Bee made the running to the far turn, where Jack Richelieu headed him, entering the stretch first, followed by Royal Flush. The latter assumed command in the stretch and led until a few yards from the wire, where Whitestone came along and nipped him out by a neck. Rear Guard was third, but a neck further away. Realization finished next to last.

Regret was expressed on all sides among the horsemen at the death of the young jockey, Robert Kinnie, who died Monday night at the Sanitarium on Eddy street, where he had been removed. In all probability the Jockey Club will set aside a day, the proceeds of which will be given to the family of the young rider, of which he was the main support. MULHOLLAND.

Track Notes.

William Murray, the owner of Terra Nova, who finished second to Kathleen, intended bidding the latter up, but J. J. Case, the owner of the Little Alp mare, offered her to the Sacramento horseman for $500, which was accepted, and she changed owners.

Dave Gideon must have made a killing on Whitestone, for he played him hard.

Abe Levy took an outside chance on Rogation for the place.

Barney Schreiber was greatly disappointed in the run of his horse Jack Richelieu.

Bob Davenport was very much in line on Wheel of Fortune.

All of the horses entered in the race won by imp. Vigor were entered to be sold for $100, and the run-up seemed uncalled for.

Some of the old-time members of the Olympic Club will, in future, be missing at headquarters, as may be seen from the following list of expelled members which occurred during the past month for nonpayment of dues, viz.: J. Brogan, W. J. Barton, A. E. Bruck, W. Hench, E. Lanigan, F. S. Milton Jr., J. F. McGovern, E. G. Wheeler, A. B. Crackton, P. L. Henderson, W. Lawlor Jr., W. R. Milton, J. F. Nolan, J. C. Sand, H. F. Jacob Schaefer, the famous billiardist, and Billy Catton, another crack player, arrived yesterday and are domiciled at the Baldwin Hotel. Schaefer and Ives will give some exhibitions here during the next three or four weeks, and in all probability Catton and Ben Saylor will give an exhibition of balk-line billiards at the Olympic Club. Schaefer will go direct to Chicago from here, where he expects to enter some business and make Chicago his future home.

VISITED THE GOVERNOR.

Supervisors Express Their Views Regarding Certain Bills.

The members of the Finance Committee of the Board of Supervisors waited upon Governer Budd at the California Hotel yesterday and expressed themselves concerning certain bills which are in the hands of the chief executive, awaiting his approval or dissent.

Those which the committee favored are Assembly bills 508, 600, 799, 114 and 798. They expressed themselves as against Senate bills 229 and 281 and Assembly bill 575.

There were some bills which they frankly stated they could not agree on. These were Assembly bill 391, in regard to pensioning exempt firemen; 736, as to pensioning teachers; 739, as to the increase of the police force, and 699, regarding existing judgments against the city.

The Governor listened to what the committee had to say and in response said that he would consider their remarks.

TO SAVE YOUR DOLLARS, if you need an efficient Cough Remedy, buy Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant. It may cost you the dollar, but may also save you many more dollars, together with much danger and suffering, for you will then have the surest known remedy.

WITH HIS PISTOL TO HER TEMPLE.

A YOUNG WIFE HELD UP BY A DESPERADO IN THE EARLY MORNING.

HE TOOK EVEN HER RINGS.

THE POLICE THINK THAT THE MAN WAS ONE OF THE STAGG MURDERERS.

"Give me the money that you just received from your husband! Don't say a word or make the least noise, else you are a dead woman!"

This startling command was heard by Mrs. James W. Clift at half-past 6 yesterday morning in her quiet home at 1412 Baker street. It was uttered by a robber, and probably a murderer.

Mrs. Clift's husband is a gripman on the Sutter-street line, and reports for duty every morning at 6:15 o'clock. At breakfast he gave her $10 85 with which to run the house for the ensuing week.

Mrs. James W. Clift.

Mrs. Clift, who is only 19 years of age, is in the habit of accompanying her husband to the gate and getting the morning paper, which is left in a mail-box. She did that yesterday morning, but just as she entered the hall leading to the stairs she was violently seized by the wrist, whirled around and confronted by a strange man who held to her temple a revolver.

Mrs. Clift had the $10 85 given her by her husband in her possession, of which $5 85 was in her hand and a five dollar gold piece in her mouth. The ruffian secured the money she had in her hand and then choked her into insensibility with the object of getting the gold piece, which he evidently knew she had in her mouth. In this he was unsuccessful, but noticing three rings on her fingers he demanded them. He tore them from her hands and put them into his pockets, and then left the house.

Mrs. Clift describes the robber as a very tall man, with small brown eyes that were close together. He had a large nose, clear complexion and a light mustache. He wore a soft hat, light trousers and a long light brown coat.

Fred Kiel, who keeps a grocery and saloon at Post and Baker streets, said that he opened his place at 5:30 o'clock Monday morning, and that a tall man wearing a light coat came into his place at the time he opened and asked for a drink. The man paid for the drink, but while doing so he made a sudden movement as though about to pull a gun. At this Mr. Kiel took his revolver from his pocket and laid it on the counter. The man then went out and proceeded down Baker street, where he was joined by another man much smaller than himself.

Mr. Kiel is of the opinion that they were the men who held up Mrs. Clift.

At 7 o clock the same morning two mne, answering the same description, called at the grocery of H. Witt, corner of Geary and Webster streets, and hurriedly got a drink.

The police are of the opinion that they are the men who murdered Cornelius Stagg Saturday night.

OVERSTEPPED HIS AUTHORITY.

Trustees of the Mechanics' Institute Rebuke F. Duke Smith.

The newly elected trustees of the Mechanics' Institute held their first meeting in the office of the secretary last night, and President Hallidie announced the standing committees as follows:

Finance, Ayers, Denicke and Root; library-rooms and library, Root, Bush and Formhals; books and donations, Leggett, Holmes and Denicke; lectures and classes, Bush, Manson and Fisher; printing and advertising, Formhals, Doolan and Kendricks; pavilion, Holmes, Cumming and Kendricks; machinery, Cumming, Root and Holmes; art, Manson, Ayers and Mooser; exhibits, Fisher, Bush and Doolan; tickets and admission, Doolan, Leggett and Fisher; music and decoration, Denicke, Kendricks and Formhals; management, Kendricks, Ayers and Leggett.

The matter of the Mechanics' Institute Illustrated Magazine came up and created considerable discussion. On the 16th of last October F. H. Duke Smith entered into a contract with the trustees of the Institute to compile and publish at least one thousand copies of a book or magazine of one issue, to contain a complete history of the origin, growth and progress of the Mechanics' Institute and of mechanical and scientific progress on the Pacific Coast. The trustees agreed to give the publication the moral support and indorsement of the institute. In order to defray expenses and pay himself for his labor the publisher should have the privilege of inserting all such advertisements as would not be objectionable to the trustees.

Last night Mr. Smith sent in a request that the trustees send a communication to the Manufacturers' Convention, now in session, calling attention to the forthcoming publication. Accompanying the communication was the printed copy of a circular letter which Mr. Smith said he had taken the privilege of issuing in the name of the Mechanics' Institute on the strength of his contract. The circular in question is signed "The Mechanics' Institute," and from beginning to end reads as if coming direct from the Board of Trustees as the publishers and responsible parties. The circulars have been extensively distributed. This action on the part of Mr. Smith was, by a motion, repudiated by the Board of Trustees, and the asked-for letter to the Manufacturers' Convention was refused.

THE MINERS PROTEST.

They Object to the Railroads Patenting Mineral Lands.

Protests affecting land in Marysville, Los Angeles and Shasta districts to the amount of 390, 31,231 and 274,815 acres respectively, demanding that patents be denied the Central and Southern Pacific railroads, have been sent to the District Land Office by Attorney A. H. Ricketts and E. H. Benjamin, representing the State Miners' Association. The Marysville petition states that the land applied for by the Central Pacific is north of Nevada City, on the southern side of the Yuba River, and partly on the Yuba, about three miles from Susanville, and is known mineral land.

One of the Los Angeles protests against the claims of the Southern Pacific says that all of the tracts are located in the mining belt, near the towns or camps of Perris, Menifee, Holcomb Valley, Peru, Alamo and Castle Creeks, Bear Valley, the vicinity of the Temescal tin mine and at La Laguna rancho. A special protest is filed in the same office against the patenting of land to the Southern Pacific for the reason that they are petroleum lands just south of Buena Vista Lake.

In the Redding district three protests are filed against the Central Pacific. In the first of these the sections sought to be patented are in such well-known mineral regions as Bully Chap Mountain, Redding Creek and Cow Creek to Delta on the railroad and Harney and Pitt River on the south, and from Trinity River on the west to Buzzard's Roost, Hendricks and Harney on the east. The second protest covers the lands applied for by the railroad between Susanville and Callahan's, and from Mugginsville north to near the Oregon boundary line. The third and last affects lands near Highland Mist and French Gulch, in Shasta County.

Other protests are to be made, amounting in all to about 500,000 acres.

A GIRL'S MAD INFATUATION.

IT LEADS LIZZIE BEHAN TO ELOPE WITH NOTORIOUS ROY RAYMOND.

THE POLICE SAY SHE WAS KIDNAPED, AS THE GIRL IS A MINOR.

Man's duplicity and a young girl's thoughtlessness are responsible for the elopement of pretty Lizzie Behan and Roy Raymond to Los Angeles on Sunday. Miss Behan is the pretty 16-year-old daughter of M. Behan, who has for five years past been a doorkeeper at the Occidental Hotel, and Raymond is a notorious politician, gambler and opium fiend.

Miss Behan has for several years served as waitress in Market-street resturants and until she met Raymond several months ago lived a model life. Her mother died when the girl was only 7 years of age, and Mr. Behan then placed her in a convent in Oakland, where she remained for five years, afterward earning her own living.

Miss Behan met Raymond first at a ball given in a Mission-street hall. Despite the fact that Raymond had absolutely no qualities to recommend him, the girl fell violently in love with him, the result being her downfall in a short time. Heartless and cruel, like most of his kind, Raymond treated the girl with unexampled cruelty, often beating and kicking her almost into insensibility. Yet, despite her treatment, the girl clung to him.

Mr. Behan was unaware of his daughter's disgrace until Friday last, when he received an anonymous note informing him that she and Raymond were living together at the Standard House on Market street. Horrified at the disclosure he appealed to Secretary McComb of the Humane Society for assistance, but when Officer Holbrook visited the house mentioned the couple were no longer there. Inquiry developed the fact that they had left the city for Los Angeles on Sunday evening.

The officers are convinced that Raymond has enticed the girl from the city in order to place her in some questionable resort and thereby secure a living at her expense. Under the law this is kidnaping punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary. Pictures of the couple have been sent to the police of the southern city together with the notification to arrest Raymond when found. Raymond has long been under police surveillance here, and if captured strong efforts will be made to send him across the bay.

DEFENDS ZOCCHI.

G. Bacigalupi Explains the Introduction of a Bill and Champions the Assemblyman.

The denunciation of Assemblyman Zocchi of the North Beach district of this city by Herman A. Pollak, for having, as Pollak declares, caused the defeat of certain bills in the Legislature, has attracted the attention of G. Bacigalupi of 627 Broadway, who defends the Assemblyman against the charges of crooked work, or acting for a pecuniary consideration.

"When M. Palmieri, proprietor of L'Italia, started for Italy a week ago," said Mr. Bacigalupi yesterday, "he asked me to take this substitute bill for printing done by the Franco-Californien, La Voce de Popolo, the German Demokrat and his own paper to Sacramento.

"I did so and asked Mr. Zocchi to introduce it. He had just got a telegram that his wife was ill, so I took the bill to Assemblyman Devitt, who introduced it. I had Senator Voorheis introduce it in the Senate.

"There was no mention of money or any consideration in any way by Mr. Zocchi or any one else in the matter. That man Pollak is crazy to talk that way about Zocchi. If Palmieri were here he would have him arrested. It is an outrage to charge Mr. Zocchi with dishonest work. He is an honest man."

SIR KNIGHTS IN YEARLY SESSION.

THEY MEET AND DISCUSS AFFAIRS OF THEIR BENEVOLENT ORDER.

GOOD SHOWING IN FINANCES.

THE SIXTEENTH YEARLY CONVENTION OF THE BROTHERHOOD. COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

The sixteenth annual session of the Grand Lodge of Knights of Honor of California was opened yesterday morning in Alcazar building.

Grand Dictator A. H. Voigt called the lodge to order, whereupon the committee on credentials reported that thirty members were waiting to receive the degree of "old age."

Fifty lodges in various parts of the State were represented.

Credentials and Returns—W. A. Nicholson, J. M. Cohen, Alfred Wilkie.
Appeals and Grievances—A. L. Hathaway, Dr. William Simpson, Charles F. Howland.
New Business—W. A. T. Stratton, J. H. Garneth, C. D. Folsom.
State of the Order—H. C. Austin, J. C. Carroll, W. E. Lankester.
Neurology—James Kennedy, George W. Branch, James Davidson.
Press—Henry A. Chase, Duncan McPherson.
Distribution—T. Learned, W. J. Thomson, C. A. Garthorne.
Laws—T. H. Macdonald, G. J. Vincent, W. W. Stockwell.

In his report the grand dictator sketched the history of the order and suggested that competition from other fraternal organizations be met by its members. He favored the appointment of an organizer, whose duty it should be to visit inactive lodges and establish new ones in desirable locations.

C. H. M. Curry, grand reporter, stated that the order in California has 3618 members and 55 lodges.

During the year thirty-two assessments have been called into the treasury of the Supreme Lodge, showing the number of deaths assessed for throughout the order to have been 2017, of which number 140 were half rate, 8 were quarter rate and 1869 were full rate members, thus entitling the beneficiaries of deceased members to a sum total of $3,880,000.

Subordinate lodges in the local jurisdiction made the following disposition of widows' and orphans' funds during the year: Balance on hand December 31, 1893, $4517 55; amount received, $125,441 35; total, $129,958 90. Amount paid to supreme treasurer, $125,845 66: balance in treasury, $4113 24.

"The record of our order is unsurpassed in the line of work for which it is organized," added the grand reporter. "Our death losses are paid as promptly or more so than are those of any similar organization. With our magnificent record we should consider it a privilege to have the opportunity to invite all good and true men to unite with us in our grand work for the protection of the widow and the fatherless."

The proposed new constitution of the Grand Lodge was presented and made a special order of business for this morning's session.

The committee on state of the order presented a report recommending that Dennis Murphy of Keystone Lodge and W. J. Langstaff of Liberty Lodge be created past dictators for long-continued services to the order.

A reception was given the Grand Lodge in the evening by the Past Dictators' Association, and it proved to be a very enjoyable social event.

The Grand Lodge will close to-day, when grand officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

HE FELL EIGHT STORIES.

Accidental Death of an Employe of the California Hotel.

John Banks, a colored employe of the California Hotel, met death in a frightful form yesterday. He was up in the eighth story of the building cleaning windows, and while standing on the sill polishing some of the upper panes, he lost his balance and fell to the pavement, eighty feet below. Every bone in his body was broken and death was instantaneous. In his fall he went through a glass covering which projects from the second story and the broken fragments cut and mangled his body. The deceased formerly worked in the Palace Hotel and was 32 years of age. He resided with his sister at 11 Stevens court.

The Box Receipts Attached.

The Sheriff placed a garnishment on the box receipts of the Charles Riggs Company at the Alcazar Theater yesterday at the instance of W. A. Fulwood and Albert C. Henderson, who have sued the company for $270 and $373 respectively for labor performed.

With a view of facilitating the export of cereals from Rnssia, the Government has decided to make the state railways responsible for any shortage in the weight of grain conveyed in bulk by railway over the Russian frontier.

THE BARBERS' ASSOCIATION.

BY-LAWS FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE ORGANIZATION ARE ADOPTED.

GETTING READY FOR THE BALL ON APRIL 18—A GOOD WORD FOR THE "CALL."

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Barbers' Association last night in Foresters' Hall.

The committee on by-laws presented its report, and with the exception of one clause, it was adopted for the government of the organization.

The committee recommended that all members should pay dues on the first of each month, and that unless dues were so paid the defaulting member should be considered not in good standing and be deprived of the benefits the association offers, one of which is that those in good standing can secure situations though the employment secretary.

This led to a spirited debate, in which many took part, the majority holding that members should be allowed two months' time before being declared not in good standing.

A substitute embodying this idea was presented by Vice-President Hammon and adopted by an almost unanimous vote.

Mr. Aubertine drew attention to the fact that the time for the ball to be given for the benefit of the union was drawing near, and that every member ought to do his utmost to dispose of tickets, for the money to be obtained from that source would go far toward placing the association on a substantial basis.

The ball will be given in B. B. Hall on the night of the 18th of April, and every member was urged to use his power of speech to induce customers who visit the shops to purchase at least one ticket. From the reports of the committee of arrangements, up to date, it appears that the affair will be very enjoyable.

The employment secretary reported the number of positions he had obtained for members during the week and announced that twelve candidates for membership had been elected.

Fred J. Breitevisch, the treasurer, stated that he wished to call the attention of the association to one matter. "You have no doubt all noticed," said he, "that the San Francisco CALL, the coming paper of this city and State, has been very kind to our association. It has devoted a great deal of space to our meetings to help us along, and it is only right that we should recognize its good work by becoming patrons of it."

His remaks were received with much applause.

UNTIL APRIL 1

To Give All an Equal Opportunity, Dr. Ellis Will Continue the $25 Rate for a Radical Cure of Rupture.

In announcing a rate of $25 for a radical cure of Rupture, Dr. C. Z. Ellis intended that it should be for a limited time only, and proposed withdrawing the rate on March 1. Since that date Dr. Ellis has had many inquiries from persons suffering from Rupture, who state that it was not possible for them to take advantage of the low rate before its withdrawal and requesting an extension of the time. Dr. Ellis does not want to show any favoritism in extending the time, but to allow all an equal opportunity will continue the $25 rate until April 1. It must be distinctly understood, however, that it will positively be discontinued on and after that date.

THE MONTANYAS AFTER MILLIONS.

PROMINENT SAN FRANCISCANS WILL CONTEST TRINITY'S OWNERSHIP.

ALMOST FABULOUS WEALTH.

THE PROPERTY IN DISPUTE VALUED AT OVER ONE BILLION DOLLARS.

The San Francisco heirs of Aneke Jans Webber are preparing to make one more desperate struggle to secure their birthright. This means, if successful, the possession of all the property in New York City now held by the Trinity Church corporation and variously estimated to be worth from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

Among the prominent San Francisco people interested in Trinity's millions may be mentioned James de La Montanya, Mrs. A. W. Fetter, Mrs. E. L. Bronson, Mrs. Halstead, Mrs. J. H. McGhee, Mrs. S. Harrison, Mrs. Schriner, Professor Martin C. Gee, Mrs. Griffin, James de Witt and the Kip heirs. The property for which these descendants of the royal house of Holland sue embraces 192 acres of land in New York, all more or less improved. Trinity Church itself is involved, along with numerous tenement blocks. Aneke Webber, or as she was christened, Aneke Jans Webber, was a daughter of Wolfert Webber, who took the crown of Holland about the year 1600. Aneke Jans married Jans Roeloffson, and coming to America in 1633 settled in New Amsterdam, New York. On the death of Roeloffson the citadel of her affections was vigorously attacked by Dominie Everardus Bogardus, the then leading clergyman of New Amsterdam. As soon as the blithesome captivating widow could becomingly dry her tears she married the beau of the settlement, four children resulting from the match. It is from this second marriage that the San Francisco and Pacific Coast heirs trace their relationship to Aneke Jans and consequent right to Trinity's vast possessions.

It is alleged by them that this belle of earlier days secured the property under a grant from the Dutch Governors Von Twiller and Stuyvesant in 1636 and 1654, which grant was confirmed by the English Governor Nichols in 1664. The Trinity Church corporation secured control of the property for a long term of years, and when the lease expired in 1889 refused to give it up. No one could be found who was willing to make the fight until Mrs. E. Keplen of New Albany, Ind., conceived the idea of organizing Aneke Jans associations in every city where heirs could be found.

The local heirs are particularly enthusiastic over the announcement that the State of New York has again taken the matter in hand and will see to it that they get justice if nothing more.

Mrs. A. W. Fetten, a sister of James de la Montanya, the stove merchant, in speaking of the impending contest yesterday, expressed the utmost confidence in securing a decision favorable to the heirs, though she was sure the Trinity corporation would employ any means to defeat them.

"This is the first time," said Mrs. Fetten, "that the heirs have gone about the thing in the right way. In the past there has been no concert of action on the part of those interested and only one result—failure—could come from such a course. Two years ago the San Francisco descendants of Aneke Jans met in this room and formed the San Francisco Aneke Jans Union. Since that time we have had regular monthly meetings, giving each other such aid and advice as the occasion seemed to demand. The main trouble has been to secure a perfect record of relationship with Aneke Jans. This, I am glad to say, has in nearly every instance been successfully accomplished, though with many claimants it was a most arduous undertaking to trace a lineal descendancy running through two and a half centuries. We came from the Bogardus side, and every marriage, birth and death down to the present time is complete. In addition to our interest in Trinity's millions the De la Montanya family are largely interested in other New York property nearly or quite as valuable. The property is located along Harlem River and the Meadows. We have a rich and powerful corporation to fight, yet we never felt so confident of winning as now."

Mr. Montanya is also very sanguine of besting the Trinity people, though he does not expect them to step down and out. Should they suffer defeat in the lower courts "I look for a long bitter struggle," he said, "ending only when the highest tribunal in the land decides in favor of the heirs."

For over a year past Mrs. Kepler, secretary of the Aneke Jans International Union, has had her assistant, Mrs. J. A. Hall, visiting the most important cities on the coast, her mission being to secure a list of all claimants and perfect organization. Mrs. Hall is now in San Francisco resting from her almost incessant labors. In a few weeks she will go East to make her report to Mrs. Kepler, after which she says the great legal battle will be declared on.

"I have spent nearly a year hunting up Pacific Coast heirs," said Mrs. Hall yesterday, "and have the names of about seventy-five people who claim to be descendants of Aneke Jans. It is quite likely that at least twenty-five of this number will fail to prove relationship.

"We are confident of winning the suit when the case again comes before a lury. The mistake was made in endeavoring to evict a tenant before the expiration of the lease. Trinity leased the property from the Aneke Jans heirs for a term of years, and now continues to hold it under a grant claimed to have been issued them by Lord Cornbury in 1700. If they hold such a grant it is illegal, because Aneke Jans owned the property under grants issued by two Dutch Governors and later confirmed by the English. When the lease expired six years ago there was no one to fight Trinity until Mrs. Kepler came to the front. She has the original grant in her possession and also the will of Aneke Jans. Three years ago the Trinity corporation offered to vacate the property if the heirs would pay for the improvements. We indignantly refused this proposition, because the improvements reverted to the heirs at the expiration of the lease. Trinity then told us they would fight the suit through every court in America. If 'might is right' then they will win, for they have millions at their command. Of course it is quite possible that we will lose, but the concession made by Trinity in offering to vacate if we would pay for the improvements is a strong point in our favor. San Jose, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle have local Aneke Jans associations and are ready for the fight. Mrs. Kepler is managing the fight and you may be sure she will make a strong one."

DANGER OF AN EXPLOSION.

A Coalpasser Said to Be Doing the Work of an Engineer.

J. Peterson sent a communication to the Health and Police Committee of the Board of Supervisors yesterday stating that the man in charge of the engines of the Commercial Steam Power works at 510 Commercial street is not an engineer and until placed in charge never held a position above that of coalpasser, and that if he is kept in his present position there is great danger of an explosion that will wreck the printing establishments about the locality. The committee instructed the Chief of the Fire Department to investigate the matter.

The bid of the Risdon Iron and Locomotive Works being the lowest, the contract for furnishing hydrants to the Fire Department was awarded to that firm. The bid was $33 64 for single and $44 64 for double hydrants.

JUMPING A MINE DOWN IN THE BAY.

REMARKABLE SUBMARINE CONTEST BETWEEN A DIVER AND A DREDGER.

FISHING FOR A RUBBER MAN.

THE DREDGER TURNS INKFISH AND STOPS THE WORK OF THE OTHER.

A remarkable contest took place yesterday on the bay and under it, off Mission street, between a diver and a dredger. The former was one of the Whitelaw wrecking gang, the other a boatman and the object of their contention was a prize of $340, said to have been lost overboard by a blacksmith from the ship L. B. Morse, which was moored at the wharf a few days ago.

Much doubt has obtained on the waterfront among those inclined to skepticism as to the locality where the money really disappeared, and that distrust was shared by the wife of the loser, who evidently felt that her husband, under great mental stress, was capable of lapses of memory. However, he took her down to the wharf next day and showed her the water in which the coin fell and she was satisfied. Such corroborative evidence could not be doubted.

For several days the boatman has been industriously dragging a hooknet over the place and was successful in finding everything that has dropped in the bay there for years except the money. The man would throw his drag overboard and patiently haul in to find that no sack of gold had come to his net. This he repeated until the patience of the loafers on the wharf was utterly exhausted. Finally his industry was rewarded by his drawing up a buckskin purse half full of iron washers, articles not wholly foreign to blacksmith-shops.

While the finder was sitting in his boat pondering over the possible phenomenon of a chemical action which turned gold to iron after a few days' submersion in salt water the wrecking scow pulled into the slip, and a diver, dressed in his best suit of glass and rubber clothes, went down to the bottom of the bay.

The dredger in vain protested that it was his claim they had jumped, but the wreckers kept pumping atmosphere down where their submarine shipmate was prospecting for the lost mine. Finding words of no avail the boatman threw overboard the hook-net and caught his rival, whom he hauled up to the surface in a very angry and very demoralized condition. The diver, of course, was unable to make any audible remarks from the great copper helmet that imprisoned him, but the language he was using inside of his clothes whistled out through the escape-valve at the back of his head like steam from a dangerously overcharged boiler. His air-tight rubber shirt and trousers were inflated with the compressed bad words until he floated on the surface, cork-like, and threatened to soar up above the shipping like a bifurcated balloon.

He hugged energetically at the little circular bay-window over his face, and as soon as he had freed his person from the fifteen or twenty atmospheres that encompassed him, he said things that were positively awful to hear. He talked until the skipper of the scow shut him off, and in, by closing the bullseye and dropping him down to the bottom again. The boatman began to worry the diver by dragging the hook around, stirring up the black mud as though a school of inkfish were operating down in the water. The other prospector came up his ladder hand over hand and threatened to go for a policeman, all dressed as he was, but was persuaded to remain in his natural element, and finally went down to the mine he had jumped.

The other fellow cast in his net again, but the diver below cut the line, and the fisher of men and money lost his apparatus. He drew his sheathknife and sprang over to the rubber airtube of the pump and tried to cut off the diver's wind. The spectators then took part in the contest and threatened to throw the excited boatman overboard if he persisted in his mad intention. He put his knife away, went back to his boat, and amused himself probing around in the water with a long pole stirring up the mud until the diver, unable to see through the black, thick liquid, knocked off work. To-day he will make another effort to find the coin, enrich himself, and free the blacksmith from a suspicion of having shown the wrong place.

TWO MEN IN THE "TANKS."

THEY ARE SUSPECTED OF BEING IMPLICATED IN THE STAGG MURDER.

ONE OF THEM IDENTIFIED BY ROBERT HAGERTY AS HIS ASSAILANT.

Two men are in the "tanks" at the City Prison who may or may not have had anything to do with the murder of Cornelius Stagg at the Ingleside House. One of them, James Baley, the peddler, arrested on the San Bruno road on Sunday night, has been previously referred to. It is not believed seriously that he was implicated in the robbery or murder, and why he should be detained is a puzzle, unless it is to keep him out of harm's way, owing to his past record.

The other is H. Meyers, a bunko-man. In November last, when Robert D. Hagerty was held up and shot in his saloon at the Cliff House by two men wearing masks and long gray linen dusters, he said he thought he knew one of the men. He afterward denied saying so, but since the Stagg murder he has again asserted his belief that he could identify the man. The description tallied with that of Meyers and he was arrested. Yesterday Hagerty visited the prison and declared positively that Meyers was the man. Meyers is equally positive that Hagerty is mistaken, and says he can bring forward a hundred witnesses, if necessary, to prove an alibi.

It is the general impression that the two men who are wanted for Stagg's murder are the two who committed the robberies at Hagerty's saloon in November and about five weeks ago.

Sheriff Cunningham of Stockton was at police headquarters yesterday. He has been on the trail of the two robbers who held up the eastbound overland express train on March 3 at Ben Ali, a wayside station near Sacramento. The two train-robbers were described as about 5 feet 10 inches tall, dressed in linen dusters and wearing white slouch hats and white masks. In everything except the height of one they correspond with the robbers wanted for Stagg's murder and the Hagerty robberies. In view of this fact the Sheriff's visit is significant.

The remains of Cornelius Stagg were interred in Laurel Hill cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from the residence of his cousin, Mrs. Josephine Oldis, 460 Chenery street.

Burial of the Murdered Actress.

The remains of Cora Everett, the actress who was murdered last Sunday, were consigned to mother earth in the Odd Fellows' Cemetery yesterday. The friends among whom she worked raised a subscription and saw that the body had Christian burial. Charles S. Rice, who cut the unfortunate woman's throat, is now in jail charged with murder.

Suicide of a Paralytic.

The body taken from the bay last Monday has been identified as that of Augustus Pepper, who disappeared from his home, at 1019 Valencia street, on the 6th inst. He was a paralytic, and it is believed that his infirmities drove him to suicide. He was 63 years of age, a native of Canada and a baker.

"My love, what magic spell is thrown Upon your face? Its charm I own.
Whence came thy pure and pearly teeth?
Thy rosy lips! Thy perfumed breath?"
She said, in accents sweet and clear,
"'Tis only SOZODONT, my dear."

GONE TO LOS ANGELES.

The Little Dancer, La Regaloncita, No Longer Here.

The publication in the CALL yesterday of the facts in connection with the case of Manager Walter of the Orpheum, who was arrested for permitting the nine-year-old dancer, La Regaloncita, to appear on his stage, has resulted in the sudden departure for Los Angeles of Mrs. Charlotte Ewer and her three daughters.

The case of La Regaloncita will come up for hearing in Judge Joachimsen's court to-day, but the trial will lose its interest now that the principal witnesses have gone. The Humane Society will push its case against Manager Walter, but as its leading witnesses are no longer in the city, it is thought a dismissal will be the result.

No reason is assigned for the abrupt departure of Mrs. Ewer with her family of dancers, although it is surmised that she has the least basis of fact on which to rest. We have also found a small deficit at the Bank of California—just a few hundred dollars—and this, too, will be mentioned in the executors' report."

About $400 is believed to be the sum discovered outside of the strong box, so that the Stow estate is enriched to the limited amount of some $600.

Sudden Death of a Hackman.

James Roberts, an old hackman, died of heart disease at 2303 Geary street about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

BIDS RAISED 10 PER CENT.

STILL JUDGE COFFEY REFUSED TO CONFIRM THE SALE OF PROPERTY.

MRS. JOHNSON'S REALTY HELD FOR HIGHER OFFERS—EASTON'S AUCTION.

The postponed sale of four pieces of property belonging to the estate of Mrs. Kate Johnson came before Judge Coffey yesterday. The sales were not confirmed, however, even though a 10-per-cent raise had been made in each case, as the court considered the prices too small in warranting a confirmation of the sales. The confirmation of the bids offered yesterday was therefore postponed until next Monday afternoon.

The property offered yesterday and which included the only lots which were not finally confirmed to the highest bidders a week ago were the fifty-vara lot on the northwest corner of Golden Gate avenue and Leavenworth street, the fifty-vara lot on the southwest corner of Leavenworth and O'Farrell streets, which was used by Mrs. Johnson as a residence, and two lots in the outside lands. For the Golden Gate avenue lot Thomas J. Clunie had bid $74,000. It was appraised at $120,000. Yesterday James D. Phelan raised this bid 10 per cent, making it $81,400, and this Mr. Clunie declined to increase. He claimed the bids offered at the sale should have been affirmed by the court last week, when higher bids were called for and none appeared.

Should this bid of Mr. Phelan be confirmed Clunie intends to make a legal fight for the property.

The bid of $45,000 for the residence property, made last week by J. J. O'Farrell, was yesterday raised by N. H. Lang the required 10 per cent, making it $49,500. The residence property was appraised at $65,000. This bid was also laid aside until Monday next. Mr. Lang was bidding for Joseph Hume.

The outside lots, one in block 25 and the other in block 799, were raised, the former to $1650 and the latter to $4750. Neither bid was anywhere near the appraised valuation and they, too, were passed until Monday. The lot in block 25 is appraised at $3750 and the one in block 799 at $7500.

Easton, Eldridge & Co. held an auction yesterday and sold the following property:

Lot south side of Oak street, east of Clayton, 25x137:6 feet; $2475. Stores and flats on Eighteenth street, being Nos. 836 and 838, east of Noe, renting for $32 50 per month, with lot 35x100 feet; $3250. Nos. 1010 and 1012 Broderick street, south of Eddy, being a double cottage of seven rooms and bath each, with lot 32x100 feet; $7900.

Properties as follows were knocked down subject to approval of owners:

House and lot 50x50 feet on the southeast corner of Union and Moultrie streets, being in Gift Map No. 2; $1100. 2209 Fillmore street, containing ten rooms, with lot 25x90:6 feet; $5500. Two tenements on Florida street, south of Twenty-fourth, renting for $20 a month, with lot 30x100; $2080. Cottage 909 Sanchez street, south of Twenty-second, containing four rooms and bath, with lot 22:6x100 feet; $1675.

Charged With Robbery.

The two men arrested on Monday night by Sergeant Thomson of the park police for robbing Daniel Sheehan are Morris Cunningham and Thomas Paul. They were booked yesterday morning on the charge of robbery. Cunningham is the one who was positively identified by Sheehan in the Receiving Hospital.

WAR ON THE WATER FRONT.

THE SAILORS' UNION DEMANDS A TEN-DOLLAR INCREASE IN WAGES.

A STRIKE ALONG THE COAST.

SHIP-OWNERS REFUSE TO ACCEDE TO THE DEMAND—CREWS TAKEN OUT.

The Sailors' Union has declared war against the ship-owners, and a strike is on all along the coast from San Diego to Puget Sound. For more than two years the rate of wages on the coast has been $25 a month, and now the seamen demand $35. They have chosen a most opportune time for making the demand as sailors from this on will be more scarce than at any period during the year. The sealers and most of the whalers have gone away, and now preparations are being made to send out the big Alaskan fleet. The latter will require at least 200 men, and from that number to 300, and this will naturally create a scarcity of seamen on the beach.

The last strike which was held on the coast resulted in a long list of abuses and assaults, terminating in the blowing up of John Curtin's boarding-house on Main street by dynamite, in which three men were killed. This is about a year and a half ago, and since then the union has not made any demonstration. The Ship-owners' Association secured all the sailors necessary for the coast trade and no inquiry was made as to whether the men enrolled on its books were members of the Sailors' Union. The latter has been quietly working for nearly a year gathering the association's men into its ranks until now nearly all of them are union men. This has been done so that when the word to go out is given the association's vessels will be deserted. The ship-owners are not dismayed by the condition of affairs and claim that they can get all the deep-water men they want. The most serious trouble will occur at other ports.

The demand of the union for an increase in wages went into effect on Monday afternoon. The bark McNear was ready to go to sea yesterday morning, but on Monday night five of the crew were taken out of the vessel. The men were replaced by John Cain yesterday and the McNear sailed in the afternoon. The crew of the J. M. Coleman was taken out yesterday after a battle, but the schooner sailed in the afternoon. "Scab" Johnnie furnishing a crew for $22 50 a man. The crew of the Lyman D. Foster quit on Monday night, but this, it is claimed, was caused by the men being compelled to work overtime.

The bark Wilna is to sail for the Sound to-day, but she has not yet secured a crew. Last night four "scabs" were secured to shift her, and her sails were quietly bent in the darkness. To-day a crew of negroes will be put on board, and the Wilna's owners hope to get her off. The Sailors' Union will stand firm on their proposition, and the men express confidence in their ability to win the strike, and at the Ship-owners' Association it was stated that every vessel belonging to the association will sail on time with a full crew at the wages of $25 a month. So the fight goes, and the strike promises to be a long one.

The meeting last night crowded Sailors' Hall to its limits. There were fully 400 sailors present, a large number being non-union men. The meeting was presided over by L. Hoy.

A number of addresses were made calling upon those present to stand with the union for its demand; reviewing the causes of the strike, the reduction of the number of men in the crews of both sailing and steam vessels, the lengthening of the hours and the series of complaints that have brought about the trouble.

Resolutions were adopted seconding the action of the union of the previous evening and declaring that all present would stand together in their demands for $35 and $40.

REVENGE OF A CRAZY WOMAN.

Mrs. Honora Johnston Attempts to Burn Down a Row of Houses.

Fire Marshal Towe and the police were notified yesterday of a case of attempted arson by a woman who is said to be actuated by motives of revenge.

Yesterday afternoon James Sullivan, who lives at 3620 Sacramento street, called at the Fire Marshal's office and complained that a woman had attempted to burn down his house. He said he was awakened between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning by the loud tones of a woman's voice. He heard her say, "I'll blow this house up or set it on fire with coal oil." He got out of bed and recognized the woman as Mrs. Honora Johnston, who had been evicted by the Sheriff from No. 3626 about two years ago. The row of houses belong to William Hale, and since then she has threatened to burn them down. Two weeks ago she destroyed the fence between Sullivan's house and his next door neighbor's.

Sullivan and his wife sat up, and it was not till 6 o'clock that Mrs. Johnston left. After she had gone they went to the rear of the house and found two sacks saturated with coal oil and placed against some lattice work. The bottom boards of the building were covered with oil and a large quantity had been poured through a knot hole. A lot of burned matches were scattered about and there was every evidence that an attempt had been made to burn down the building.

The Fire Marshal took Sullivan to Captain Douglass, who sent Policeman Cohn to arrest Mrs. Johnston. As the woman appeared to be out of her mind she was taken to the Receiving Hospital to await her examination before the Insanity Commissioners.

OF INTEREST TO US.

Bills Now in the Governor's Hands for Signature or Veto.

Among the bills in the hands of the Governor for signature or veto are a number of interest to San Francisco. One provides for the construction of the completed part of the new City Hall, and another authorizes the Supervisors to levy a tax of 10 cents this year for the completion of the new City Hall; another provides for the erection of a new City Hall on the site of the old one.

Another bill provides for a new Home for Inebriates, to be erected by the city; another provides for a $250,000 building for the affiliated colleges in San Francisco.

The new primary election law, which applies to San Francisco and Los Angeles, provides that the primary will be a general election, all parties participating, and another Assembly bill provides for the appointment of a new Board of Election Commissioners by the Mayor, which board will appoint a registrar; two members of the board will hold over. Another Assembly bill requires lodging-house keepers to keep a list of their lodgers and report them to the Election Commissioners. This is to prevent stuffing.

The schoolteachers' annuity bill is among the list, providing for $45 a month annuity to all teachers upon retirement after twenty yerss' service.

Another bill provides for the establishment of sanitary districts and the election of a sanitary board, who may regulate the existence of saloons and houses of ill-fame within the district. Other bills are those requiring that old soldiers shall be given preference for employment on public works; prohibiting companies not members of the National Guard from parading with guns in the streets; the barbers' Sunday rest bill; the bill providing for the repeal of the street railroad fare act of 1878, and that all franchises shall be sold to the highest bidder.

FRUIT TRANSPORTATION.

New Method of Packing Invented by a San Franciscan.

There is probably no one matter which is receiving the same attention at present at the hands of the Railroad Commission as that of fruit transportation and the fact being generally known leads to that body receiving many suggestions on the subject, many of which are possessed of merit.

Dr. H. L. McKillops of this city has submitted to the body named a new method of packing deciduous fruits, which it is claimed is destined to find general favor.

The plan is to place each orange (that class of fruit being taken merely for illustrative purposes) in a pasteboard circle, which prevents contact with the other fruit and which causes the most thorough ventilation.

The present style boxes can be used and any shape of fruit can be packed therein. No expert packers are required, and the pasteboard circle is said to be as cheap as wrapping paper.

It is said that eight tons more of fruit can be shipped in a car by this method than by that of refrigeration.

The method is more fully explained in a communication to the board from the inventor and which will probably be published.

WITH GLINTS OF SUNLIGHT.

THE N. G. C. SIGNAL CORPS TO SEND MESSAGES TO SACRAMENTO.

FROM THE TOP OF MOUNT DIABLO BY MEANS OF THE HELIOGRAPH.

Arrangements have been perfected by which the next time the weather man has good reason to believe the sun will rise in a clear sky, next day on any given day a message will be flashed by its light from the summit of Mount Diablo to the Capitol building at Sacramento, a distance of thirty miles.

C. J. Atwater, an officer of the Fourth Brigade N. G. C. Signal Corps, was in the city yesterday conferring with Captain A. A. Hanks concerning the matter, and the arrangements were completed. The corps is enthusiastic over its system of telegraphy and is taking every opportunity to test and perfect it. A four-inch heliograph will be employed. Speaking of the proposed experiment yesterday, Captain Hanks said:

"If we succeed—about which there can be only the question of weather—it will be the longest signaling that has ever been done in the State. But that is not saying much, for, with an eight-inch heliograph, signaling has recently been done in Arizona for stretches of 160 miles straight—no intervening station.

"The heliograph is simply a mirror arranged with adjustable screws on a tripod with a shutter in front, so as to interrupt the light at pleasure. It is adjusted to reflect the sun's rays toward the distant station and then the shutter is operated so as to throw short and long flashes, which form a code of letters as do the dots and dashes of the telegraph instrument.

"When we are assured of good weather for the following morning a detail of eight men will leave San Francisco some day at noon, reaching Pine Canyon, four miles from Walnut Creek, the same evening. We will bivouac there that night and start for the summit in time to reach it by sunrise. From the summit Sacramento is a flat thing in the far distance.

"We know that it lies 20 degrees east of north, but we do not know the location of the station there nor the depression to be worked to, but as the sun rises the gilded dome of the Capitol catches and holds its light, and we can adjust our instrument to it, for the Sacramento station is to be located there. Then we can talk to them by the flashing of our heliograph—only a four-inch bit of mirror—just as two telegraphers may do over the wire.

"The heliograph is an American invention, having been used during the latter part of the Civil War. It afterward did conspicuous service in the trouble with the Indians, and especially in the capture of Geronimo. This is another illustration of the irony of fate, too, for the idea was really stolen from the Indians.

"The efficiency of the heliograph in the matter of speed, distance and the certainty of its methods is heightened greatly by the fact that persons outside the line of its communication cannot see it. With flag or fire signals any one in all the country round who can see the flagman may interpret the message. The flash of the heliograph spreads only a fraction above forty-nine feet in a mile.

"The signal service of the National Guard at present consists of four corps; forty in San Francisco (the oldest corps), twenty at Los Angeles, ten each at Stockton and Sacramento. The new National Guard law reduces the number of corps to three, but strengthens the numbers of each.

"Who pays the expenses of these experiments? Practically the men themselves. There is a small quarterly allowance, and if we can save anything out of the allowance for armory rent or otherwise we are permitted to use that, but it is insufficient for practical experiments of this kind and the men have to pay the deficiency themselves."

GEORGE A. WORN IS DEAD.

Passing of a Prominent Merchant and Pioneer.

George A. Worn, a pioneer of California and for many years a well-known business man of this city, died yesterday at his residence, in Ross Valley, near San Rafael, after a long and tedious illness.

Deceased was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1826, and at an early age came to this country, making his way to California, in search of gold and fortune, in 1849. In the following year he formed a partnership with the late Captain M. Waterman, the firm of Waterman & Worn being one of the best known produce firms of early days. He accumulated a handsome forture, which was augmented when he married the daughter of the late James D. Ross, after whom Ross Valley was named.

Later he went into the real-estate business, representing the large interests of James Phelan, James Bell, the late Robert Sherwood and others, by whom his unquestioned integrity and great business ability were highly valued.

He leaves a widow and five children, a sister and brother in Dublin, and another sister, Mrs. William Richardson, in this city. The funeral will take place from the family residence and will be strictly private.

Persecuting a Deputy.

Annie Larsen entered the Assessor's office yesterday afternoon and raised a disturbance by abusing Daniel Maloney, one of the deputies. She was considerably under the influence of liquor. Maloney went to police headquarters, followed by Annie, and he had her arrested for drunkenness. She fought with the officer all the way to the prison and made such a noise while there that she was put in the dark cell. She has an insane idea that Maloney dispossessed her mother of some property on Eleventh street, near Folsom, and has repeatedly caused him annoyance. In September and October last five incendiary fires occurred on Eleventh and Folsom streets, and as she had threatened to Fire Marshal Towe to burn down Maloney's houses it was suspected that she knew something about the fires.

Found Dead in Bed.

Henry Wolfgang was found dead in his bed at the Wilson, 120 Post street, late yesterday afternoon. Wolfgang was 26 years of age, unmarried and a native of England. Death is believed to have resulted from natural causes.

Mr. Sutro must be a curiously complex organization of various and diversified personalities if we are to believe Julian Ralph's assertion in Harper's Weekly, that "he was elected on the merits of his own individuality."

Some Eastern critics are commending the Vanderbilts for settling their divorce without publicity, but others are denouncing the secret process as a violation of law and a practical permission to the rich to divorce themselves when they choose and how they choose.

From the vigor with which the bimetallists are conducting the campaign of education in the East, we may reasonably expect the more progressive men of that section to be in thorough harmony with the West on the silver question when the election of 1896 comes round.

Every public-spirited citizen who invests his money in an enterprise which will bring vast benefits to California is sure to be maligned, for besides arousing the antagonism of those monopolists on whose corns he is bound to tread, he has to count on stirring up a nest of cranks.

The device of the Stockton man who has invented a sweeping attachment for electric cars which enables them to refrain from reducing the population by sweeping slow persons out of the way, would not be the thing for San Francisco, where sirurians are so abundant. Better kill a few heedless persons than spare a slow one.

AN EARNEST BODY.

The resolutions adopted yesterday by the Manufacturers' Convention are as earnest as they are eloquent. The central principles announced are co-operation between manufacturers and producers, and between these and laborers; the development of new enterprises and the encouragement of those which are languishing; the gathering into one fold of all who are concerned in the production and marketing of useful commodities; the fostering of good feeling and co-operation between shippers and transportation companies; the employment of labor (by the aid of the State, if necessary); the fostering of friendly relations between laborers and employers, and a preference for home products. A wise and simple, though extensive, scheme for carrying out the organization (which is to be made permanent) has been worked out and adopted.

Other matters of comparatively minor importance, though essential to the completeness of the scheme, have been decided upon, but for the purposes of understanding the broad spirit of the undertaking the foregoing summary is sufficient. The earnestness, ability and fidelity of the men who have assumed this vast undertaking cannot be doubted. The substance of it all is the harmonizing and co-operation of all the vital forces which go to the upbuilding of a commonwealth. Capital is not placed paramount. Laborers and artisans are recognized as essential members of the great human family, and as vital factors in the prosperity of the State and in the wholesome administration of the laws. They are regarded as members of the social and economic compact, entitled to respect and consideration, and to a reasonable share of the benefits and pleasures of life.

A particularly pleasing phase of the whole matter is the determination to break down the bitter antagonism which so long has existed between the people and the transportation companies. Evidently recognizing the fact that there is really but one transportation company—the great one—between which and the people there is any antagonism, the resolutions unmistakably imply the encouragement of transportation companies which shall spring from the people themselves. They recognize the fact that the old conditions have existed too long, and that if the State shall prosper a new order of things must be created. We believe that the sentiment of the convention would have been expressed more forcibly and directly and would have appealed more strongly to the people if a resolution had been adopted expressly approving the San Joaquin Valley Railroad. With due respect for the wisdom of the convention, and at the same time with a perfect understanding of the dignified popular sentiment on this subject, we respectfully suggest that the convention adopt a resolution clearly expressing this sentiment.

It is with the profoundest admiration, pride and gratitude that the CALL extends its congratulations to the people of California for having their interests so wisely and broadly represented as by these men assembled in convention. The expression thus given is that of the organized manliness and intelligence of California, and comes in good time to wipe out the undeserved reputation under which we have suffered so long.

FRUIT SUPPLY RUMORS.

With the approach of the fruit season come the first of the reports which are circulated every year concerning the condition of the crop and the amount of stock left over from last year. These reports in many instances are undoubtedly intended to affect the market price and always have more or less influence in that way. Fortunately one set of reports are almost immediately contradicted by another set, for the effect of each is thus largely counteracted and the unwary are saved from putting a too implicit reliance upon either.

An illustration of these contradictions was found in the dispatches of yesterday. One report, contributed to the New York Journal of Commerce, stated that supplies of apricots on the Pacific Coast are known to be large at primary points and liberal in distributive markets. This statement was contradicted in another dispatch on the authority of one of the largest dealers on the coast, who estimated that the entire supply in California at the present time would not exceed seventy-five carloads. Well, informed men know which of these two reports is most likely to be correct, but a great many people do not and as a result some of the unwary may be led to sell at prices which are far below the real value of the goods.

The evil effects of this confusion of reports are more likely to be experienced by the growers than by members of any other branch of the fruit industry. They are less able to obtain information for themselves and are more readily confused by the multiplicity of contradictory rumors. This is one of the strongest inducements for co-operative effort. Through State exchanges information can be obtained much more accurately and much more comprehensively than individuals can get it. In that way the growers can find some sure knowledge to guide themselves through the mutual contradictions of bulls and bears and obtain for their crops a price commensurate with their value in the market of the season.

As a general rule, therefore, the fruit-growers of California should co-operate through the State or their county exchanges as far as possible and should avoid making contracts in advance. It is far too early in the season to determine what the prices will be when the fruit is ripe. They ought to be good. There is certainly not much dried fruit in this State left over from last year. If the fruit-growers then will act together and stand firm without regard to rumors and reports, they ought to have a prosperous year before them.

THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

England is in danger of losing a building in which all the civilized world has an interest. According to the London Chronicle the Crystal Palace at Sydenham has proven unremunerative of late years and as the development of rapid transit from London has made the site valuable for suburban residences, the proprietors are talking of tearing the palace down, dividing the park into small lots and selling it.

The chief interest in the Crystal Palace lies in the fact that it is the first great building of iron and glass ever constructed in the world. It stands therefore as a monument of the beginning of a line of architecture distinctively modern, which has since been developed in so many forms in every civilized country and promises to be the dominant architecture of the future. In addition to this, it has the accidental interest of having served to house the exhibits of the first world's exposition, and has therefore a double value from an historic point of view.

When the Crystal Palace was suggested by Joseph Paxton as a possible building for the first universal exposition in London, it was ridiculed. Paxton was neither an architect nor an engineer and the dignitaries of both professions scoffed at his idea as that of an unpracticed amateur. He was, however, neither unpracticed nor an amateur. As a professional gardener, he had erected a large floral conservatory for the Duke of Devonshire, and he knew as no other man of his time the wonderful possibilities of structure that lay in the use of iron and glass, and fortunately he was able to induce the managers of the exposition to adopt his plans.

It is worth noting that his success was due to purely fortuitous circumstances. No method of speedy travel on city streets was known at that time. A suburban exposition was therefore impossible, for the people could not have reached it. Hyde Park was the only ground available in the city, but the park was covered with noble trees and the city authorities would not consent that the trees should be cut down. No other architect could solve the difficulty. Paxton's bold and original scheme of constructing a vaulted roof of glass over the tops of the trees was therefore accepted of necessity. It proved to be the most admired feature of the exposition and served to direct the attention of men to the use of iron in architecture, and thereby began the movement in that direction which has had such vast results in our time.

Removed from Hyde Park to Sydenham at the close of the exposition, the Crystal Palace has been ever since one of the most popular pleasure resorts in London. Constructed of the frailest of building materials and serving as a palace for the people instead of for kings, it affords a marked contrast to the oldest extant architecture, that of the pyramids. The one appears as a symbol of modern civilization; bright, beautiful, full of sunshine and open for the delight of all. The other dark, gloomy, oppressive, serving only as a tomb for kings, seems also a symbol of the despotism of the past. It would have been well could this first Crystal Palace have been preserved as a type of the long enduring civilization of the people, but it seems that this is not to be. The palace of sunshine goes down before the rapidly advancing city, while the pyramids of despotism stand secure amid the isolation of the desert for a thousand years to come.

THE WEAKNESS OF SPAIN.

In ability to hold dominion over her colonies, Spain has been the weakest of all the European nations. One by one her dependencies have slipped from her grasp, and yet those which were discovered and seized by her daring navigators and splendid troops in the centuries gone were the richest in the world. All the magnificent empire lying south of the Rio Grande was once a dependency of the Spanish crown, except the comparatively poor areas which Portugal held. These all have been lost to her. The last considerable remnant of her territory in the West is Cuba, which has never been reconciled to Spanish domination, and which is repeatedly making desperate efforts to be rid of it. It is not likely that the present rebellion will be successful, as, having already lost so much precious territory, Spain is retaining a desperate hold on this wonderful island and will not give it up.

Her treatment of her dependencies has been a warning to all of Christendom except herself. Her methods of subduing, governing and levying tribute upon them have been cruel, tyrannical and insatiable from the beginning. The unspeakable atrocities committed by Cortez in the conquest of Mexico bore the same spirit that animates the Government of Cuba to-day. Her own history has taught her nothing, possibly because her racial peculiarities make it impossible for her to learn. No sooner had she freed herself from the yoke of the Moors, which had galled her neck for 500 years, than she set out upon a course of subjugation, pillage and oppression that put the worst atrocities of the Moors to the blush. She learned nothing of humaneness from her own sufferings, and has acquired no wisdom from her own failures or the success of her neighbors in Europe. England needed but one great lesson—the successful rebellion of her American colonies—to make her the most humane and the strongest ruler of alien dependencies that the world has seen. Had Rome shown but a fraction of her wisdom she might have remained the ruler of the world. It was much such a policy as Spain's in this regard that brought Carthage, Greece and Rome to the dust.

The condition of Cuba seems hopeless, and all civilization must look on helpless and pitying. It is altogether out of joint with the spirit of the age, and would be a dark picture even for the savage times that preceded the dawn of Christianity. The Spanish authorities rule the natives with a supercilliousness, an insolence and a tyranny almost incredible. Only an overwhelming swarm of bayonets to inspire terror, and cruel domestic taxation and both export and import duties that insure poverty, ignorance and humbleness, could make such a suzerainty possible. There is hardly a foreign power having citizens resident on the island but that must either keep gunboats in the Cuban harbors for their protection or be constantly in a broil with Spain for outrages committed upon them. Capital there is insecure and the profits of its investment uncertain. Although the island is known to be wonderfully fertile and to be rich in valuable mineral deposits the development of its natural resources has been shamefully neglected.

The question of the annexation of Cuba to the United States is too old to be interesting. If Spain should consent to sell the island she would demand at least as much as would pay her an interest equal to her present net revenues from that source; and that likely is too large to bring the subject of annexation within the range of discussion. There seems to be no present hope for Cuba. If, in the good time coming, the great nations should agree upon an international policy under which something like an international law of eminent domain could be enforced, the right to exercise such power as that under which Cuba suffers might be tried and condemned, reasonable damages awarded, and the highway of civilization and independence established.

It may be remarked that the venerable Nevada moralist, Sam Davis, is benignantly happy over the fact that the Democrats, who defeated Davis' silver party of Nevada, have permitted $80,000 to be stolen from the Carson mint.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT.

The late Parisian dressmaker, Charles Frederick Worth, is described as "a tallish man, with a big, clever head, brown eyes and very prominent forehead." He used to say: "If I had my way all women should be slight, graceful and pretty. Then dressing them would be an artistic pleasure."

Frank Wenter, the Democratic nominee for Mayor of Chicago, is 41 years old and a native of Bohemia, which he left when a boy of 12. He was a protege of Carter Harrison, and since 1891 has been president of the Drainage Canal Board.

Edward Everett Hale believes in the restoration of the old-fashioned town meeting, where the citizens can come together at intervals and discuss the town's affairs.

AROUND THE CORRIDORS.

Otis A. Poole, a Yokohama tea man, is in the city stopping at the Palace. Although Mr. Poole is greatly interested in the sale of the national beverage of Japan he takes a special delight in roaming around among the race of little brown men with his kodak and finds his recreation in snap-shot pictures. He has taken more photographs of the Japanese people than any other amateur in the country and is still stacking up his record. He can be seen any time plodding along a dusty road outside the city hunting for a rice-picker or laboring through a mudflat in the hope of snapping a clam-digger. If any one ever had a hobby it is Otis A. Poole, the man who above all others in the land of chrysanthemums, has the camera craze.

"I always try to get a humorous color to my pictures," said Mr. Poole. "For instance I occasionally run against a brand of so-called California claret in some of the little inns along the wayside. The proprietor has slapped a bad imitation of an American label on the bottle and places it before you with a great display of regard for your nativity. Nine times out of ten

MR. POOLE LOADED FOR SNAP SHOTS.
[Sketched for the "Call" by Nankivell.]

it is impossible to make out from label whether you are drinking claret, port or white wine. I have a few of the labels photographed and transferred to glass plates which I use in magic-lantern exhibitions. Occasionally I like to go before camera clubs and exhibit some of the strange pictures I have been fortunate enough to get in Japan.

"Frequently I find it very difficult to get even a snap shot, and generally carry my camera under my arm with a newspaper wrapped around it so as to deceive the natives into the belief that I am carrying an ordinary bundle. The greatest difficulty to be met with is at festivals, where the people gather and load up on saki, the native wine. When they are full of good cheer and high spirits they develop a most decided hatred for the camera, and I have to take a great deal of care not to do too much open work, for fear of an assault on my instrument."

Mr. Poole spends most all his spare time and spare money in satisfying his thirst for snap-shots. A good story is told of him, which shows what a man will do to get the subject he really wants. He was anxious to obtain a good picture of a Japanese policeman, and while taking a walk in the morning stopped every one he met and made an appointment with him, each one arranged for the same hour. When the time arrived some thirty or forty Japanese officers walked up to his house and lined along the sidewalk. Mr. Poole appeared on the front porch in his dressing-gown, selected the man he wanted, paid the rest a yen each and dismissed them. That night the Chief of Police called up the officers who had made appointments off their beats and fined them two yen each.

"There goes a man I used to work for at $25 a month," said Isaac Upham, the valley road director, yesterday, as a stoutly built, dark complexioned man walked out of the former's office and started down the street. "His name is Paul Rauze," said Mr. Upham, "and in 1860 he ran a blacksmith-shop and a store about thirty miles above Marysville. The store was a supply depot for the mining camps in the neighborhood, and I kept the books, delivered goods and made myself generally useful about the place. There was still another duty which devolved upon my shoulders, however. I was expected to act as cook, and in that capacity I looked out for the wants of four men. After working two months I received a raise of $5 and in two months more I got a similar raise. About this time I received an offer to teach school in Butte County at $40 a month, which I accepted. The district was named after me and is still so called. I believe I am the only man in the State who ever drew pay for working thirteen months in one year. There are, as you may know, only four weeks in a school month and in one year I taught fifty-two weeks without a vacation. Yes, times have changed considerably," remarked the gentleman in a meditative manner as he dipped his pen in the ink-bottle and placed his signature to a check for a couple of thousand.

M. H. Heyman, a gentleman who has until quite recently been largely interested in tobacco-growing in Cuba, and has made that island his home for many years past, is in the city, and in a conversation at the Occidental yesterday referred to some significant facts relating to the present uprising in that country. "The information given out to the general public," said he, "invariably is unfavorable to the revolutionary party, but when we consider that all this news comes from Government sources there is nothing surprising in the matter. In 1868, when the uprising occurred, it took the rebels four months to work from the lower end of the island to a point 500 miles to the northwest and westward; but in the present instances they have succeeded in working their way 1000 miles into the interior. The island will yet be involved from one end to the other and the Spanish Government will yet be compelled to acknowledge that it has a serious conflict on its hands."

Dr. Leslie D. Ward, vice-president of the Prudential Life Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., is at the Palace. The organization mentioned is a peculiar one in the insurance world. It was started about nineteen years ago and it derives its principal business from insuring working people and children. Youth does not bar an applicant for a policy, as the company insures children from one year old up. The plan has gained an immense support in the East because of its cheapness, it being possible to secure a policy which will cost the insured only $2 50 a year in premiums, the payments being made in weekly installments as low as 5 and 10 cents per week. There is no such company doing business on this coast, nor is there likely to be, as Dr. Ward says that it is only where a very large population can be found in a small area of territory that the business can be made profitable.

Colonel C. W. Tozer of Tulare last night said: "If the San Joaquin Valley road comes within ten miles of my place I will guarantee to have ten miles of the road graded free of charge to the road. My neighbors feel as much interest in this matter as I do, and intend to do all they can to help what bids fair to so greatly help us."

Carl Binder, a civil engineer and contractor of Chicago, is a guest at the Palace. He took a prominent part in the construction work of some of the great buildings at the World's Fair, having built Machinery Hall, the dome of the Horticultural building, the Krupp building and several other structures.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

When a California Legislature cannot meet without the presence in its halls of bribers and bribe-takers the case has become a sad one indeed, and shows that there is ample opportunity and necessity for honest men to take a hand in politics. THE STATUE FOR THE DOME.

City Hall Commissioners Make Small Progress With It.

Though the Board of City Hall Commissioners has made many attempts to find out the exact composition of the white metal which the contract of F. Marion Wells to construct the statue for the new City Hall tower calls for, they have thus far been unsuccessful.

Architect Shea had samples on hand at yesterday's meeting, but was unable to tell exactly what they contained.

Mr. Wells explained that white metal was made up of antimony, zinc and tin, but that there was no exact formula for the mixture, the cost being large if a great deal of tin is used and small if antimony predominates.

The Mayor suggested that the figure should be gilded; but the cost of such an undertaking weighed against it in the minds of the Commissioners.

Mr. Wells explained that his casts were about finished and that he would like to have the members decide on some metal before long, so that he could get the matter off his hands. The committee agreed to give the matter full consideration at the next meeting.

THE MISSIONARY POWER IN HAWAII.

THOMAS G. SHEARMAN SAYS THAT IT IS A FAILURE AND A MENACE.

ITS ACTION UNDER REVIEW.

THE PROPOSITION OF ANNEXATION DENOUNCED AS FULL OF PERIL.

From the New York Times.

At last Friday night's prayer-meeting in Plymouth Church Thomas G. Shearman, in his characteristically forceful way, had something to say condemnatory of missionary work in Hawaii, which has led to considerable discussion in religious circles.

Mr. Shearman's remarks were not reported in the local papers, and as some misstatements have been made concerning what he really said, the New York Times gives what he has to say about the matter.

"More than a year ago," said Mr. Shearman, "I told Dr. Abbott that in my opinion the proceedings in Hawaii reflected great discredit, not only upon the American name generally, but especially upon our American missionaries and the Congregational church, which had sent them there and seemed generally disposed to sustain the actions of the missionaries' sons."

"At that time what appeared to be Dr. Abbott's opinion?"

"He never told me what he thought about it, and expressed doubts as to the correctness of my information, and mentioned some names of persons who had been to Hawaii and approved of the action taken there. He was opposed to any interference by the United States, although admitting, as I understood, that it was due to the intervention of the United States troops that the Queen and the native authorities had been deprived of power.

"This was at the time when there was an active controversy whether the United States should intervene or not. I rather desired to speak on the subject at that time at some of the minor church meetings, but deferred to Dr. Abbott and to the advice of some friends, who, however, agreed with me in my general views. I remained silent for much more than a year, but the recent establishment of court-martial in Honolulu and the violent measures taken to suppress an incipient rebellion determined me to speak without consulting anybody.

"On Friday evening, therefore, I rose and said I proposed to speak my mind on a subject which I would not name, leaving it to Dr. Abbott, who led the meeting, to say whether I should speak then or a week later."

"And what did Dr. Abbott say to that?"

"He very courteously expressed his preference that I should speak then, which I did. I said in substance that while it would not seem advisable to bring into the church meetings a purely political question, yet where grave moral questions were involved and action taken which affected the honor and good faith of the Christian churches of our own order it was proper to bring such subjects into a church meeting.

"I said that had Mr. Beecher been still alive I felt perfectly certain that he would long ago have expressed from Plymouth pulpit most emphatic opinions upon this subject; that he would never have allowed a weaker race to be practically enslaved by white Americans—especially Congregationalists and sons of Congregational missionaries—without making a protest which would have been heard all over the land. I did not expect Dr. Abbott to do all that Mr. Beecher would have done, but thought some member of Plymouth Church should take the responsibility of saying, as well as he could, what Mr. Beecher would certainly have said with much more eloquence and far more effect.

"I then said, in substance, that seventy years ago the American Board of Foreign Missions sent a few Congregational missionaries to the Sandwich Islands, who were received by the people with enthusiasm. They did not really have to convert the people, for they were all ready for conversion.

"The chiefs and the people threw away their idols and embraced Christianity with all their hearts. So complete was their trust in the missionaries that, practically, all government was placed under missionary control, and the missionaries and their sons or their nephews had ever since had the practical government of the islands. What had been the result?

"They found 130,000 people there, and now they report that they are only 34,000. But of these 34,000 they recently reported that 18,000 were members of Congregational churches—a larger proportion of church members than can be found in any other Protestant country in the world. The missionaries boasted that those natives were better educated, better behaved and more peaceable, orderly and religious, in proportion to their numbers, than the people of many parts of the United States.

"The triumph of religion, and especially of Congregationalism, in Hawaii, was made the subject of endless boasts by missionaries and managers of missions, and was made the ground of appeals to American Christians for fresh subscriptions and aid for missionary work.

"Suddenly their whole tone changed. The missionaries' sons and some returned missionaries vehemently asserted that the native Hawaiians were filthy and ignorant and a debased, licentious and idolatrous race utterly unfit to be trusted with liberty, but must be kept under the control of a firm and unscrupulous but pious Congregational despotism.

"Assuming this to be true, then the result of between fifty and sixty years' unbroken missionary government in these islands has been that the population has been reduced in number by three-quarters and that these three-quarters are as debased, licentious and brutal as they were when the missionaries began their labors and that the whole missionary enterprise has been a disgraceful failure.

"Meanwhile there are some other facts, which the missionaries do not mention, but which cannot be disputed. During the fifty years the government of these islands was under missionary influence most of the natives were deprived of their rights in the land, excepting about 27,000 acres, and all the rest was divided among the King, the chiefs and the families and friends of the missionaries.

"The missionaries' sons and their associates boast that they own four-fifths of all the property of the islands. Nearly all the rest is owned by the descendants of the former chiefs. The great mass of the people own nothing. The missionary government, finding that the natives would not work for less than 25 cents a day, complained of the want of labor, and insisted on the importation of scores of thousands of the scum of the human race, including Chinese and what are called Portuguese, a mongrel race, who never saw Portugal, but who speak something resembling the language of that country.

"In this manner the missionaries' sons cut down the wages of the native Hawaiians and compelled them to work on their sugar plantations at such rates as seemed good to their masters.

"Before the missionaries gained control of the islands leprosy was unknown. But with the introduction of strange races leprosy established itself and rapidly increased. An entire island was very properly devoted to the lepers. No Protestant missionaries would venture among them.

"For this I do not blame them, as no doubt I should not have had the courage to go myself. But a noble Catholic priest consecrated his life to the service of the lepers, lived among them, baptized them, educated them and brought some light and happiness into their wretched lives.

"Stung by the contrast of his example, the one remaining missionary, a recognized and paid agent of the American Board, spread broadcast the vilest slanders against Father Damien. He said that Father Damien was dirty. Much good missionaries can do among a wretched and degraded people if they hold themselves aloof from those who are dirty! Did the Apostles take care never to touch the dirty hands or sit against the dirty clothes of their early converts?

"He accused the good father of vile practices. But the vileness was in the Congregational missionary's mouth, not in the Catholic missionary's life, and under threats of exposure and legal punishment the Congregational missionary sneaked out of the accusation. Yet, after he had degraded himself in the eyes of every decent man, he remains, if I am correctly informed, still a well-paid, well-housed, comfortably-cared-for agent of the American Board in Hawaii. Of course, he is an ardent annexationist.

"And now the very same men who by hundreds and thousands have protested with pious indignation against the Southern States for their practical disenfranchisement of the Southern negroes, who are by the confession of their own best men vastly below the moral standard which the Hawaiian missionaries have until lately boasted as the particular attribute of their converts, are full of enthusiasm over what, with bitter irony, is called the Hawaiian republic.

"A republic, forsooth, in which no man can vote unless he has property which would be equivalent to the possession of $5000 in Brooklyn, and in which no one can vote for Senator who is not worth $3000, which is equivalent to $20,000 in Brooklyn.

"But even with this restriction of the suffrage our republican missionaries are afraid to trust their republican voters. Accordingly they did not care to allow the people, under any limitations whatever, to elect the President, but having got control of the Constitutional Convention, they appointed Mr. Dole President, to hold office for six years, and just so much longer as the Senate and Assembly should fail to agree on a successor; restricting the choice, even then, to such persons as should be agreeable to a majority of the Senate, which will be elected by about 200 of the richest men on the islands.

"Nor do they stop here. They passed laws severely punishing any one who dares to speak disrespectfully of any of their high mightinesses. Any one, whether a native or an American, who dares to say that this republican government is not republican, or that any of the missionaries' sons who deign to govern the barbarous Christians of Hawaii is not well fitted for his post, is liable to a long term of imprisonment and a heavy fine.

"And yet, after all, though they have the Government and the laws and the courts and the juries all in their own hands, they are afraid to trust any of them, and on the first sign of alarm and before a blow was struck, they shut up all the courts and proclaimed martial law. And this is our pious Congregational missionary republic. This is the fruit of seventy years of Congregational teaching and missionary government.

"Now it is proposed to annex these islands, with their barbarous, idolatrous, dirty, debased, Congregational heathen, Christian idolators and the 100,000 Mongolians and half-breed Portuguese to boot, and to bring them into our republic as one of the States of our Union to help govern us. Already one branch of Congress has voted to spend $500,000 in beginning to lay a cable for this purpose, which, of course, will involve us in about $3,000,000 more, in addition to that already incurred, to enable Hawaiians to plant sugar at a cost to this country of $50,000,000, taken out of the public treasury and put into the pockets of the planters to enable them to employ Mongolians and half-breed Portuguese.

"But we are to spend many millions more in annexing them. We shall have to build warships to defend our possession when we get it.

"I consider this the most dangerous and disastrous proposition that has ever been made in this country. If successful it will launch us upon an era of colonization and of petty disgraceful foreign wars. It will bring into our Union sham republics, which will still further corrupt our already corrupt Government, and speedily destroy all reality in republican institutions.

"We are on the brink of a precipice, and a very little effort is needed to push us over. If I were standing alone on this continent I would oppose and denounce this whole scheme of foreign wars, annexation and colonial projects to the very last."

Dr. R. M. Raymond said he indorsed what Mr. Shearman had said, with the exception of some criticism on the navy. Dr. Abbott did not agree with Mr. Shearman on questions of fact, but he did agree with Mr. Shearman in his opposition to annexation.

ANOTHER FAIR WILL MAY EXIST.

THE MILLIONAIRE MAY HAVE WRITTEN A TESTAMENT JUST BEFORE HIS DEATH.

THE RECENTLY FOUND INSTRUMENT BEING SCRUTINIZED VERY CLOSELY.

The attorneys in the Fair will case rested yesterday as if the day before had been one of such great strain upon them that nerves and muscles both needed relaxation. While the executors named in the stolen will and their attorneys were not feeling particularly happy the attorneys for the Fair children had a peculiar feeling of unrest. They have been told that Senator Fair made a will about a month before his death, and they are somewhat afraid of it. No one, so far as known, is aware of the provisions of this will nor of its whereabouts. Still the attorneys for the children do not believe the will would injure the chances of their clients, as they claim thatthrough all the many wills made by the Senator the tendency of Fair to make more favorable bequests to them became more pronounced.

Attorney Mitchell was sarcastic yesterday. He is very much worked up over the newly found will. He said that he had been offered a still later will made by Fair for $1500. He says he refused the offer, as he could get Max Gumpel to make one for $10.

The principal action taken yesterday in regard to the Fair will case was the photographing of the new will by the attorneys for the executors. Then the attorneys for the children had photographs taken to guard against any change being made in the will.

Representatives from both of the two sides of the Fair will case met in County Clerk Curry's private office yesterday afternoon to have the holographic will of the deceased millionaire photographed for the benefit of the executors. There was also present at the beginning of the meeting Detective Stilwell, but R. B. Mitchell expressed such a decided preference for his absence that Stilwell withdrew.

The will was removed from its glass covering to allow of a better reproduction and the attorneys vied with each other in their instructions to the photographer as to how he should handle it. Mitchell wanted the greatest care used, for should it be damaged how could he prove it a forgery. Heggarty wanted the photographer to be very careful, for he wished no little mark or turn which could be used in support of its authenticity to be obliterated, and so among them all the will was well looked after.

The attorneys for Charles Fair and for the girls asked Mitchell if they could not have prints from the negatives taken by Mitchell's photographer, but he declined to allow any prints but his own to be taken.

Then Attorney Heggarty had his own photographer take pictures of the will from the same positions as Attorney Mitchell's photographer had made his. The idea of this was to make sure that no trickery could be used by the attorneys of the executors to secure copies which might read differently from the real document and then have the will stolen.

It is believed that the desire of the attorneys for the executors of the stolen will to get photographic copies of the will was done so as to secure enlargements, in order to trace the handwriting of the will to satisfy themselves whether the will is a forgery or not.

Attorney Heggarty explained a matter which has caused a great deal of comment. He said: "A number of people have expressed their astonishment at the similarity of the bequests in the two wills. Now, as we understand it, Fair has been making wills for the past ten years. In all of them the legacies are about the same. Fair certainly knew the names of his relatives to whom he desired to leave his money, and there is no reason to doubt that he could have sat down at any time and made a will not far different from one he had made a few days before. He had a mania for making wills. In fact, he frequently changed his mind as to how he should dispose of his estate. Why should he turn his heart against his daughter Virginia? She never offended him. She was too young to ever do anything to so displease him that he should tie up whatever estate he desired to give her. It is evident he had been prejudiced against her by others. The attorneys on the other side seem to sneer at the lead-pencil will. Still, everyone who knows Fair is aware of the fact that he always wrote with a pencil when he could get one."

Richard Dey, who was Senator Fair's private secretary for many years, and who should be an authority on the handwriting of the deceased millionaire, is confident that the new will is genuine.

"The handwriting of the will is most assuredly that of the late Mr. Fair," he said, "and I don't hesitate to pronounce the will genuine in every respect. I should be familiar with Senator Fair's handwriting if anybody is. I was his secretary from, let me see; anyway it was in the '60's until 1884. I understood him thoroughly. We consulted together, dined together, traveled together.

"There is no doubt in my mind but that the new document expresses the manner in which the late Senator wished to dispose of his estate. It was just like him to write this new will. It was his way of doing things. He allowed these executors, the executors of the first document filed, to think that they had everything their own way and then he went off and upset the whole matter by writing another will. Nothing could be more characteristic of the man."

Mrs. Craven, who was the custodian of Fair's last and rather mysterious will, has announced that she will not make any statement whatever regarding the will. She was at her residence, the home of Mrs. James Haskins, at 2202 Leavenworth street, last evening, and while very courteous was firm in her refusal to tell the history of the will. She said: "I have made up my mind in regard to this matter and I have decided not to make any statement for publication, or, in fact, any statement at all, until I am put upon the stand and forced to tell the story.

"No one guides me in this matter. I do not need any attorney to direct me, and none of the attorneys in the case have any right to make any statement for me. I do not care for any of them and none of them can make me change my mind. I have been drawn into this matter very reluctantly. I do not intend to have any misstatements made about my story of the will, so I will not give it until under oath. I have made up my mind. I'm Scotch and I am firm in my beliefs. No power on earth can make me tell the story until I am ready."

Mrs. Haskins, a nice elderly lady, who is the other witness to the will, also refuses to talk on the subject, and persists in her refusal.

Mrs. Nettie R. Craven is a remarkable woman in many ways. As principal of the Mission Grammar School she holds an important position in the department. She is a woman of great energy and of considerable determination. She has been a close student, has traveled extensively and is just the kind of person to keep herself well to the front.

Her persistency and shrewdness have enabled her to gain advantages from the school boards that a teacher less persuasive would not dare to attempt. Mrs. Cravens' daughter, Miss Margaret Cravens, is now playing on the Eastern stage. She is the leading lady in Charles Frohman's company, which is producing "The Foundling" at Hoyt's Opera-house, New York City. It is said that the late Senator Fair admired her beauty as much as he did the mother's intelligence.

Pierson & Mitchell, who photographed the holographic will yesterday, believe it to be a forgery and wanted a photographic copy for their own convenience, that they may better study the handwriting alleged to be the late Senator Fair's.

"We have pronounced the alleged will a forgery," said Mr. Pierson, "and will continue the battle on that basis. It is ridiculous to regard the document in any other light.

"Our object in photographing it was to have a correct copy in our possession, that we can refer to it at any time. We are not the least alarmed over the turn things have taken and will stand firm."

Governor Budd was a busy man yesterday. He is associated with Charles L. Fair's attorneys in the will contest, and in the excitement of the hour forgot all about his rheumatism, China Basin, the veto power and other trifling issues.

He bobbed in and out of the California Hotel closely followed by Mr. Fair and hotly pursued by a string of reporters and a small army of office-seekers.

"The will is all right," said the chief executive as he motioned to the elevator-boy to pull the lever. "The late Senator Fair had been telling all over town that he had made such a will," he continued as the elevator came to a sudden stop and he shot into his room.

"I think I ought to know my father's handwriting," said young Mr. Fair, "and this talk about the will being a forgery is absurd," and the young millionaire walked leisurely away, happy in the thought that a trump card had been played in the game for millions.

The Governor wore the easy indifference of a man who knew just what he was talking about when he pinned his faith to the new document.

He has thorough confidence in the authenticity of the will and scouts the suggestion of forgery. With this belief he will continue to give his best legal judgment to the case when called upon to do so. He left last evening for Sacramento thoroughly confident that the opposition has a legal nut that it cannot crack. A wag has given the Governor the new title of "Jim, the will-digger."

Attorney Kowalsky says he had no intention of saying that Lloyd and Wilson produced the Dama will under circumstances similar to the production of the last Fair will. He recalls the fact that the Dama will had been admitted to probate seven or eight months before Messrs. Lloyd and Wilson were employed to defend it.

THE LORING CLUB TO LIVE.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED TO CONTINUE THE POPULAR ORGANIZATION.

W. C. STADTFELD IS APPOINTED DIRECTOR—A FAREWELL BANQUET.

When David Loring announced his determination of laying down the baton because business called him to Japan there was deep regret in San Francisco's oldest musical organization. Indeed many members went so far as to declare that the Loring Club without David Loring would be like "Hamlet" with the part of the Prince of Denmark cut out, and on this account they wanted the Loring Club to disband on account of the difficulty of finding a new conductor.

Calmer councils prevailed, however, and a committee consisting of W. A. Murison, F. H. Hausman and H. L. Van Winkle was appointed to consider whether the club should continue or not. For two weeks this committee has been thinking the matter over, and in the meantime the feeling has grown stronger among the members of the Loring Club that by all means the organization should not be allowed to die out. To the great satisfaction of every one concerned this view was supported by the committee in the report made last Monday night.

In addition to advising the continuance of the club, the committee suggested that W. C. Stadtfeld, the secretary, be appointed musical director for the month intervening between the departure of David Loring, which takes place early in April, and the annual meeting in May, and the committee strongly urged that W. C. Stadtfeld should then be permanently appointed musical director. The report was unanimously adopted.

The new musical director pro tem. is a general favorite in the club. He has been secretary since 1884, and has fulfilled his duties so ably that the cry now is: "Where can the Loring Club find another secretary?" Strange to say, the new director has never once wielded the baton for the Loring singers, even at rehearsal. David Loring was so devoted to his chorus of male voices, and attended rehearsals and performances with such clockwork regularity that the services of an assistant were never required. It is said that during the last ten years W. C. Stadtfeld has scarcely missed one rehearsal either.

The many friends of the Loring Club will hear with satisfaction that the popular organization, which has existed here for eighteen years, is not to be disbanded. Special efforts will be made indeed to bring up the associated membership to its full complement of 250 members. The last concert of the present season takes place on Thursday evening, the 28th inst.—a month earlier than usual—in order that David Loring may conduct for the last time before he sails for Japan. There will be sixty-four voices in the chorus. On Monday evening, April 1, the active members will tender a farewell banquet to the founder of the Loring Club.

A Barber Swindled.

Two men, representing themselves as police officers with a search warrant for lottery tickets, called at a barber's shop last night on Fillmore street, between California and Pine. The proprietor handed a small box containing the tickets to an assistant and told him to go out and hide it. The pseudo officers saw the movement and compelled the barber to call the man back. They took the box from him and placed the barber under arrrest. One of them remarked that the fine would be $40, but if the barber would give them $20 they would say nothing about it. They walked away with the $20 and the box of lottery tickets. The barber learned shortly afterward that he had been swindled, and notified the police.

MARIE IS SUING FOR A DIVORCE.

HER HUSBAND SAYS "RATS."

SHE WANTS NO ALIMONY, AS SHE HAS SUFFICIENT TO SUPPORT HER.

Pretty, winsome Marie Burroughs has tired of the way her affections have been trifled with and she is now suing for a divorce from her husband, Louis F. Massen. She says he has been playing fast and loose with her respect and esteem, and that he has forsaken her for the society of other women dearer if not nearer to him than she is. She alleges infidelity as the ground for her action.

Miss Burroughs asks for no alimony. She says she has property enough of her own to support her comfortably. The trouble has been going on for some time, she says in her complaint. She and her husband have been in the same company, but notwithstanding this fact he has flirted with the other members, and even with outsiders, until it has become unbearable to her. Massen has filed no answer to her charges so far, and it is possible he may allow the case to go by default.

Marie Burroughs.

Miss Buroughs is a California girl, who left this State a few years ago to go upon the stage in the East. She has been to this city on several occasions since, her last appearance being only in the past two weeks, when she presented the "Profligate" and, later, "Judah" at the Baldwin Theater. In both these plays her husband has a leading part, and the news of her suit for divorce comes as a great surprise to theater-goers who saw them together. They are now in San Jose, but Miss Burroughs will return to this city as soon as her engagement there is concluded.

MASSEN SAYS "RATS,"

But Will Neither Deny nor Affirm the News of a Divorce.

SAN JOSE, March 10.—Miss Marie Burroughs was seen at the Auditorium, where she appeared in "The Profligate," and when asked about the divorce case said, in a quiet, chilly manner, she and Mr. Massen were on the best of terms, and if she had begun an action it was their private business. When shown the Associated Press dispatch, giving an account of her suit for divorce, she became very much agitated and attempted to cut the interview short.

"It is true you have begun suit, is it not?" she was asked.

"Yes," was the reticent and hesitating answer. "I decline to say anything; don't quote me as saying anything," she added, excitedly.

"It is stated in the report that the grounds of your suit are neglect and infidelity. Is that true?"

"Yes," she admitted after much hesitation, "but I don't want to say anything about it."

She seemed very much surprised that the news had transpired and acted as though she considered it a secret which belonged exclusively to her and which no one else would ever learn.

"Has a reconciliation been effected between you and your husband?" asked the reporter.

"I decline to state anything," she said, curtly. "I don't want to be quoted."

Then she swept into the dressing-room.

The statement that she and Massen are on the best of terms was apparently true so far as external evidences went, for they were not only on most friendly terms about the theater, but he frequented her dressing-room, and they occupy apartments together at the Hotel Vendome.

Massen and Marie rode in a hack together from the theater to the hotel, and upon their arrival were greeted by a reporter.

"Just wait one moment until I have taken my wife upstairs," said Massen in answer to a request for an interview. The twain then proceeded to the elevator, arm in arm, as affectionately as though they were just on the verge of matrimony instead of preparing to back out of the connubial relations as report would indicate. In a few moments Massen returned and was handed the press telegram relating that Marie Burroughs had commenced a divorce.

"I have nothing to say," he said, as he handed the message back. "It is too preposterous to deny.

"Mr. and Mrs. Massen go along quietly attending their business, and it is no affair of newspapers whether that is true or not. It is scandalous to malign a person's character like that."

"If it is untrue, Mr. Massen," said the reporter, "why do you not deny it?"

"What would be the good of denying a thing like that? It don't make any difference to the public, anyway, whether it is true or not. It will be denied all right. At present neither my wife nor I will say anything about it."

On being urged to make either a negative or affirmative statement concerning the dispatch he contented himself with exclaiming "rats" and steadfastly declined to say anything further, and shortly retired to the room where he had a few moments before left Miss Burroughs.

The conduct of the pair would indicate that there is a perfect and agreeable understanding between them in the divorce suit, and its purpose is a matter of conjecture.

WANTS PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Superintendent Moulder Favors Education of the Body.

Superintendent Moulder is anxious to have the Board of Education authorize the building of a gymnasium in every school in San Francisco, so that all the children may have the benefit of physical culture. He believes that this kind of instruction greatly promotes the moral and mental as well as the physical growth of a child.

"I have just received the report of Professor Barth, who some months ago was elected teacher of physical culture in the public schools," said Superintendent Moulder yesterday. "The report is eminently satisfactory and disappointing at the same time. It is disappointing only because Professor Barth has been unable to personally instruct every school in the city. He has managed to give a few lessons in perhaps thirty of the schools, embracing about 10,000 pupils. The work begun by him has been carried on by the teachers, to the great advantage of the children, but the results would have been much better if it had been possible for him to instruct each class at least once a week. The difference between a class of pupils at the beginning of a course of gymnastic instruction and at the close is very marked. Professor Barth estimates that it will cost about $10,000 a year to secure competent instructors and to keep the gymnasiums in repair. Ten thousand dollars could not be spent more worthily, and the benefit derived from such an outlay is invaluable in every respect.

"A few days ago I was waited on by representatives of the four turners' associations and requested to urge the Board of Education to secure physical culture instructors for all the schools. A request of this sort cannot be ignored, for the turners have a membership in San Francisco of over 5000. At the next meeting of the board the matter will be thoroughly canvassed, and I certainly hope they will act favorably on my suggestion."

The principal of the Hearst Grammar School indorses the work of Professor Barth in that particular school as follows: "Physical culture exercises compel prompt and exact obedience to orders; they require the individual attention in order to execute as directed; they develop self-respect by causing us to have confidence in our ability to appear at ease, and they cultivate the courage which arises from the knowledge that we are able to take care of ourselves. While all of these benefits are being gained the mind is obtaining full control over each part of the body, and perfect health is the result."

THE BRIDGE WILL BE BUILT.

EAST STREET TO BE SPANNED DESPITE THE LEGISLATURE'S ACTION.

A LAW PASSED FOUR YEARS AGO EMPOWERING THE BOARD TO ACT.

The passenger bridge may span East street after all, and the legislation which was intended for the proposition and which defeated it was practically useless. At the meeting of the Harbor Commissioners yesterday afternoon a mild sensation was developed by the discovery that the board had had the power all along to rectify the alignment of East street and to sell, acquire and condemn adjacent property.

The sensation was uncorked by Senator Tirey L. Ford, who appeared yesterday at the meeting of the board as its attorney, having been appointed to that position on the resignation of F. S. Stratton. Mr. Ford's first bit of advice to the board was that it had the power to align East street and to condemn the Frank property at the intersection of Market, East and Sacramento streets. The attorney showed that since March 31, 1891, the power had been vested in the board, the act which gave them the authority being entitled "An act to empower the Board of State Harbor Commissioners to rectify the alignment of East street, from Pacific to Market, in the city and county of San Francisco, and to sell, acquire and condemn adjacent property." The sections of most interest are as follows:

The Board of State Harbor Commissioners is hereby authorized and directed to rectify the alignment of East street, between Pacific street and Market street, in the city and county of San Francisco, said rectification to be done so as to straighten the property lines, and give as wide and commodious a thoroughfare as the traffic may demand.

The board in carrying out this law shall have the power to purchase and sell and to exchange, upon a legal and equitable basis, any portion or portions of the property adjacent to the westerly line of the thoroughfare herein provided for; and a full record of their proceedings shall be entered upon the minutes and a sworn statement of all transfers, sales, purchases and other transactions shall be filed with the Secretary of State.

In case of failure on the part of the interested parties to come to a satisfactory agreement the board shall have the power to condemn, as in other cases, for public purposes.

"This will give us just what we want," triumphantly exclaimed Commissioner Chadbourne after the meeting. "It will enable us to make a trade with the Franks, straighten out East street and build the bridge."

At the meeting C. F. Bassett presided for the last time, as Commissioner Colnon will take his place to-day and will preside at tomorrow's meeting of the board.

She Was Nearly Successful.

Hattie Klein, a pretty girl 12 years age, was a nursegirl in the family of C. C. Rivers, 1326 Hayes street, and she also attended school. About 3 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Rivers was awakened by a strong smell of gas. He went to Hattie's room, forced open the door and found her in bed unconscious with the gas turned on full. A physician was called in and after several hours' work succeeded in bringing the girl back to consciousness. When asked why she turned on the gas she said several of the girls at school had been talking about suicide and she thought she would like to see what the other world looked like. She was taken to the Receiving Hospital last night and will be examined by the Insanity Commissioners.

WESTERN FARMS AND ORCHARDS.

CHEMISTRY OF THE ORANGE.

REMEDY FOR THE PEACH BORER. LAYING OUT ORCHARDS ON LEVEL GROUND.

Eastern people are often led to wonder why there is such a variety of products in California. It is because of our climate, and, incidentally, the variety of soil. The climate is influenced by the topography of the country. The Rocky Mountains form a barrier on the east and prevent the tempests and blizzards from reaching us from that direction. On the west is the peaceful Pacific, with the Japan current sweeping our shores and spreading its warm breath over the land, making it cool in summer and warm in winter.

Nearly anything will grow nearly anywhere in California, but there is a great variety of soil, and what may grow only moderately well in one section may produce largely in another. While one soil may not be suited to oranges it may be the very best kind of soil for potatoes. And while the climate of one section may not be suited for one product it may for another. Some fruits like the moisture-laden air and heavy loamy soils of the coast, others do better in the sandy soil and hotter climate of the interior.

We all know that a given product will grow more thriftily in one section than in another; that while in many sections a certain kind of tree will grow, there is one place where it seems to thrive better than in any other place. This is due to so many little peculiarities of soil and climate that they can scarcely be enumerated. It is a fact, however, that Sicily produces the best lemons, Havana the best tobacco, Smyrna the best figs and California the best oranges, prunes and raisins. There are other products also in which California leads.

Australia has expended over $20,800,000 for the destruction of rabbits in the past seven years. The rabbits were introduced by a gentleman from England, who took over a score or so to remind him of home. Another farmer imported to Australia from Cumberland a few years ago some foxes, thinking that they might give occasional sport for himself and his hounds. The foxes now annually destroy thousands of sheep. A canny Scot took to Australia some thistles, and now the land is overrun with them. An Englishman introduced some watercress, and it is now blocking the watercourses. California has so far escaped these plagues, but the English sparrow may yet become a nuisance. The prompt action taken by our officers in preventing the introduction of the mongoose saved to our farmers thousands of dollars.

If every city in the United States of 10,000 inhabitants and over was provided with a cold-storage warehouse fresh fruit could be kept and distributed throughout the year as needed in each city, thus providing a market for many times as much fruit as is now consumed.

Apricot trees always point their best branches toward the ocean, and the landward limbs bend up and endeavor to reach in the same direction. The apricot loves the coast breeze.

The longevity and productiveness of cherry trees in California is noticeable. Dr. Tripp of Woodside, San Mateo County, has cherry trees forty years old, still full of vigor and bearing freely.

Study the peculiarities of a section before you plant trees. Costly mistakes are often made that might have been avoided. The soil is so diversified that a tree which thrives upon one farm might not thrive upon the farm adjoining.

It is the extreme of heat or cold which injures or kills fruit trees. It is the relative distribution of heat over the seasons that counts. The absence of extreme heat and extreme cold makes Santa Clara County the typical section.

In planting, the tree should be placed with the same side toward the sun as was exposed to the sun in the nursery. If the roots of the young tree grow more to one side than the other, place the strongest roots toward the prevailing wind.

Olive oil produced in sections where the summer heat is excessive is thick, deep-tinted and "greasy," and is not easily kept. Oil made from olives grown in Santa Clara County clears very quickly, is light, clean and of a delicate flavor.

Walnut trees thrive best along the coast, in a rich but friable soil. They produce crops when in full bearing, worth from $200 to $450 per acre. The largest walnut grown is the A Bijou, but it is a shy bearer. The Praeparturiens bears very early and is a very choice variety.

The peach root is a favorite stock for budding apricots upon. It gives the tree quick growth and early fruiting, and the peach rod is not generally attacked by the gopher. For deep, rich, well-drained loamy soils, the apricot on its own root makes a magnificent tree.

Some mistakes may be corrected or overcome; but planting an orchard of poor trees on unsuitable land is not one of them. It is far better to plant one of the right kind in the right place and then give it proper care than to plant 100 sickly trees on poor land to be neglected later on.

A writer truly states that tree planters must avail themselves of the helps of times, such as horticultural reading and the experience of others; they must take the time to not only experiment but look up the conditions of success and of failure in their respective neighborhoods.

The old black Mission fig grows very thriftily along the foothills on the eastern side of the San Joaquin Valley, and will thrive even in some of the dryest places if cultivated and cared for the first few years. Hogs fatten quickly when fed figs, and there is much pasture land that might profitably be planted with figs.

The advantages of the horticultural industry to the State can hardly be enumerated. It increases the income per capita, and largely increases the assessment roll as a whole. It is a home-making industry, and gives to many residents in the country advantages heretofore enjoyed only by residents of the city—together with many not characteristic of city life.

The San Diego Chamber of Commerce has published a pamphlet concerning San Diego and its resources, in which it is stated that there are upward of 3,000,000 fruit trees in the county, of which 300,000 are orange, and 400,000 are lemon trees. The acreage in the district about San Diego Bay is given as follows: Bearing, 2352 acres; not yet old enough to bear, 6513 acres.

The Los Angeles Times states that Dr. M. S. Jones of Santa Ana has an orange that ripens about the same time other oranges do, but that will hang on the tree till August, and remain there solidly, and be in perfect condition to ship just at the time when oranges are scarce. It ought to be a valuable variety if it has other good features.

The codlin moth is a pretty insect, with brownish wings, shaded like watered silk, and is numerous in midsummer, when it flies into open windows of houses in the evening. It lays its eggs in the blossom ends of the fruit at this time, and the worms, hatching out, eat their way into the core of the fruit, where they are so often found. The worms leave the trees in the fall and crawl into the crevices of the bark or other hiding places, and there form their light-brown cocoons, in which they spend the winter, maturing into moths in the early summer. To destroy them the trees may be scraped or washed with hot lime wash on the trunks to the first limb. To wrap some loose cloth, as a strip of bagging, around the tree will entice the moths to make their cocoons under it, when they may be more easily taken and destroyed.

Laying Off an Orchard.

G. W. Mosteller of the Star Nursery, Ventura, gives the Advocate of that town the following timely paragraph: As a plan for staking off an orchard by the equilateral-triangle method, the following is perhaps the most expeditious plan, but will not do for hilly or stump land: Determine the length and width of plat to be staked off; get No. 12 galvanized steel wires of corresponding length and width of orchard. One of the wires is to be used to establish base line, and to establish each row of stakes across the orchard. Let us call this the base-line wire. You will need marks on this wire exactly the width the trees are to stand apart. Waxed string wrapped round and round at each distance will do, but it is better to use a bit of cloth at these marks, made secure, so as not to slip, by wrapping waxed string over and under it, yet so as to be plainly visible. Now, as you wish to plant in equilateral-triangle form, place string and bits of cloth of another color half way between the marks noted above. Stake this baseline row at each alternate mark. The other wire is needed to stake the two sides the distance the rows, not the trees, are to be apart. This is determined by multiplying the distance apart the trees are to stand by .866.

To illustrate: Suppose the planter wishes to plant at 30 feet apart each way; multiply .866 by 30 feet, which equals 25.98 feet, almost 26 feet from row to row. The stakes in this case at the sides of plat will be 26.98 feet apart and must correspond with marks on the second wire. To get other distances apply the same rule. But you cannot establish these side stakes until you square the plat of land to be planted. To do this saw three straight strips of board—one 6 feet, another 8 feet and another 10 feet long. Nail the two short strips at right angles and join them across the angle with the 10-foot strip. Place this right-angle frame with one base on base line at the corner of the plat, and the other base of triangle will enable you to establish the square. Use the second wire to guide you. Now set the stakes to correspond with marks on the wire. Take this wire to the opposite side of plat and do as before. You are now ready to stake off the plat. Return to the base-line wire. Have a man at each end to move and stretch the wire into line with next stake on sides. Make tight and secure the wire, then stake this row at the alternate marks from the base row. Be sure to carry the wire straight at one end continually, allowing the other man to give or take slack. Continue this until the entire block is staked. You might divide a large orchard into forty or fifty acre blocks. If the orchard be small you can get along without the use of the side wire by measuring carefully with a short wire. To determine the number of trees per acre when set "diamond" form first get the number required as if set square form and divide it by .866. To find the number square form square the distance between the trees and divide 43,560 by it.

The Peach-Borer.

H. H. Huntling of San Jose furnishes the San Jose Mercury with the following concerning the peach moth, or twig-borer, which is in some districts working in grafts set as late as February 1:

As the grafts start to grow and get out from one-third to one or two inches in length the twig-borer (which is a small brownish worm from one-fourth to one-third of an inch long) eats into and follows the heart as far as it is tender toward the scion, and the first indication you see of his whereabouts is the withering of the new growth, but if you can cut into the bud at the base and look close you will find the worm. Kill him, for when one bud is gone he hunts up another, and if he is not stopped will sometimes seriously affect the shape of your tree. If you have lots of grafts to go over, and they are very bad, use the following wash as per directions:

Potash	14 pounds
Caustic soda (98 per cent)	8 pounds
Lime, unslacked	5 pounds
Fish oil, polar or seal	10 gallons

Directions—First: Dissolve the soda and potash by placing them together in about ten or twelve gallons of water.

Second—Slack the lime in the barrel in two gallons of water; then add the fish oil to the lime and stir well until the lime and the oil have turned to a thick batter; then add the soda and potash, water boiling hot, and stir well with a dasher for five minutes or more; then leave standing for about four or six hours; then fill up with cold water. Do not pour in all the water at once, but about two buckets at a time; stir well as the first two buckets of water go in to prevent lumps. Use the following day. Apply cold, one pound to the gallon of water. In dissolving it do not boil, but weigh the amount to be used, place in a barrel, and on top of it pour hot water, about one bucket to every hundred pounds of material. After pouring in the hot water stir lively with a dasher until it is entirely dissolved; then reduce with cold water until sufficiently thin to pass through the strainer; then place in the tank and fill up with water; stir well and it is ready for use; apply cold.

Fertilizing the Orange Orchard.

Professor Hilgard of the State University figures that 20,000 pounds of oranges take from the soil 36.60 pounds of nitrogen, 10.60 pounds of phosphoric acid and 42.28 pounds of potash. Granting that this estimate is correct, whether it is necessary to return to the soil an amount of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash equal to that taken up by the fruit depends upon local circumstances. It it is new soil less will answer. If the trees are old and have never been fertilized more can be applied with safety. Speaking of this Professor Hilgard says: "Phosphoric acid added to well-drained soil is not lost when added in excess of the needs of the crop; nor is any moderate application of potash salts. It is otherwise with nitrogen, which, if added in the form of Chile saltpeter, is readily washed out of the soil, or if in another form, say tankage or ammonia salts, may pass into the inert condition in connection with the humus of the soil. Of the saltpeter, therefore, we, as a rule, add hardly more than is required for the year's crop, and that sometimes in successive doses to prevent waste." The present price of nitrogen is about 16 cents per pound, phosphoric acid 5 to 6 cents per pound and potash 5 cents.

San Jose Scale.

The San Jose scale may be thoroughly eradicated if the trees are thoroughly sprayed with the whale-oil soap mixture, which is made as follows:

Sulphur	3 lbs.
Caustic soda (98 per cent strength	1 lb.
Commercial potash	1 lb.
Water to make 100 gallons.

Place the sulphur, caustic soda and potash together in about two gallons of water, boil for one hour. Mix the two and spray the trees. The mixture should be 130 deg. Fahrenheit. For a case of very bad scale strong mustard water has been found efficient.

WEATHER BUREAU REPORT.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE. WEATHER BUREAU. SAN FRANCISCO, March 19, 5 P. M.—The barometric depression which was mentioned last night as central near Vancouver Island has developed into a storm of considerable energy and is now central in Northern Washington, with a trough-like depression extending southward to Eureka. High southeast winds and gales have prevailed along the coast from Point Reyes northward. The maximum velocity during the day was as follows: Fort Canby, 72 miles from the southeast; Portland, Or., 36 miles from the south; Eureka, 30 miles from the southeast; Point Reyes light, 36 miles from the southeast. The storm is apparently moving almost directly east. The high pressure which exists on the Southern California coast is checking its movement southward. Rain has already fallen at Eureka and thence northward. Rain is probable during the night and Wednesday as far southward as the Tehachapi. The storm will probably be of short duration. The wind will probably shift to the southwest and west on the California coast during the night, and clearing weather may be expected Wednesday or Wednesday night.

Following are seasonal rainfalls as compared with those of last season on same date: Eureka 32.32, last season 47.98; Red Bluff 24.45, last season 18.67; Sacramento 21.54, last season 13.85; San Francisco 22.15, last season 16.10; Fresno 11.35, last season 6.17; Los Angeles 12.43, last season 6.40; San Diego 10.71, last season 3.98; Yuma 2.97, last season 2.16.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The share speculation to-day was a little less active than yesterday and again were dealings distributed very widely over the list. The market for American securities in London was in good tone and the foreigners were buyers of almost all the international stocks in this market. Thus the trade opened under very auspicious circumstances and the trend of prices was upward throughout the morning, the coal shares and the granger group being most prominent in the upward movement as well as in the transactions. After midday realizing sales caused a reaction, in which sugar and Chicago Gas were the most prominent. The heaviness was not of long duration, and shortly after 1 o'clock the bullish movement was resumed and prices all took an upward turn.

The market became irregular about delivery hour, but during the last quarter of an hour of the business the speculation was again buoyant and prices began to move up to the close, the final dealings being decidedly strong in tone and at or near the highest figures of the day. Sugar advanced 1 per cent, reacted 1¾ and recovered ½. Tobacco gained 1¾, receded 1⅛ and rallied ⅜. Burlington moved up 1¼ and closed at the highest. Northwest sold at 100⅛, the final sale being the highest. St. Paul rose ⅞, receded ⅜ and rallied ½; Rock Island closed 1⅛ off; Chicago Gas advanced ¾, lost 1¼ and regained ½; General Electric advanced 1⅝, reacted ⅞ and recovered 1⅛; Cotton oil rose 1⅛, reacted 3⅝ and rallied ⅜; do preferred moved up 1¼. Most of the shares dealt in recorded advances on the day, including Edison Electric of New York and Colorado Fuel 1½, Illinois Central, Iowa Central preferred, New York Central and Quicksilver preferred.

The trading in bonds to-day was of enormous proportions and the sales reached the unusual large total of $2,820,000; Northern Pacific Consols fives and Southern fives were the most animated, the respective transactions aggregating $367,000 and $767,000. The other speculative issues were also heavily traded in, and final sales show a material advance on the day.

Government bonds strong and higher; State bonds inactive; railroad bonds strong. Petroleum strong; Pennsylvania oil sales, none; April option sales, none; closed $1 12¼ bid. Lima oil sales, none.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Wheat—There were plenty of sellers of wheat at the opening at from 56⅛c down to 55⅞c, with very few bidders at above the lower of these quotations. The reason for the weakness was made up of a kneading together of the foreign news and the slight sprinkling of rain along the southern edge of the winter wheat belt.

The bullish feature of the movement was the heavy export clearances of wheat and flour from the Alantic seaboard, which amounted to 450,000 bushels. That strained the market at around 56c and 55½c during the greater part of the forenoon up to about the time when Bradstreet's is received. After the latter report came in the price yielded again, and 55½c became the trading price for a few seconds on the noontide break. There was an increase of activity after Bradstreet's came in, and during the decline to 55½c, after recovering again to 55¾@55⅞c, it became weak and remained so to the end, closing at 55⅞c.

Corn—The market set an example of bullishness and was again the envy of its bigger neighbor, which was kept down by the bearishness early in the day. The opening price for May was 46⅜c, declining to 44½c, and then advanced steadily to 47½c. It weakened at the latter price and sold down to 46⅞, but found plenty of buyers on that reaction. The demand for carloads to go to store was particularly active at an advance of from ½ to 1c per bushel. The May future rose before the close to 47¼@47⅜c and closed at 47¼c.

Oats experienced a fairly active session. At the opening values were a shade firmer and selling became general. The firmness in corn, however, soon put it back on its feet. It went from 29⅜c to 29⅝c, sold up to 29¾c and closed at that price.

Pork went down from the start from $11 90@ 11 92½. May pork kept on the slide and it could be bought for $11 57½. It then became firmer and recovered a little, but touched $11 55 before making any permanent improvement. After recovering to $11 80 it closed at $11 70, a loss of 25c. Lard closed 5c and ribs 12½c lower.

March	54½c	53⅛c
May	56¼c	55½c

STOCKS IN LONDON.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Evening Post's London cablegram says: The stock markets were good to-day. Consols were better on Government buying. There was a further material rise in American railroads, which closed at the best. The impetus here is merely professional buying and bears closing, but there was good buying to-day from the Continent. Amsterdam bought Central Pacifics. Paris bought Louisvilles, St. Paul and Norfolks. The Paris buying, if continued, is a distinctly good feature.

The public here is immersed in Kaffirs, in which there was a further great rise to-day.

The strength in silver and silver stocks was a good feature. Reports that New York is buying silver imparts a special strength to that market.

TOO SLOW FOR THE BOYS.

A Drummer's Story About Southern Railway Speed.

There is a fallacy in the North that Southern trains are lamentably slow as regards speed. A New York drummer told a story to a newspaper man the other day in which this idea was illustrated.

"I heard of a drummer," said he, "who got on the train at Atlanta to go to New Orleans. He had a dog that he was very fond of, but the conductor wouldn't let him carry it into the coach.

"I suppose you'll let me tie him on to the rear coach, then," said the drummer.

"'Oh, yes,' said the conductor, derisively, 'do that by all means, but,' he added, 'I shouldn't guarantee that you'd have much dog by the time we got good started.'

"'Oh, that's all right; I'm willing to risk that,' he said, and he tied his prized canine to the rear coach. The conductor spoke to the engineer about it and it was agreed that the train should do some of the swiftest running of its history. It fairly flew until the first station was reached. Then the conductor came around with a smile to where the drummer was sitting and asked about the dog.

"'Oh, he's all right,' said the drummer, carelessly, and continued reading. The conductor went back and saw that the animal was trotting along behind without effort, the rope hanging slackly. He gave the cue to the engineer and some magnificent running was the result. A few miles further down the conductor came around to the drummer and said, 'Where's your doggie now?' 'He's keeping up,' said the drummer. The two walked back to the rear end, but there was no dog. The rope was trailing along behind. The conductor smiled triumphantly. The drummer laughed easily.

"'By jove, he's gnawed the rope and gone on ahead.' And sure enough it was true. When the junction was reached there sat the dog patiently waiting for his master."

This is the way some drummers while away the hours.—Atlanta Constitution.

AN OAKLAND ROAD SOLD AT AUCTION.

SUIT OF A BRIDGE VICTIM.

A Special Election May Be Held to Decide Who Is the Councilman.

An extended street railroad system was sold by auction yesterday in front of the courthouse, in Oakland. The railroad was the Consolidated Piedmont, and the auctioneer was Commissioner Ira Bishop. The purchaser was Charles R. Bishop, vice-president of the Bank of California, and the price paid was $82,000.

Among the capitalists present were: John Yule, Charles R. Bishop, S. C. Bigelow, president of the Savings and Loan Association; John L. Howard, John Morris, Montgomery Howe, E. A. Heron, J. H. Brewer, E. C. Sessions, E. P. Vandercook, Frank Woodward, Attorney Eells, E. J. Pringle, George E. de Golia, George W. Reed, J. B. Richardson, Henry Squires, M. T. Holcomb, W. J. Dingee and W. F. Boardman.

Commissioner Bishop stepped forward into the crowd at the hour of noon and opened proceedings by saying: "How much am I bid for this road, gentlemen?"

Then came an awkward silence of a few minutes and the auctioneer added: "Ain't it worth anything? Don't I hear a bid?"

Then C. R. Bishop, who holds $100,000 of the company's bonds, said:

"I bid $82,000."

The auctioneer tried hard to get a raise on the bid, assuring the crowd that the road cost more than that amount; but no one present cared to invest in cable roads. The third and last call was made and Mr. Bishop got the road.

The Piedmont road was completed a few years ago at a cost which made it possible to bond the line for $1,000,000. The property was considered such a good one that these bonds found plenty of purchasers. In due time came competition and the Piedmont suffered to such an extent that many bond-holders lost all they had put into the concern.

Ever since the road began going down hill it has gone rapidly, and lawsuits against it have multiplied to such an extent that it is doubtful if it will ever be free from litigation.

Among other liabilities was that of the California Title Insurance and Trust Company, as trustee, which corporation held the bonds of the road. This company obtained judgment for $1,050,197 33. It was under this judgment and decree that the road was sold yesterday.

Since the judgment was obtained the road has been in the hands of a receiver, and besides its many other debts it has run behind in the receiver's hands something like $90,000, for which amount receiver's certificates have been issued. There has also been an order issued requiring the receiver to hold out $25,000 subject to the determination of a suit by Margaret Wallace, now pending. The receiver has also been ordered to pay deposits by employes amounting to $1200. As only $82,000 was received for the road, there will be a deficiency judgment of something like $968,197 33 on the face of the mortgage.

Yesterday afternoon after the sale two additional attachments were levied on the property. One by A. A. Black for $10,000 and the other by Samuel Howe, Martin Howe and Phœbe Blair for $18,840.

Want Fifty Thousand.

Mrs. Lucille Simmond and A. G. Gurnett, guardians of the seven minor children of the late A. G. Simmond, who was killed in the Webster-street bridge accident on the 2d of October, 1894, have brought suit against the Southern Pacific and South Pacific Coast Railway companies for $50,000 damages.

An effort was made to compromise this case, but the offer of the company was considered too small and the case will be given to a jury.

Will Draw Half Pay.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Education Superintendent McClymond called the attention of the board to the fact that there is likely to be a deficiency of nearly $2000 in the school fund at the close of the fiscal year.

After some argument it was decided to hold back one-half of the teachers' salaries for the month of June and to pay them in full when the State apportionment of school money is made next August.

The Case Compromised.

In the case of Margaret Wallace against the Piedmont Cable Company for $25,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained in an accident on the road, a settlement was effected yesterday by the defendant paying Mrs. Wallace $6000 and half the costs of suit.

Wrecked His House.

Three hundred dollars was the price paid by the Giant Powder Company to Carl Paschold to compromise his suit for $1760 brought to recover damages for the destruction of his house in Berkeley by the explosion at the powder works in July, 1892.

Will Take a Special Election.

In the Heitmann-Kayser contest for the office of Councilman-at-Large City Attorney Johnson has given his opinion that in order to decide who was really the people's choice it will be necessary to call a special election.

Asked for Special Letters.

Special letters of administration on the estate of Lady Yarde-Buller have been asked for by Attorney George E. de Golia on behalf of Public Administrator Knight.

Crowded Houses.

Hoyt's "A Temperance Town" at the Macdonough has drawn splendid houses both Monday and Tuesday nights, and the play promises to be just as taking for to-night. This is the last performance.

ALAMEDA.

Senate bill No. 95, which is now the law of California, is of personal interest to at least six, and probably more, Alamedans who were soldiers or sailors during the war of the rebellion. There are six persons holding appointments in some branch of the municipal department whom this law affects.

Policemen Kamp and Welch have a double cinch on the positions which they now hold. A recent ordinance provides that no policeman shall be removed from the force except after a hearing on written and sworn charges. Everett Ames, janitor of the West End School, and Henry P. Decker of the Wilson School are affected directly, and if there is any virtue in it they may rest satisfied that they will hold their positions so long as they do not overstep the limit and give some one an opportunity to prefer charges.

Ralph Hamlin, under appointment by the City Trustees as tender of the High-street bridge, is safe against municipal changes until Uncle Sam determines to fill up the slough. The poundmaster, Victorine Joseph, is also in the same class. He was appointed because he was an honorably discharged soldier.

Disturbing the Sick.

There are a number of people suffering from the grip at the residence of T. C. Hummell, 1208 Lafayette street. The festive small boy of the neighborhood will not allow the ailing ones to have any peace. The more they have been appealed to the more trouble they have given by pelting the house with stones. Mr. Hummel swore to a complaint before Justice Morris yesterday for the arrest of the young disturbers.

Death of an Aged Lady.

Mrs. Mary Elliott died unexpectedly last evening after a week's illness. She was the wife of the late Washington Elliott, a pioneer music teacher. She was 71 years of age, and lived with her son at his residence, 2026 Central avenue.

Suit for Divorce.

Isabella Brock has brought suit for divorce from John C. Brock on the ground of extreme cruelty. They were married two years ago and have one child.

BERKELEY.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Town Fathers on Monday evening Clerk Preble reported that Berkeley's new charter had been duly recorded with the Secretary of State and the County Recorder on the 16th inst.

The protest entered against guttering, curbing and macadamizing Alcatraz street its entire length will be heard next Monday evening.

J. J. Mason entered a complaint against the person who has for years plowed up and sowed both street and lots in the neighborhood of Parker street and Hillegrass avenue.

A petition, signed by many prominent citizens of Berkeley, was entered against the future granting of sewer contracts to private individuals. They claimed that work done by private contractors is less acceptable and satisfactory to property-holders, and is more expensive to the city in the long run.

Notes.

Nearly all the letter-boxes for the new mail service have been put in position.

Considerable regret is expressed by all interested in the welfare of the university over the failure of the Senate to reach and consider the bill appropriating $50,000 for the construction of gymnasium and armory.

The sophomores have decided upon Friday evening, April 19, as the date for their party. It is proposed to make it a representative university affair. The number of tickets will be limited so as not to overcrowd the gymnasium. The committee of arrangements for the affair consists of Miss Sutton, Miss Guppy, Miss Krenz, Miss Robb, Miss Penwell, and Messrs. Olney, Hupp, A. H. Allen, Robbins and Laughlin.

WANTS TO BE AN ACTRESS.

Why Pretty Miss Callie Birkman Deserted Her Home in Petaluma.

An Active Search for the Missing Young Girl Now in Progress.

An active search is being prosecuted by the police for pretty Miss Callie Birkman, who disappeared from her home in Petaluma several months ago. It is certain Miss Birkman is in this city with a view of entering upon a dramatic career, but thus far her relatives have been unable to secure any clew as to her whereabouts.

Miss Birkman, who is less than 17 years of age, was a well-known figure in Petaluma church circles, her grandfather at one time having filled a pulpit in that city as pastor. Callie did not respond as warmly to religious training as her grandfather might have expected, but at an early age betrayed a lively disposition which seriously alarmed her relatives. She was fond of dancing and had a growing desire to go on the stage.

About a year ago Callie determined to gratify her whim, if it was possible to do so, and one day she came to this city, disguised as a boy, in order to escape recognition from friends. She remained here several weeks, and secured an engagement in a Kearny-street dive as a skipping-rope dancer. With more than usual boldness she had herself photographed en costume and sent one of the pictures to a friend in Petaluma. Several weeks later she became disgusted with life in this city and returned home. On her promise to do better in future she was forgiven and resumed her place in the family circle.

It was not long before the recollection of her stage experiences rendered her restless, and she determined to leave home again for good. This time she decided to travel under an assumed name, retaining, however, the name of Callie, by which she is known among her acquaintances.

Her grandparents instituted a vigorous search for the girl, but the efforts of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children to locate her proved fruitless. A few days ago, however, she was recognized by an acquaintance on Kearny street, and the knowledge that she is now in the city has prompted her relatives to renew their inquiries in the hope of finding and reclaiming her.

A woman answering to Callie Birkman's description was seen in a notorious saloon on Eddy street, Monday night. She was evidently in pain, and suddenly fell unconscious. It was thought that she had taken poison, and Dr. W. O. Wilcox of 21 Powell street was hastily summoned. She was revived with difficulty, and later admitted that she had taken some morphine to ease a violent headache. She stated that her name was Callie, but declined to tell where she lived. She appears to be a frequent visitor to the place, and the police are hopeful of apprehending her at an early date.

Robbery and Burglary.

William Coleman and William Russell, alias Wilson, were arrested yesterday morning by Policemen Ryan, Tuite and Moriarty, and booked at the City Prison on the charges of burglary and robbery. About 1 o'clock yesterday morning they broke into the saloon of Cornelius Cashman, 314 Third street, and stole a quantity of liquors, cigars, an overcoat and two revolvers. Four hours later they entered the saloon of Edward Benson, corner of Third and Clementina streets, and ordered Benson to throw up his hands. While Russell covered him with a revolver Coleman robbed the till of about $8. The police officers found them later in the room of Eda Hansen, corner of Second and Mission streets. The woman was also taken into custody and charged with vagrancy. The three are well known to the police.

Union for Practical Progress Regards the Scheme With Favor.

A lecture was delivered last evening by J. W. Sullivan, at Linderman's Opera-house, Alameda, on the "Initiative and Referendum." It was given under the auspices of the Alameda Union for Practical Progress, and the large hall was well filled.

The speaker was introduced by B. C. Brown, who referred to the influence which the efforts of Mr. Sullivan, as a writer and speaker, have had throughout the country in favor of legislative reform. He is the author of the book "Direct Legislation," from which many of the workers for the initiative and referendum have drawn their inspirations.

Mr. Sullivan, in his address, referred to the two methods of legislation, the indirect method and the direct method. In the former the people delegate to their representatives the power to make the laws. He said:

Too often the servants misrepresent the people, their masters. The weakness in our political machinery has long been taken advantage of by politicians and monopolists, who are able, by corrupt and political machinery by which those representatives are elected, and by corrupting the legislators themselves, to work ruin to the general welfare, divert the reform spirit and lower the level of legislation.

In town, city, State and national legislative bodies the fountains of corruption are seen. Franchises are given away, onerous taxes imposed, offices created, political jobbery is entered into.

By direct legislation it is sought to do away with these evils, the people themselves having the power to make the laws. Direct legislation has been in use in New England towns for 250 years. Some of those towns refuse to incorporate, even after they have attained the population of 15,000 inhabitants, because by incorporation they would, under the State law, be obliged to place themselves at the mercy of legislative bodies.

Direct legislation is practiced in many cities and towns throughout the United States. Cities, and in some cases States, from time to time vote directly on questions of charter, bonds, license, appropriations, public improvements, moral issues. Last fall New York voted on five distinct interrogations. Two years ago California voted on nine and last fall on five. There is no need to go outside of our country to find the application of the principle of direct legislation, nor for sufficient practice to warrant its safe and gradual advance in many particulars in which it is not now practiced.

The speaker referred to the operation of the initiative and referendum in Switzerland as furnishing the most complete illustration of its working. He considered it quite possible that in political science there was a power capable of being developed, which, in its field, might parallel the wonders performed through the application of steam in the industrial field. That power, he said, is the directly applied will of a people who love fair play, who have time and again at the polls declared their hatred of theft and misdoings, and who have determined that monopoly shall not fetter and plunder honest capital and labor. He said:

The system in Switzerland has gone steadily ahead until to-day in a number of the States (cantons) every law must be voted on at the polls before going into effect. The spectacle has been afforded for twenty years of the whole Swiss nation (600,000 voters, 3,000,000 inhabitants) voting on its principal Federal laws. The canton of Zurich is the typical advanced State. There is no law, no executive decree, and no appropriation over a fixed sum goes into effect until voted on by the people at the polls. The Swiss say: "Every legislator may be a rogue, but in vain." The people have the power to introduce bills and the power of veto.

The ordinance providing for the initiative and referendum in Alameda is being utilized. A petition has been circulated and has received the necessary number of signatures, and at the next municipal election, which will be held on the 8th of next month, the people will vote on this question: "Are you in favor of the levy of a special tax of 20 cents on each $100 for the erection of a free library building?" It is generally believed that the vote will be strongly in the affirmative, as the citizens of Alameda have much civic pride, and have never begrudged taxes for needed improvements. The proposed rate will raise about $25,000.

MAISON DOREE SOLD OUT.

The Sheriff Closes the Career of the Famous Old Place.

The Maison Doree, long patronized and well beloved by San Francisco epicures, was sold at auction under an execution for debt Monday. The sale was conducted by Auctioneer Spear.

It is several weeks since the public was surprised one morning to find the Sheriff's padlock on the front door. The place had been attached for unpaid mortgages and interest, and the case took its course through the courts until it ended in the sale of everything within the walls that belonged to the restaurant.

There was a large crowd of people present when the sale was called, but they were not all intending buyers. Many of these were "old-timers," who had often made merry there, and came merely to take a last look at the familiar old place. The bidding was lively, yet the prices realized were not high. Everything was sold, from the carpets on the floor to the ornaments in the ceiling, and the spectators gave a sigh when the auctioneer called out his last "Going, gone, gone!"

THE SOLDIER'S HOPE.

He Will Receive His Wages This Week, Perhaps.

The National Guardsmen, who have been hoping and hoping for the pay due them for those hot days of service at Sacramento last summer, and who had reason to believe that they would get it last night, have had their hopes deferred once again. The checks did not arrive yesterday, but are expected to-day. But when they do arrive the financial experts of the military say that it will take another day or so to check them up to see that there are no errors and that no one has been left out, and then another day or so will have to be allowed for the issuing of orders and the orders to be responded to. So it will probably be the latter end of the week when the soldiers' hopes will be fulfilled.

WANTS HIM REMOVED.

Henri Wigger, Mrs. Gundlach's Guardian, Is Not Satisfactory.

Mrs. Annie Wacher, sister of Mrs. Anna Caroline Gundlach, an insane person, has petitioned the Probate Court to remove Henri Wigger from his position as guardian of Mrs. Gundlach's person and estate.

Wigger was appointed to his position as guardian in June, 1890. Since that time, the petitioner alleges, he has received into his control for the use and benefit of Mrs. Gundlach $1275 and he has failed to in any way account for any part of the sum. He is charged by the petitioner with mismanaging and misappropriating the estate of his ward and having converted it to his own use, and of going through insolvency so that no demand can be made upon him.

The petitioner therefore prays that Henri Wigger be removed from his position as guardian and that he be compelled to account for the estate he is charged with mismanaging, and further that the petitioner be appointed in his place. Mrs. Gundlach is now in the Stockton asylum.

GRAPE-FRUIT IS POPULAR.

It Is Bringing Better Prices Than Are Obtained for Oranges.

For Many Years It Was Grown Because the Tree Was Beautiful—Its Value.

What was at one time looked upon in California as an outcast among fruits is now apparently destined, as the result of an Eastern fad, to become one of the most profitable fruits grown in the State. This is the grape-fruit, or what is more commonly known here as the pomelo.

For many years it has been grown as a shade tree and its fruit viewed simply as a curiosity. Its medicinal qualities, however, have suddenly brought it into great favor, and there is every prospect that the demand for it will be permanent. Some very interesting facts are given regarding this peculiar fruit in a recent report made to the State Board of Horticulture by its secretary, B. M. Lelong. It says:

The pomelo is a variety of the shaddock. There are many varieties in cultivation, and of late they have met with great favor in the Eastern markets. They vary greatly in size, but are generally large and weigh all the way from half a pound to five pounds. In color they resemble a citron. The skin is very smooth and the pulp is subacid. The tree is very ornamental, has large, deep green foliage, is semi-dwarf, and a native of China and Japan. There is practically only one variety so far known in the market, and that is the sour, bitter-rind variety.

A few years ago there was no sale for this fruit, and it was permitted to go to waste. Now it sells readily for from $2 50 to $5 per box, with a steady demand.

The pomelo was used for many years in hot climates to correct acidity of the stomach and other troubles of the digestive organs. For several years past physicians have prescribed it for invalids with disordered stomachs, and in many cases it is a specific.

The great medicinal value of the grape-fruit is not generally known outside of Florida, where it is largely grown, although in some of the larger cities the sale is quite large and increasing. Its use cures dyspeptic troubles, constipation and other diseases of the stomach and bowels. The daily use of grape-fruit for a month will cure the most obstinate case of indigestion.

Some people do not like it at first, but that is because they do not know how to prepare it for eating. The fruit should be cut in half and the juice squeezed out into a tumbler. In this way the bitter taste in the rind is avoided. They are always refreshing, and the demand is greater than the supply, prices running better than for oranges. They are also made more palatable by seasoning the pulp with sugar or sweet wine.

The name grape-fruit is said to come from the form the fruit takes on the tree, being produced in clusters, often twenty or more of the fruit in a bunch.

Many people find the great number of seeds contained in them a great objection, and long-continued efforts have been made to procure a seedless variety. It is claimed that this has been accomplished by C. M. Marsh of Lakeland, Fla. Mr. Marsh, it is said, has now young trees of the new variety that are bearing abundantly, and all true to the strain. The pulp is somewhat darker than the ordinary grape-fruit, but the rind has that peculiar, bitter flavor which is so highly esteemed for medical purposes.

There is no question that the pomelo will be a valuable addition to the fruit crops produced in this State. It can be grown successfully wherever other citrus fruits thrive, but the warmer the climate the better it will do. It is a wonderfully prolific bearer, and the tree matures its fruits in the second and third year. It has never been grown on a large scale for commercial purposes, its cultivation in the past having been mainly for ornamental use. Few people become fond of it at once, its popularity being due to an acquired taste. Once, however, the taste has been cultivated for it it remains.

HAS EZETA'S CHILDREN.

Gutierrez Suppresses Another Attemp of Ezeta's Followers.

News brought to this city yesterday by the last steamer from Acapulco is to the effect that about February 1 a conspiracy was discovered among Ezeta's followers, having for an object the unseating of Gutierrez, the President, and the reseating of Ezeta. The plan was nipped in the bud by Gutierrez, who ordered the principal leaders shot at once. They were Colonels Delfino, Berrios, Fernando Salyedo and Captain Mangandi. Aside from this, all the prisoners who had been jailed since the last uprising were ordered hanged.

Gutierrez conquered and succeeded in gaining possession of the two children of Ezeta, whom he now holds as hostages.

When Ezeta sent the children away from San Francisco about a month ago in charge of their grandmother, Senora Garcia, he had provided for their sojourn at Acapulco where they would be under the protection of Diaz, his friend; but the grandmother took them right through to San Salvador, arriving about the time of the discovery of the plot, and they were seized at once.

Ezeta is much concerned and says he will go to Europe, get funds and return and take his children by force.

Williams Wants to Sell.

Thomas H. Williams Jr., the recently appointed guardian of Mrs. Sarah Althea Terry, has applied to the Probate Court to allow him to sell the Fresno property of his ward for $200 above the mortgage upon it. He sets forth that the mortgage is about to be foreclosed, and that the city of Fresno is desirous of obtaining the property for school purposes. He therefore recommends that the sale be made, and asks that an order to that effect be made.

FATHER BRADEY STILL VERY LOW.

LITTLE HOPE FOR RECOVERY.

The Patient Has Received the Last Sacraments and Awaits Death.

Rev. Father Bradey, the eminent Paulist, who came here from New York last December and took charge of old St. Mary's Church on California street, at the request of Archbishop Riordan, is lingering between life and death. He has been very low from kidney and stomach trouble for six weeks and there are grave fears that he will not recover.

The Rev. Father Bradey.

When inquiry was made as to his condition and the probable outcome of his illness, the reverend father at the community residence on California street only shook his head and looked serious. The three physicians in attendance on the distinguished patient are likewise silent. They believe in the adage that "while there is life there is hope." Meanwhile the patient continues to sink.

From a strong, handsome, active man Father Bradey has been reduced to a living skeleton. For weeks, the priests in the house say, he has not taken sufficient food to keep a bird alive. Day after day he has sunk lower and lower in the scale of physical weakness. Now he has to be moved about and lifted like a child by the two professional nurses in attendance. He is even too weak to be moved to the hospital. The origin of the trouble was in the bladder. This affliction has been supplemented by kidney disease and general physical collapse.

The San Francisco house is the first established by the Paulists, which is an American community of priests, outside of New York. Archbishop Riordan had long been anxious to have the missionaries permanently located here, and when the time came that he could offer them a church he did so, and the result was that last December the Archbishop in person transferred the old Cathedral to Father Bradey on behalf of the Paulist society.

Father Bradey's only assistant was Father Wyman. They had traveled together, gone missions together, preached great Christian truths together, and in entering upon their new duties as ministers of a large and flourishing parish they were obliged to work early and late.

Plans were made to beautify the old church, a new pavement was put down on California and Dupont streets, immense congregations flocked to hear the polished and scholarly New Yorkers, and, in fact, the outlook for the future was most promising, when, one morning six weeks ago, Father Bradey was absent from his post. He has been absent ever since. He has been anointed and prepared for death.

AROUSING PUBLIC OPINION.

Creditors of the City Urge the Payment of Their Claims.

The Associated Creditors of the City and County of San Francisco have issued a circular to the press and public, urging that municipal expenditures be curtailed by the Supervisors until their claims, some of them over two years old, are paid.

"We understand," says the circular, "there is a disposition to accept the truth and full force of our argument made to the Board of Supervisors in a communication, 'showing the legality of city warrants drawn on temporarily depleted funds and suggesting a legal method for their payment,' wherein we contend that the proper way out of this financial dilemma is to draw, audit and register demands in payment of these claims, regardless of the various funds. When the funds are in hand, pay the demands in the order of registration. But it will be at once suggested that we are begging the question; that we are simply putting off the fatal day; that we wish to make our own escape by dragging somebody else into the hole. But such is not the case.

"There are hundreds of thousands of dollars that will be invested in these registered demands on the city treasury. If the city should find that the debt so created is a growing debt, and eventually reach the conclusion that its necessities will continue from year to year to be larger than its allowances, then it must have increased allowances, or create a bonded indebtedness, and take up these registered demands of merchants, laborers, clerks and others who may have supplied goods or rendered services deemed to be absolutely necessary at the time they were supplied or rendered in the maintenance of the city government."

ZOLA AS A HUMBUG.

Rev. E. J. Dupuy Upon the Realistic French Author.

Rev. E. J. Dupuy, in his lecture on Monday night on "Emile Zola," described the writer as resembling a retired merchant, and described the tenor of his works as composed of wrong impressions. According to him, men are hypocrites or brutes; the world is a compound of pretense and filth.

"I am astonished," the lecturer continued, "that he has found followers, and that people have accepted his novels as true. He has only written the dark side of life. His doctrine that there can be no virtue and honesty cannot be accepted. Zola is a great humbug. He has been humbugging the world all through by writing as he does. He has the greatest descriptive power of any French writer of the nineteenth century. His mission has not been achieved, however, because he went downward instead of upward when picturing the human family."

ITS LAST FUNCTION.

The Midwinter Exposition Will Open Its Museum Saturday.

The memorial museum which has been the outcome of the California Midwinter International Exposition, will be opened with appropriate ceremonies on Saturday next, beginning at 2 P. M., at the museum in Golden Gate Park.

The exact programme of the exercises has not yet been settled upon, but interesting ceremonies are promised. The doors will be open during the morning to members of the press, and at 1 o'clock in the afternoon to all persons holding cards of invitation for the special exercises, which will probably continue until 3 o'clock, after which the general public will be admitted, the museum being then in the hands of the Park Commissioners.

A grand stand has been erected close to the Art building, and music will be furnished by the park band.

This will be the last function of the Midwinter Exposition.

WHY YOU HAVE SKIN DISEASE.

First—You have skin disease because it is hereditary with you.

Second—You have skin disease because you have acquired it.

You are not to blame if you have a skin or blood disease that is hereditary. You are to blame if you don't put your general system in a condition to cure it. If you have a skin disease that is acquired, then you are to blame. All skin diseases, whether acquired or hereditary, are due to the lack of proper cleanliness and attention to the organs of digestion and the laws of nature.

If you allow your digestion to become impaired and your blood thin and impoverished you are furnishing food for blood and skin diseases. If you allow your liver to become torpid and the secretions to accumulate in it, then you are inviting skin and blood diseases. If you allow your bowels and kidneys to perform their functions improperly, then you invite diseases of the skin and blood. Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla cures all diseases of the blood and skin by nourishing the system, making pure the blood, regulating the bowels.

E. W. Joy & Co.—Gentlemen: If some doctor will name my disease I will give him a prescription that will cure every case. I was taken sick four years ago. At first I became tired; I could not rest, no appetite, excruciating pains all through my body and limbs, my feet and hands badly swollen, headache, hacking cough, loss of flesh, bowels constipated, my skin yellow and dry, bad taste in my mouth mornings, staggering sensations, faint spells, after eating sense of uneasiness in my stomach. If some doctor will name my disease I will name the remedy.

I have taken only three bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and I am almost entirely well. Please publish this.

E. W. Joy & Co.—Gentlemen: I had La Grippe two years ago this winter and have never been free from the effect of it until two months ago, when I began taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

I had headaches all the time, pain in my back; was very easy to catch cold. I have just completed my second bottle and I feel a very different woman.

Joys for the Jaded and Good Health for All Mankind.

E. W. Joy & Co.—Gentlemen: Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla has done wonders for me. Different physicians told me I had Bright's Disease and that nothing would do me any good.

My sleep was disturbed at night, having to get up from ten to fifteen times a night to pass urine. I had heavy pains in my back, head and limbs. I can now rest all night, sleep well and have gained twenty pounds.

God bless Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

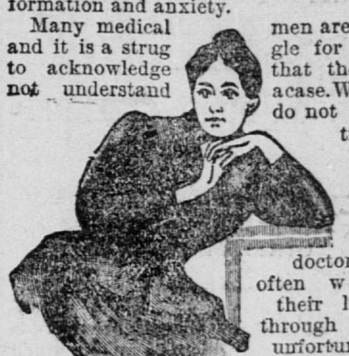
MANY WOMEN SUFFER

FROM LACK OF INFORMATION.

Doctors Are Too Reserved. A Woman Should Be Dealt With Openly.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women are often allowed by their physicians to suffer much from lack of information and anxiety.



Many medical men are vain, and it is a struggle for them to acknowledge that they do not understand a case. Women do not investigate; they have faith in their doctor, and often wreck their lives through this unfortunate confidence.

In the treatment of female diseases men work from theory; and it is not to be expected that they can treat as intelligently those complaints from which they have never suffered, as a woman can who has made the organism and diseases of her sex a life study.

Women afflicted with female diseases are wise in communicating promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Their distressed condition is due to womb trouble, and their symptoms tell the story.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one remedy that removes the cause, and restores health, courage, and happiness. The druggists sell more of it than all other female medicines. Why?

The following short letter speaks for itself. Mrs. Parker is a very young wife; only twenty-one years old. She was suffering untold misery when she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. See the result.

Can evidence be stronger than this?

"I deem it my duty to announce the fact to all my fellow-sufferers of all female complaints that your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me of all the pains and suffering I was enduring when I wrote you last May. I followed your advice to the letter, and the result is wonderful."—Mrs. Chas. Parker, Little Falls, Minn. Any druggist has it.

IN BEHALF OF STATE INDUSTRIES.

OPENING SESSION OF THE MANUFACTURERS' CONVENTION YESTERDAY.

GOVERNOR BUDD ATTENDED.

ADDRESSES UPON PERTINENT TOPICS—THE WINE INDUSTRY AND OTHER MATTERS.

The meeting of the Manufacturers' Convention—an event which means so much to the manufacturers of this city and the State at large—opened its session yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. In addition to the delegates which were present there was a large number of interested spectators, among whom were representatives of various local trade organizations.

When the convention was called to order at 2 P. M. by Hugh Craig, chairman of the advisory committee, the assembly chamber was crowded. Mr. Craig said that General W. H. Dimond, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was ill and, therefore, the duty devolved upon him of calling the convention to order. He then called for nominations for temporary chairman and Andrew S. Hallidie was chosen for the position, he being nominated by Henry T. Scott. Mr. Hallidie ordered the election of secretaries and L. R. Mead of the Risdon Iron Works was chosen corresponding secretary and M. M. Barnet of the Journal of Commerce recording secretary. The vice-presidents were: H. S. Morey, A. A. Watkins, M. H. Hecht, William Llewellyn and W. L. Palmer.

This completed the temporary organization and Hugh Craig was called upon to deliver the address of welcome. Mr. Craig was heartily applauded as he advanced upon the platform. He referred to the illness of President Dimond in fitting terms, and then went on to welcome the delegates. He referred to the proud position which the State of California occupies to-day in the rank of producing States, her yield of wine, wheat, oil and wool is proverbial. Mr. Craig said:

The miner has developed the precious metals to such an extent that we are able to respond to every appeal from Washington for hard money—real money. Thanks to that pioneer in manufacturing in California, William C. Ralston, this is the one State which has never been seduced by the financial heresy of inconvertible paper. In our constitution is to be found that saving clause, that bulwark of sound finance, that gold and silver coin only shall be a lawful money in payment of debts. Hence our State has become a standing lesson in sound currency—all thanks to the miner to whom San Francisco owes so much. Thus far he has only scratched the grass roots. The great mother lode has been drawn from here and there only.

The best and most reliable market for the agriculturist is the local market. This is obtainable only where the population is dense and where manufactures become a leading feature in building up the State. Witness the growth of such cities as Detroit, St. Louis, Philadelphia, New York and Chicago. To foster manufactures we must have cheap and good food. That we have in abundance; a climate where the operative can work in comfort all the year round; our State is unsurpassed in that regard. It is claimed that the actual money value per capita per annum produced by the agriculturist is say $300, and the actual money value produced as the result of the employment of capital and labor by the manufacturer is said to be $1000, hence the advantage instead of exporting a cheap article like wheat, a raw product as it comes from the soil, or wool as it comes from the sheep's back, how infinitely better it must be for the State when we can export a manufactured article worth from three to five times, aye, a hundred times; he value per pound of wheat. [Applause.]

At the conclusion of Mr. Craig's remarks the following committees were appointed:

Credentials—H. S. Morey, Placerville; W. J. Martin, Baden; P. F. Dundon, San Francisco; O. E. Moore and J. B. Crockett.

Ways and Means—Julian Sonntag, J. F. Merrill, A. P. Brayton, Wallis Rosie and W. Palmer.

Permanent Organization—Henry T. Scott, J. A. Knowles, Robert Moore, S. Nickelsburg and George N. Pope.

Resolutions—Louis Saroni, Norton ot Napa, E. A. Denicke, Oscar Lewis and C. A. Wetmore.

After this preliminary business had been gone through with President Hallidie delivered his address. It was an able review of the resources and industries of the State, and the many good points that were brought out evoked applause at different intervals: He said:

The effect of this gathering cannot be otherwise than beneficial, but if the work of trying to resurrect our manufactories stops with the adjournment of this convention, it will fall far short of the purpose in calling you together; and if you believe that by sustaining and stimulating existing industries and by creating new ones you will bring population, progress and prosperity to this State the spirit of this convention must be projected into the future and be kept alive by an active permanent organization having an aggressive auxiliary in every county in the State, so that every man, woman and child may learn their duty. They must be taught local pride and State patriotism, and to realize the fact that they will have a better community if they support their neighbors, who by manual labor are trying to make a living by making some useful thing.

After Mr. Hallidie had spoken the report of the committee on resolutions was read. It was as follows:

WHEREAS, The moral and physical advancement of a State depends upon the active and remunerative employment of its citizens and the fostering and developing of such diversified industries as can successfully maintain themselves within the limits of this State, and whereas recently there has been in California a marked diminution in the number of industrial establishments and in the volume of business commanded by such industries as remain in operation, and whereas this convention has been called for the purpose of encouraging and stimulating existing industries, whether relating to the products of the soil or manufacturing, and for the further purposes of considering ways for the creating and maintaining new industries, be it therefore

Resolved, That it is the duty of each citizen having the welfare of the State at heart to strengthen and fortify all those whose capital and labor are engaged in occupations that give active, honest and remunerative employment to the men and women of this State, and to give practical aid to such by buying and inducing others to buy the products of such employment.

Resolved, That it is the duty of all private corporations doing business under the laws and the "members" of such industry be known as "member" of such "class."

That the members of each class appoint their own committees for the purposes of their special work, and that each class appoint one or more members as representative in the main organization. That each class appoint its own committee for the preparation of papers for the State convention.

That the selected appointees from each class shall collectively be known as the executive committee, which committee will meet once a month, and before which all propositions, grievances and matters of interest be presented.

That the by-laws and constitution shall properly define the duties, work and power of all committees.

That the executive committee shall likewise be empowered to prepare the programme and shall arrange for the convention.

That membership to this organization may be composed of all producers, taking Webster's definition of the word—to wit, "One who grows agricultural products or manufactures crude materials into articles of use."

That all such be termed active members.

That brokers, merchants and others may become members of this organization, when such broker, merchant or other handle the products of the State exclusively.

That the executive committee appoint subcommittees respectively on transportation, taxes, insurance, telephone and telegraph service, water, electric and gas light service, labor, finance, legislation, general relief, with the view of bringing the transportation companies into friendlier relationship with the producer and to treat with them in a common cause, as a business proposition and on business principles, determined, yet free from passion or prejudice, in equity, good faith and honor; to present to them propositions for the future that will tend to develop our State and endeavor to obtain and merit their co-operation; to endeavor to lessen taxes on manufactures; to reduce the costs of insurance, telephones, water and light; to treat with labor when it feels itself abused; to accumulate funds for the advancement of new enterprises; to be properly represented in the legislatures for the purposes of general relief; to enact laws defining and making clear and limiting the responsibilities of employers.

We recommend a committee on general relief, which shall use its endeavors to maintain industries unable for the time to be self-supporting under such conditions as may be promulgated later, and that funds for this purpose be raised and that our State Legislature be asked to assist in the undertaking under the principle that the employment of labor in legitimate enterprises will tend to lessen the cost of maintaining our public institutions, elevate morals, develop the State and decrease crime.

We disapprove of the degradation of free and honest labor in being brought into competition with convict labor. We approve of the use and employment of the products of State manufactures in all public buildings. We recommend action in the matter of fuel and pray our efforts meet with success. We call attention to the abuse, by those importing Eastern merchandise, of our long and lenient credits, and suggest that a change in our system be made to meet the customs of our Eastern competitors.

We hope for a change in our banking system to meet Eastern customs, to further the development of industries. We call attention to the disadvantages of merchants carrying stocks, paying taxes, etc., as compared to the broker with his office and line of samples. We recognize that distributors are valuable to us only when partial to local products, and we believe that general favor and disfavor build and destroy, and while disavowing boycotts, a general diffusion of sentiment in favor of home products will certainly manifest itself. We recommend that the various trades workmen may select a representative for each line of industry, and that such representatives meet with the executive committee at stated times for the purpose of consultation, believing, as we do, that a friendly and business relationship should exist between labor and the employer of labor, and that the best results may be obtained in such harmonious exchange of ideas and co-operation. We believe that a branch of this organization should be established in each county of the State, with representations in the executive committee.

We recommend co-operation with the State Board of Trade, the Half-million Club and other similar institutions designed to promote population and development, that their efforts in creating the population may be furthered by our finding satisfactory and profitable occupation and employment for it.

Chairman Hallidie announced that the Union Iron Works extended an invitation to the members of the convention to take a trip around the bay in a vessel to be provided by the works. The invitation was accepted and thanks were tendered to the iron works. A day will be set hereafter for the date of the excursion.

At this point in the proceedings a message was received stating that Governor Budd would not be able to attend until late in the afternoon. The chairman then suggested that business be carried on until the arrival of the chief executive.

Delegate P. F. Dundon thereupon arose to say that he thought the labor unions should have a better representation in the body. There were three delegates from the Labor Council present, but Mr. Dundon thought that there should be a representative from each labor organization in the city on hand in order that labor and capital should work hand in hand.

Delegate McGlynn did not think that this was a feasible plan for the reason that it would take a month to get delegates from the sixty trade unions of the city.

After some discussion, it was decided that the three delegates from the Federation of Labor should represent the workingmen of the city in the convention.

Pending the arrival of the Governor, Delegate A. Sbarboro introduced a paper on the wine industries of the State, which was highly appreciated, judging by the applause. He began by referring to the depression in the wine industry and the formation of the California Wine-makers' corporation. It had gained control of nine-tenths of the wine of 1893-94, and in a few months raised the price of ordinary wine from 6 cents to 12½ cents per gallon, at which latter figure 6,000,000 gallons of wine have already been sold; and, furthermore, an agreement had been entered into with the principal wine-dealers in the city whereby future prices shall be regulated so as to give a fair living price to the grape-growers and wine-makers alike. Mr. Sbarboro said:

The price obtained for wine by the producer and that paid by the consumer has been unreasonably disproportionate. There have been instances where the producer has received 10 cents per gallon for his wine, which after having been put up in so-called pint bottles, has been sold on the cars and in some hotels as high as $1 per bottle, thus making the consumer pay about $10 per gallon for an article for which the producer receives about 10 cents per gallon. It is the aim of this co-operative combination to do away with such unreasonable charges, and at the same time to permit only sound and good wine to be furnished to the consumer; all unsound wine will hereafter go to the distillery. There is room in this State for a very large increase of the wine industry. The 20,000,000 gallons of wine which is now produced annually as an average in this State would be consumed in Italy and France in a single city having the population of San Francisco.

In former years there was a prejudice against our wines, but now the prejudice has been overcome, especially since it has been admitted by experts and juries at the United States and foreign exhibits that our ordinary wine is far superior to that produced in Europe, and that with the exception of a few extraordinarily fine wines of France we can produce here as fine a table wine as is made in France, Italy or Spain.

When Mr. Sbarboro had concluded Governor Budd entered the hall, and as he advanced to the platform he was roundly applauded. He was brought forward by the chairman, who facetiously remarked that an introduction was hardly necessary.

Governor Budd made a brief speech. He said:

I have been introduced as the Governor of the State, but to tell the trnth I am almost sick of being the Governor. [Laughter.] I came to San Francisco on important business, and have been devoting my time to bills and other matters. I have met your Mayor and Supervisors and others, and, to tell the truth, I informed your committee that I was too busy even to attend here. But they would not have it that way, and here I am. I don't know what advice I can give you on the industrial question. I know Stockton is a great manufacturing town. [Laughter.] This State should be one of the greatest manufacturing States of the Union, and with its manufacturers properly organized it could compete with the world. We have iron, wood, coal, gold and silver, and, best of all, the bone and sinew to utilize these and develop them. I am heartily in favor of any movement which will benefit the State, and especially an industrial one like this. Although a Democrat, I favor the protection of our State industries. [Applause.]

When the Governor had resumed his seat, a motion to adjourn until 10 o'clock this morning was carried.

GLACIERS OF THE SIERRAS.

Professor Le Conte Talks of the Glacial Period of California.

The "Glaciers of the Sierras" was the title of a very interesting lecture delivered last night in Young Men's Christian Association Hall, by Professor Le Conte of the Berkeley University, to a large audience.

The lecturer, in a comprehensive manner, gave an account of the formation of glaciers and the condition in which they left the surface of the earth when heat had melted the ice. He also told of the movement of the earth on its axis and the variation in space.

He devoted considerable attention to Croll's theory that the alteration of climates come about during a period of great eccentricity of the earth's orbit, that glacial conditions would then supervene in that hemisphere whose winter happens in aphelion, while the opposite hemisphere a mild climate would extend up to the polar regions. He also holds that the procession of the equinoxes by changing the incidence of the seasons would revolutionize the climate over both hemispheres and cold conditions supervene, and thus in course of time that which had been the warm hemisphere would be the cold one and the reverse. He also holds that great alterations of climate would occur every 10,500 years and that the last period of eccentricity to which the ice age is believed to be due began more than 200,000 years ago and lasted for 160,000 years.

The lecturer said that while English and European geologists accepted Croll's theory Americans were not so ready to accept it. Alfred Wallace had modified the views of Professor Croll, and these are now accepted by many. He then devoted himself to the glacial epoch in California, and declared that there are many magnificent evidences of that period. There are records left by the sea, those left by the ice, those by the river beds and those by the great lakes. On the Santa Barbara Islands have been found remains of the mammoth, also on the island of Santa Rosa. Along the coast are to be seen terraces at various levels, up as high as 3000 feet above the present sea level.

These he cited as proof of the existence of the glaciers. He declared that the entire San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys had been at one time covered by a sea and that the Yosemite Valley had once been an immense field of ice. Glaciers, he said, once filled the canyons of the Sierra Nevadas, some of them being between forty and fifty miles long. Glaciers had also existed in the mountains back of the University and one of them had left a terminal moraine. He spoke of the traces left by the ice and closed with a brief description of the great Tuolumne glacier.

IS NOT AN AGREED CASE.

HOW THE MARKET-STREET RAILROAD COMPANY'S BOND SUIT STARTED.

WHITTELL NEVER OFFERED TO SELL CENTRAL STOCK AT PAR VALUE.

George Whittell has filed a counter affidavit in answer to those filed by the parties to the suit over the Market-street bonds, and in which they oppose his motion to be allowed to file a brief in the case as amicus curiæ. The affidavit throws some light upon the nature of the agreed case now before the Supreme Court.

In the affidavits filed by the parties to the suit it was claimed that Whittell had offered to sell his stock in the Central Railroad Company for $10,000. This the affidavit denies. The market value, he admits, is about $10 a share, but it is now incumbered by the heavy bonded indebtedness of other roads which have entered the combination and has been forced down in price in consequence. When the Central Railroad entered the combination, he avers, it was unincumbered and each share of stock was worth at least $100. The affidavit continues;

Affiant was willing to join in an agreed cause of action for the purpose of having the court, if possible, settle the questions raised by affiant as to the legality of the alleged consolidation, and for the purpose of the agreed case affiant was willing to concede that the value of the Central Railroad properties was not less than $500,000. Accordingly an agreed case was made up containing such statement as to value, and was signed by affiant and his attorney, and was agreed to and signed by Mr. J. E. Foulds, as the attorney representing the Market-street Railroad Company; and the plaintiff herein (the Market-street Railroad Company) amended and patched up the statement of the agreed case without the consent of affiant, and struck out the statement as to the value of the Central Railroad Company, to which its attorney had agreed, and inserted therein the false and absurd statement of $140,000 "and upward." That affiant refused to sign or agree to the amended agreed case, containing such valuation, because he did not intend to make any such admission as to value, which would be false, and which might be used against him in the then pending suit by him against the plaintiff, should the court decide that the questions involved could not be adjudicated in an agreed case.

This suit, on an agreed state of facts, the affiant says in conclusion, is prejudicing the action he has already brought to test the legality of the combination, and which is still pending.

Hunting the Giraffe.

The bush is horribly dense and thorny and the thorns are of such a nature that the strongest cord breeches can scarcely withstand their assaults. The old giraffe bulls, with hides nearly an inch thick, care for no thorn in the forest and plunge through the armed thickets as though they were black currant bushes. There is only one thing to be done—to forget the sickle thorns and follow them. The spurs go in, the gallant pony springs forward and the chase begins. It is truly headlong. Crash go the tall giants, their long necks rising and falling rhythmically, their heads sometimes bending low to escape a bough which all but scrapes the withers.

It is wonderful how such monstrous game can evade branches and tack this way and that among the interruptions and obstacles of the forest. It is a tough gallop, but in ten minutes the hunter has driven his pony right up to the tail of the nearest bull, and from the saddle has fired his shot. He falls behind a little, then closes up and fires again. Both bullets, planted close to the root of the tail, have plowed deep into the short body of the giraffe and done their work. The painted giant falters, sways and then in an instant falls crashing to earth, carrying with him in his ruin a stout sapling.

Dark chestnut of coat (almost black with age upon the back), this old bull, measuring nineteen feet from the hoof to the tip of the false horns, forms a noble prize indeed. As he lies there in the long yellow grass he looks surely the strangest of all survivals of the fauna of the dark ages—a priceless and pathetic relic left to the modern world by the ravages of time.—Saturday Review.

NOT A THOUSAND FOR ALICE EDITH.

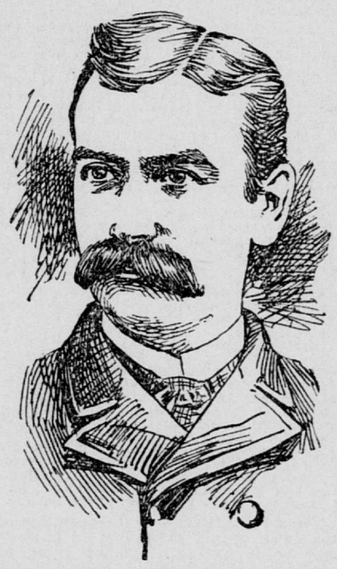
JUDGE A. R. CATTON HOLDS HER IRREVOCABLE POWER OF ATTORNEY.

In the recent so-called settlement of the Blythe case Mrs. Alice Edith Blythe signed no less than nineteen separate deeds and papers—all for a consideration of less than $1000. The matter was arranged by Detective Lucas, and D. J. Sinclair, who has posed as the particular friend of Mrs. Blythe, was simply the messenger sent to notify Mr. Highton of the proceedings.

The attorney who represented Mrs. Blythe in the matter was John R. Aitken, whose offices are at 402 Montgomery street. Mr. Aitken was formerly Superior Judge in San Diego County and afterward practiced law in that city. When on the death of her mother two years ago Mrs. Blythe visited San Diego to look after the estate, she met Mr. Aitken professionally and the acquaintance which followed led to his employment in the present instance. When questioned concerning his connection with the transaction yesterday, Judge Aitken said:



Judge Aitken, Alice Edith's New Legal Adviser.

"Yes, I was consulted by Mrs. Blythe in respect to the settlement and I presume all the advice that she has received was from me. I was not, however, asked to pass upon her standing in the Blythe case, but was required only to give an opinion on certain deeds and papers as to their being in proper legal form and also as to whether not by executing them Mrs. Blythe would render herself liable to criminal prosecution because of her former assignment of interest to another person.

The matter was brought to my attention about two weeks ago by a gentleman whose name I shall not mention. He asked if I would object to rendering an opinion for Mrs. Blythe on certain papers relating to the Blythe estate. I was at first disinclined to act in the matter because I knew that other attorneys had been representing her, but upon learning just what service was desired—that it did not involve an opinion upon her standing in the Blythe case or any interference with that case—I consented.

"The first paper submitted purported to be a proposition from Mrs. Blythe to Mrs. Hinekley that the former should assign all her remaining interest. This proved to be in proper form and it was signed by Mrs. Blythe. Some days later other papers were submitted. They were nineteen in number and were quitclaim and grant deeds from Mrs. Blythe to Florence Blythe Hinckley, covering all the Blythe property in this State, in Oregon, in Arizona and in Mexico. Eight of the documents related to property in Mexico. They were drawn up in Spanish and were in the form of original conveyances.

"The others related to property in the United States, and they, with one exception, were quitclaim deeds. The exception referred to a mine in Arizona belonging to the estate, and that was a grant deed.

"Another paper executed by Mrs. Blythe was an irrevocable power of attorney to dismiss all suits relating to the Blythe estate that may be brought hereafter in her name, whether they be brought in the United States or in the republic of Mexico. To whom was intrusted that power? To Judge Catton—Aylett R. Catton, I believe his name is.

"The consideration? Well, I do not know that I ought to divulge that, though of course Mrs. Blythe has nothing to conceal in the matter. It was, however, a lump sum and not an allowance. Large? Oh, no. In fact, you would be greatly surprised to know how small it was. It was considerably less than $1000."

It was learned later that the sum was between $800 and $900; also, that Detective Lucas was the mysterious visitor who first employed Mr. Aitken.

"Mrs. Blythe's reason for executing the papers," continued Mr. Aitken, "was a desire to avoid more worry and litigation. From my former acquaintance with her I can say that when she came to my office to sign those papers—and she was there three or four times—she was a very sick woman.

"A published statement made last Sunday was false. Mrs. Blythe has not abandoned the name of Blythe nor was any agreement that she should or would do so included in those documents.

"In no way and at no time has she receded one iota from the stand taken by her in the beginning, that she was the wife of Thomas H. Blythe. The published statement to the contrary has annoyed her, and I know she wishes it corrected."

Mrs. Blythe has been staying with a lady friend in the Western Addition. She feels that she has a grievance against Attorney Highton, because, as she says, she was to receive from him an allowance approximating $50 a month during the proceedings, and this has not been paid since last December.

Detective Lucas, she says, has accomplished his work for her and is no longer in her employ. Mr. Sinclair has talked a great deal about the case, and the lady expresses her opinion that he would have served her interests much better if he had held his tongue.

Mr. Highton, when told last night of the character of the documents executed by Mrs. Blythe, did not seem much alarmed, and expressed the opinion that they must hold only subject to the former transfer.

A few days ago Mr. Highton, in speaking of the coming complaint in equity and its charges of fraud and conspiracy, said that attorneys John Garber, John Boalt and W. W. Foote would not be made defendants in it, for he had known them for years and was convinced of their integrity.

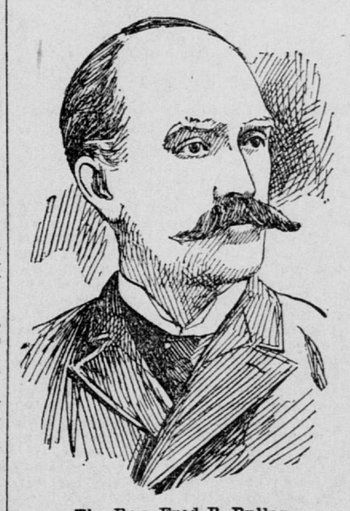
THE LIFE OF JESUS CHRIST.

REV. FREDERICK B. PULLAN'S INTERESTING LECTURE ON OUR SAVIOR.

THE LESSONS THAT ARE TO BE DRAWN FROM THE MIRACLES HE PERFORMED.

Rev. Frederick B. Pullan of the Third Congregational Church delivered the third of a series of lectures on the life of Christ, to young men, Monday evening, in the lecture-room of the Young Men's Christian Association. The lecture was illustrated with a number of stereopticon views.

The lecturer declared that Christ was like us in life, but that he was without sin, and dwelt at some length upon his mission upon earth and spoke of the miracles he performed, which, he said, were signs of God being with us.



The Rev. Fred B. Pullan.
[From an engraving.]

Drawing attention to the picture on the screen, representing Christ at the marriage feast at Cana, where water was turned into wine, he said that there Christ made manifest the naturalness of his power by the act of supplying that which was needed. This miracle, if such it can be called, the lecturer said, is occurring every day, for the water falls from heaven, finds its way through the earth to the roots of the vines, and then ascends and finally turns into bunches of beautiful grapes, from which is extracted the juice which becomes the wine. What Christ performed was to make manifest that he alone was nature, and that this was to teach the people that he was what he asserted.

Mr. Pullan then drew attention to the other miracles with which all are familiar, and used these to prove that we should have faith in Christ, and in that faith know that we have a friend in Jesus Christ.

These miracles, the lecturer said, were for the purpose of strengthening the faith of his disciples, and Christ gave them as a sign that he had the power of God. In an eloquent manner he then spoke of the lessons that are to be drawn from the acts of our Savior.

The Balloon Ballast Froze.

The balloon Albatross, belonging to the military in Berlin, made an ascent last Friday in order to ascertain what effect the intense cold would have on the balloon and instruments. The balloon sailed away over Spandau, went over the Elbe, and, after a voyage of ten hours, came down toward 7 P. M. near the Baltic. At 1600 meters the wind was from the south-southwest; at 2000 meters there was a perfect calm, so that the balloon stood quite still for an hour over a village. It had, therefore, to descend to catch another wind. The cold was so intense at the higher points that the moist sand in the sacks was frozen into compact stone. Naturally the meat and other provisions were frozen hard and not fit to be used. The two German and one Austrian officer who undertook the voyage suffered a great deal.—London News.

The amount of gold produced last year in British Guiana was 138,527 ounces.
